Application Made To P.O.S. For Park Construction

The final application for the first phase of development of the McHenry Recreational Park was submitted to Program Open Space for supplemental funding last week, according to John Nelson, county liaison officer. The total estimated construction cost of phase I is $38,594, of which 75 percent will be funded through POS. The local share of 25 percent will be supplied by the Deep Creek Lake Lions Club, the project sponsor, through volunteer labor and direct funds for development.

Program Open Space, through which Maryland subdivisions may obtain funding for acquisition and development of recreational facilities, is administered by the Capital Programs Administration of the Department of Natural Resources. The State Board of Public Works, made up of Governor Harry Hughes, Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein and Treasurer William S. James, approved acquisition of 32.5 acres of land located on Bumble Bee Road, McHenry last December, for the McHenry Recreational Park.

The Deep Creek Lions Club is looking toward a five-year plan for construction of an enclosed building for year-round use, multi-purpose ball fields, an ice skating rink, tennis courts, a basketball court, an amphitheatre, nature trails, parking areas and picnic areas. The first phase of development will include construction of a multi-use ball field, a parking area and four clay tennis courts designed to accommodate flooding for ice skating use in the winter.

Nelson stated that the tennis courts will be partially undeveloped, as there will be no fencing surrounding them. The major part of the rough grading of the ball field has been completed through a trade-off agreement between Texas Eastern Company and the Garrett County Commissioner, owners of the property.

Texas Eastern Company excavated the ball field in exchange for the use of the park's access road. Jack Lear, president of the Lions Club, stated that a CETA crew is working on cleaning out and draining the property. He added that the club hopes to have the field ready for use by the spring of 1982. The next phase of development will involve construction of a year-round building, Lear added, to be a concrete structure with storage space, restrooms, heat and water, and a multi-purpose room.

Council Forms Corporate Board For WESTMAR

The Tri-County Council for Western Maryland has announced the formation of the WESTMAR Synfuels Corporation to promote the development of a synfuels industry in the Upper Potomac Valley.

Those selected as corporate directors are business and industrial leaders in West Virginia and Maryland and include Irving M. Day, Nelson E. Hagerty, Donald R. Herschberger, Francis A. Kenney, Daniel F. McMullen, Jr., Charles O. Morris and Harland Rudder.

Ex officio members of the corporation include West Virginia Governor John D. Rockefeller, IV, Maryland Governor Harry Hughes, Senators Robert Byrd, Charles Mathias, Jennings Randolph and Paul Sarbanes, and Representatives Cleveland Benedict and Beverly Byron.

The Council began the WESTMAR project in August 1980 when it used Appalachian Regional Commission Funds to award a contract to the Stone & Webster Engineering Company to conduct a feasibility study for a large synfuel plant in the Upper Potomac Valley. Stone & Webster's report confirmed the viability of the project and identified a number of companies interested in becoming potential members of the business group.

In recent months the WESTMAR business group has been augmented with the addition of several new members who have expressed interest in joining Delta Industries in taking the lead in the project. These firms do not wish to be identified at this time.

Additional support has come from Buffalo Coal Company;

Potomac Electric Power Company; Mettiki Coal Corporation, a division of Mapco, Inc.; The Island Creek Coal Company; the Columbia Gas Transmissions Corporation; the Potomac Edison Company, a part of Allegheny Power System; and the Dravo Corporation.

Current plans for the project call for converting 10,000 tons of coal per day to 45,000 barrels of methanol at a large industrial site on the border of Maryland and West Virginia.

A planning meeting of the business group and corporate directors is scheduled for August 19.

Think Safety!

Summer Safety--Fans

A Service of Underwriters Laboratories Inc.

It's hot, sticky and you begin to believe life would be unbearable were it not for that breeze provided by a portable electric fan on the table next to you.

At a time like this not much thought is directed towards the safety of this equipment, only toward the relief it provides. For many years Underwriters Laboratories Inc. (UL) has been concerned that portable electric fans be designed so as to reduce both electrical and fire hazards, as well as greatly lessen possible hazards involving contact with the blades of the fan.

The electric and moving parts of the fan should be enclosed or adequately guarded. The concern over properly designed guards and enclosures is particularly aimed at protecting children.

The guard or grill should be permanently attached to the fan, requiring two separate operations or five pounds of pressure to disengage, or requiring the use of tools to remove.

In UL testing of electric fan designs, a probe is inserted into the openings of the grill to simulate a human finger or toe. The probe has a one inch diameter that tapers to 1/8 inch. A properly constructed grill will not have openings large enough to permit the probe to contact the moving parts of the fan.

UL also conducts tests to determine that a fan is designed with proper stability. The fan is subjected to such stability tests whether it is off, on, or operating at maximum speed. Even with the use of a fan whose design has been tested certain operating precautions should be followed:

County Board Adds Nest Lick Road To County System

The Board of Garrett County Commissioners Tuesday adopted into the county roads system a 1700-foot segment of a road leading to the Nest Lick Acres housing development.

The commissioners made their decision one week after a public hearing attended by 14 Nest Lick Acres residents.

The segment of road adopted into the county system begins along U. S. 219 and ends at the boundary of the development.

A resident who testified at the public hearing had pointed out that the segment of road is a public safety hazard and yet is heavily used.

In other business, the commissioners consented to a request by Diana Wawzinski, county housing coordinator, to apply for an Appalachian Regional Commission technical assistance grant.

The grant, if obtained, would be used for consultants to analyze physical problems at the Bradley Manor housing complex for low income families.

The purpose would be to determine what repairs would be needed at the deteriorating housing complex.

The commissioners awarded a bid of $7,860 to Honeywell, Bridgeport, W. Va., for maintenance of the air conditioning and heating system at the county courthouse complex. The commissioners noted they were saving money by contracting the work with Honeywell, because otherwise they would have had to hire a trained technician.

The commissioners awarded a bid to American Solar Tinting for work to coat the exterior of the jail windows and courthouse complex skylights. The main reason noted by the commissioners for the work was to hide jail prisoners from public view. The material to be used also has some insulation properties.

The bid price was $1,929.

Cases Probed By Md. State Police

Maryland State Police report several incidents involving investigation and arrest in the district throughout the last ten days.

Charles Bradley Swauger, 17, Green Lantern Road, Lonaconing, was accidentally shot in the leg while hunting woodchucks in that area on Wednesday.

According to the report, Swauger and Ronnie Allen Stark were exchanging the handgun when it accidentally discharged, striking Swauger.

No charges were made, and the incident was recorded as unintentional.

In other police news, the M & S Stone Quarry, Grantsville, reported the theft of 300 gallons of gasoline, and a tool box containing socket sets and wrenches sometime Saturday.

Unknown culprits cut a hose on a fuel tank to drain the gasoline.

Loss was estimated at $800. The investigation is continuing.

Lawrence Patrick Kenny, 22, Frostburg, was injured in a dispute last week with Lawson Leo Duckworth, 40, also of Frostburg.

According to reports, the two were socializing earlier, when an argument broke out involving a knife.

Duckworth was charged with assault, assault and battery, and assault with intent to maim.

In last week's report, it was stated that Sheila Elaine Boyce discharged six rounds of ammunition from a handgun during a domestic dispute in her home. The police report shows the person responsible for that action was Carroll Lynn Werdebaugh.

Temperature Drop

Average temperatures dropped a bit this week and the long stretch of rain seems to have let up.

High and low temperatures and precipitation levels for the week were, Wednesday, high 67 degrees, low 59 degrees, .33 precipitation; Thursday, 73, 42, trace of precip.; Friday, 76, 44, 0 precip.; Saturday, 77, 49, 0 precip.; Sunday, 80, 50, 0 precip.; Monday, 79, 65, .58 precip.; and Tuesday, 81, 62, .18 precip. The overnight low was 66 degrees.

Health Officer Issues Warning About Raccoons

It was announced this week by William W. Pope, M.D., Garrett County Health Officer, that several cases involving the possession of raccoons as pets have come to his attention. Although this may be legal if the animal is captured during the hunting season and a Natural Resources permit is obtained, it is a hazardous health practice, according to Dr. Pope.

Pope said there has been an outbreak of rabies in raccoons during the past four years, with infected animals being identified in the West Virginia counties of Mineral, Hampshire, Hardy and Pendleton, as well as in five counties in Virginia.

Rabies in wild animals does not have the classic symptoms and short incubation period common to dogs and cats. Pope said. The disease may be present and communicable in a normal appearing raccoon. It is also not possible, he said, to protect a raccoon from the disease by the vaccines which are used for dogs and cats.

Rabies can be prevented by avoiding contact with susceptible wild animals such as raccoons, skunks and bats, vaccination of household dogs and cats, and by vaccines and sera when a person is bitten by a rabid animal. The treatments to prevent the disease if started soon after exposure are effective, Pope said, but cost over $500 per case. However, he warned, once the disease catches hold in the human being and shows its first sign, the disease is incurable and death follows rapidly.

Correction Noted

In an article which appeared on page 13 of last week's edition of The Republican, entitled "Garrett Runners to Meet Tuesday," the time of the ten-kilometer fun run scheduled for Saturday, August 22, at the McHenry Campus of Garrett Community College was reported incorrectly. The starting time for the run is 9 a.m., not 9 p.m. The Republican regrets the error.

Legal Aid Bureau Announces August Outreach Schedule

The Western Maryland Office of the Legal Aid Bureau, Inc. will maintain an outreach schedule for persons in Garrett, Southern Allegany and western Washington counties in August, attorney Anne B. Wilson announced Monday.

Staff members of Legal Aid will be available to discuss legal problems with persons at the following location: August 14 and August 26, 10-2, Oakland Center of Garrett Community College; August 28, 10-12 noon, at the Health Center.

Legal Aid Bureau, Inc. is a federally-funded organization of lawyers and other professionals which provides legal assistance in civil matters to qualified persons. The Western Maryland office was opened in December, 1978, to cover the needs of low-income people in the three western counties of the state. Services are available free of charge to anyone whose income and property holdings are below certain federally-mandated levels.

The central office for the Legal Aid Bureau of Western Maryland is located at 110 Greene Street, Cumberland. The office can be reached from the Oakland area by dialing 334-8832.

Whenever possible, persons needing assistance should call to schedule an appointment for one of the outreach locations or for an appointment at the central office in Cumberland, Ms. Wilson said.

Grantsville One Step Away From League Title

The players making up the Grantsville team in the Bi-State Pony League will be anxious to take the field this evening at Ellerslie because it could mean the final step to the championship title, as well as the regular season crown. The Garrett Countians are facing Ellerslie in a best-of-three series and have already whipped the Pennsylvanians 12-1 in the first contest Monday evening at Grantsville.

In that game Greg Diehl provided most of the offensive fireworks for Grantsville with a home run and a pair of singles and also worked two innings in relief on the mound.

Ellerslie opened the scoring with a single run in the second inning, however their lead was short-lived as Grantsville responded with five runs in their half of the second. Lamar Beiler, Charley Beiler and Tim Beachy each finished with a double and single for the winners.

Tim Williams and Pat Ostrowsky led the losers' hitting, each recording a double. Gaining credit for the win from the mound was Brent Beachy who went five innings.

Grantsville earned a final berth by stopping Tri-Towns in a best-of-three semi-final series.

Oakland Team Takes Third In Tri-Towns Series

The Oakland Little League All-Stars, Junior Division, wound up in third place in the Tri-Towns Little League World Series in West Virginia after falling to Keyser last night, 10-2, in a semi-finals contest. There were 16 teams participating in the double-elimination tournament. Keyser will face Cresaptown this afternoon in what could be the finale. If Keyser wins, however, another game will be played between the two teams later in the evening.

In reaching the semi-finals, Oakland topped Cresaptown B team last Wednesday, 3-0, as Manual Moon scattered four hits and fanned ten.

Then on Saturday afternoon, the Oaklanders played their second extra-inning game in the series and nipped Fort Ashby 1-0. Mike Weimer pitched six innings, giving up only two hits and striking out six, and Moon tossed the seventh inning to hang on to the win.

Oakland scored the only run of the game in the seventh when J. R. Tasker crossed the plate on a sacrifice fly by Mike Weimer. Tasker had doubled to get on base and went to third on a single by Moon.

Robbie Germain was the recipient of a new baseball for his outstanding defensive play in right field.

Cresaptown A team handed Oakland its first defeat of the tourney on Sunday 4-0. Dave Deter, Donnie Raines and Donnie Strange each hit solo home runs for the winners.

Oakland had the bases loaded in the second, third and sixth innings, but was unable to come up with a score. Manual Moon gave up only four hits, three of which were home runs, however.

Against Keyser last evening, Tim Chapman took the loss, while Joey Farris and Mike Smith rapped home runs for the winners.

The 60th annual Western Maryland Tennis Tournament got underway officially this morning at the courts in Mt. Lake Park, although some preliminary matches were held yesterday, according to Dave DeGraft, president of the Mt. Lake Park Tennis Club and referee of the tournament. Well over 100 entries have registered to compete in the event, one of the oldest sanctioned amateur tennis tourneys in the eastern United States.

Categories of competition include men's and women's singles; senior men's, 45 to 55; senior men's 55 and over; men's and women's doubles and mixed doubles.

DeGraft stated that the number competing the men's singles competition is the largest in several years and he also expects a large number of teams in the mixed doubles this year.

Seeded first in the men's singles is Ray Lake, of the Washington, D. C. area, who is ranked in the mid-Atlantic state region. The number two seed is Peter Lyons, who is ranked number five in New England states. Kevin Manning, also of the Washington area, is the number three seed and the fourth seed is a toss-up between Gary Addy, Washington area, and Mark Snyder, Baltimore.

Among the players in the senior men's competition will be Bill Mathias, who is ranked nationally. Other familiar names in this class are Mickey Pardew, a former winner of the event, and Bill Pollard, a ranked player in Virginia.

The doubles team of Mark Flemming and Dave Simmons, ranked third in West Virginia, is also expected to participate.

DeGraft stated that several players from as far away as the New England states and several mid-Atlantic states will be competing in the tournament, which will run at least through Sunday. Various courts in the Oakland area, besides the four clay-surfaced courts in Mt. Lake Park, are being used for the event.

The honorary referee of the tourney is United States Senator Jennings Randolph,

Senior Black Midshipman Expelled; Naval Academy Denies Discrimination

ANNAPOLIS (UPI) — A U.S. Naval Academy official Tuesday flatly denied allegations that a black midshipman was expelled from the school a month before this year's graduation because of racial discrimination.

School spokesman Dennis Boxx said senior Midshipman Donnell J. Green of Baltimore was expelled because of general disciplinary problems that had earned him nearly three times the number of demerits permitted during a three year tour as an enlisted man in the Marine Corps.

Boxx said seniors are normally permitted no more than 145 demerits in a year, but by the time Green's senior year was assessed 425 demerits.

Boxx said as a result, the school's eight-member academic board recommended that Green be discharged from the academy.

Green, however, maintained the fight was the reason he was ordered dismissed, noting that his white roommate was permitted to graduate and be commissioned.

"The February (fighting) incident was only an element of overall conduct," said Boxx. "The academic board recommendation was based on a cumulative of demerits resulting in an unsatisfactory overall performance."

The Maryland Newsfront

Boxx said Mr. Green was assessed 200 demerits.

Boxx said seniors are normally permitted no more than 145 demerits in a year, but by the time Green's senior year was assessed 425 demerits.

Boxx said as a result, the school's eight-member academic board recommended that Green be discharged from the academy.

Green, however, maintained the fight was the reason he was ordered dismissed, noting that his white roommate was permitted to graduate and be commissioned.

Green appeared personally before the board, after which it voted unanimously to recommend that "Mr. Green displayed insufficient aptitude to become a commissioned officer," Boxx said.

Green's attorney, W. Leroy Maddox, said, "As far as I'm concerned, a lot of discrimination goes on at the Naval Academy."

If Green had graduated, he would have been the 36th black and the 121st member of a minority group among the 941 graduates of 1981.

Since Midshipman Wesley Brown became the first black to graduate from the Naval Academy in 1949, 360 blacks have graduated.

Over the period 1970 to 1981, the 10,854 graduates have included 635 members of minority groups, including 325 blacks, Boxx said.

Hearing On Reapportionment Draws Little Interest, Testimony

ANNAPOLIS (UPI) — The meeting Tuesday was billed as a public hearing on legislative reapportionment, but about the only people who showed up were legislators.

Only five people testified at the surprisingly short, 40-minute meeting, and three of them were state lawmakers. Another three dozen senators and delegates watched and listened from seats at the side and back of the room.

When the meeting adjourned, nothing had been decided and very little new had been said.

Delegate John Douglass, a Baltimore Democrat speaking for the Legislative Black Caucus, said the caucus merely wanted to ensure that "Maryland's black population has adequate opportunity for representation."

"We look to the reapportionment effort as an opportunity to increase our representation in both the House and the Senate," he said.

There are currently 20 blacks in the 188-member General Assembly; six in the 47-member Senate and 14 in the 141-member House.

All except Anne Arundel County Republican Sen. Aris Allen are Democrats and are from either Baltimore or Prince George's County, the two areas of the state where legislative representation may be lost because of declining population between 1970 and 1980.

Also testifying at the hearing held by a five-member gubernatorial task force on reapportionment were a delegate from Baltimore County and a senator from Charles County, a woman representing the Republican Party and a private citizen from the Prince George's County community of Morning-side.

Each said why they favored or opposed one or more of several proposed redistricting plans that generally divide the state into large regional areas.

The task force has had such difficulty deciding where to draw the regional lines — not to mention the even more politically sensitive lines for the 47 legislative districts — that it called the public hearing for comment.

Afterwards, Treasurer William S. James, the task force chairman, said the group would try to make a decision on the regional lines at an Aug. 11 meeting that would be followed by five regional meetings. They were scheduled for Aug. 24 in Frederick; Aug. 27 in Waldorf; Aug. 31 in Eastern; Sept. 3 in Towson; and Sept. 10 in Baltimore.

Air Traffic Controllers Strike As State Airports Plan To Remain Open

Striking air traffic controllers at Maryland's largest commercial airport will continue supporting the national walkout even if it means losing their jobs or facing civil and legal penalties, a union spokesman said Tuesday.

A Federal Aviation Administration spokesman said only eight of 19 controllers showed up for the 7 a.m. to 3 p.m. shift at Baltimore-Washington International Airport, forcing cancellation of some flights and causing a deluge of passengers in airline reservation lines. Nine out of 20 showed up for the 3 p.m. to 11 p.m. shift.

Frank Embert, FAA spokesman, said BWI is operating at 60 percent its normal capacity. Twelve pickets, including three wives and three children, protested outside the airport Tuesday.

Neil Tapman, a representative of the local chapter of the Professional Air Traffic Controller Organization, said his members would continue to participate in the walkout that began Monday regardless of the consequences.

"We'll stay out until our national president Bob Pitt tells us to go back," Tapman said. "We are standing pat and all of us are willing to make sacrifices for a cause we feel is just."

Elliott Simons, a union spokesman, said union members would ignore President Reagan's threat to fire all controllers who do not return to work by 11 a.m. Wednesday. "We have accepted and understood from the very beginning that we face criminal civil penalties," he said. "We have accepted that we may be fired."

A temporary restraining order issued Monday by U.S. District Judge Joseph Young in Baltimore orders union leaders at BWI, Andrews Air Force base and Hagerstown Regional Airport to tell their members to return to work at once.

And a federal judge in New York ruled striking controllers are in contempt of court and fined the union $100,000 an hour for as long as the walkout continues. The fines would total $2.4 million a day and are double what the airlines had sought.

"They certainly can't squeeze blood out of a turnip," Tapman said. "That seems like just another tactic to upgrade the pressure and it's a scare tactic."

He would not speculate what the FAA would do if all 13,000 controllers are fired. "That's what we'd like to know, how they would replace us. It takes at least three years to train a controller. Who's going to work the airplanes?" Tapman said.

Meanwhile, five of nine controllers at the Hagerstown airport remained off the job Tuesday and the airport was forced to shorten its normal operating hours from 6:30 a.m. to 10:30 p.m. daily to 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Commercial commuter flights were cut by at least 20 percent.

The U.S. Department of Justice obtained temporary restraining orders against striking controllers in 33 cities to "expedite enforcement," a department spokesman said.

Such orders also bar union officials from distributing strike funds, picketing, or stopping other controllers from reporting for work.

Carroll Hynson, BWI spokesman, said a lot of travelers are making the mistake of not calling airlines to find out if flights are cancelled.

"Most of our planes are fully booked but they are taking off with less than full loads because people aren't calling," he said.

Shahan added the airport may have to shorten its hours if controllers do not return to work Wednesday. Only two of the 13 union controllers reported for work Tuesday.

Epilepsy Researchers Use Video Games To Measure Drug Reactions

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Researchers are using specially wired video games to gauge the possible ill effects of epilepsy drugs on the learning and behavior of children.

What appears to be a normal sequence of children electronically zapping invaders from outer space is actually a scientific test "measuring the number of mistakes they make, reaction time, and the rate at which they are able to learn new information," says Dr. John Freeman, chief of neurology at Johns Hopkins Hospital.

The study is being conducted by researchers at the John F. Kennedy Institute for Handicapped Children and Hopkins University School of Medicine. Study director Freeman said two anti-convulsant drugs approved for epilepsy, phenobarbital and sodium valproate, are being tested for their effects on the learning of 28 children, ages 6 to 14. Studies on the possible ill learning effects of other drugs are planned for testing later.

The results of the study, Freeman said, should determine whether one drug is more effective than the other without causing abnormal behavior.

The researchers want to know which drugs to choose to stop epileptic seizures but at the least cost to the child. During the study, each child will be given phenobarbital for six months and then the other drug, sodium valproate, for another six months.

Only when the entire testing process is over will the researchers be able to determine which drug causes fewer learning and behavioral problems for the child.

It is very probable, Freeman added, that the results of this study on children can also be used in treating adults with epilepsy.

Maryland News In Brief

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The owner of a tavern where a 23-year-old man was fatally wounded said the victim was trying to defuse an argument when he was stabbed in the neck.

Police called to the Weekend Tavern early Monday found Jeffrey Ward of Baltimore lying on a sidewalk outside. He was pronounced dead on arrival at a local hospital.

Police said Ward had been stabbed with a pocket knife.

The tavern owner said the argument began after a man accused a woman customer of stealing his change from the bar. The woman's boyfriend was arguing with her accuser and another customer when Ward stepped in the middle of the altercation, the owner said. A warrant was issued Monday for Peter Maroczynski, 28, of Baltimore, in the slaying.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In a move to fill some of the gap left by the impending demise of the Washington Star, the publisher of five suburban newspapers in the area today announced plans to expand to five days a week.

Geoffrey Edwards, publisher of Journal Newspapers, said the shift from twice-a-week publication will take place Sept. 11.

The firm, owned by Army Times Publishing Co., publishes Journal newspapers in suburban Fairfax and Arlington counties, and the city of Alexandria in Virginia, and in Montgomery and Prince George's counties in Maryland.

BALTIMORE (UPI) — City detectives identified a 39-year-old man found shot to death in a residential street as Alton Alston of Baltimore.

Authorities said Alston was shot once in the head with a handgun. His body was discovered by a city policeman early Saturday.

Police delayed release of the victim's name until his relatives could be notified.

There are no suspects in the murder, police said.

They "Shoot" Horses . . . Track Officials Tighten Pre-Race Testing At Timonium Races

TIMONIUM, Md. (UPI) — Timonium Race Course has tightened its pre-race testing of horses since chief veterinarian Dave Paice was fired last month, race track veterinarians said Tuesday.

"I wouldn't call it a crackdown, but we are definitely getting fussier," said Pat Brackett, one of two vets working the Baltimore County track.

More horses have been scratched in recent days than in the early weeks of the season, racing officials said. Eight were scratched in the first 12 days alone of racing at Timonium.

Officials added that the pre-race examinations will become even more stringent beginning in September.

Brackett said part of the reason for the tougher pre-race policy stemmed from the nature of the Timonium track. "There are going to be a lot of sore horses here," he said. "If they weren't sore, they wouldn't be running at a half-mile meet."

Racing in Maryland returns next month to the mile tracks.

The veterinarians have insisted that all horses jog in front of them before they race, a policy not in effect when Paice was in control.

If a horse jogs sound, I don't require the trainer to remove the bandages," said Brackett. "But if the horse is sore, I want to feel those legs. When we get to Bowie (Race Course) and a third vet is hired, then we are going to do things right and require the bandages off and the horses to jog, too. But we don't have time to do that now."

The state racing commission fired Paice in July.

Jobs County, State Unemployment Rises

ANNAPOLIS (UPI) — Garrett County, and the state of Maryland noted an increase in the number of persons reported unable to secure employment in the state during July, according to the State Department of Human Resources.

The increase was similar to the upswing for the same time in 1980, when the jobless rate rose from 6 percent to 6.9 percent.

Kalman Hettelman, human resources secretary, said the increase in the number of summer workers and school graduates greatly influenced labor market trends.

The number of initial claims for unemployment insurance benefits rose in June and most of the increase in unemployment was the result of summer workers and graduates entering largest rate since November 1980.

Major seasonal hiring in construction, trade, services and the federal government, outweighing seasonal layoffs by schools.

Seasonal hiring, especially in food processing, outnumbered layoffs in shipbuilding and repair.

In the Baltimore metropolitan area, the unemployment rate rose from 7.2 percent to 8.1 percent. Initial claims for unemployment insurance increased, as did the number of unemployed people entering and reentering the labor force.

Seasonal hiring in food processing, trade and services did not occur as widely as the statewide level because of the year-round nature of the area's industries, Hettelman said.

Unemployment in the Maryland suburbs of Washington, D.C. rose from 3.9 percent in May to 4.7 percent in June, Hettelman said.

Employment increased in construction, trade, services and the federal government, outweighing seasonal layoffs by schools.

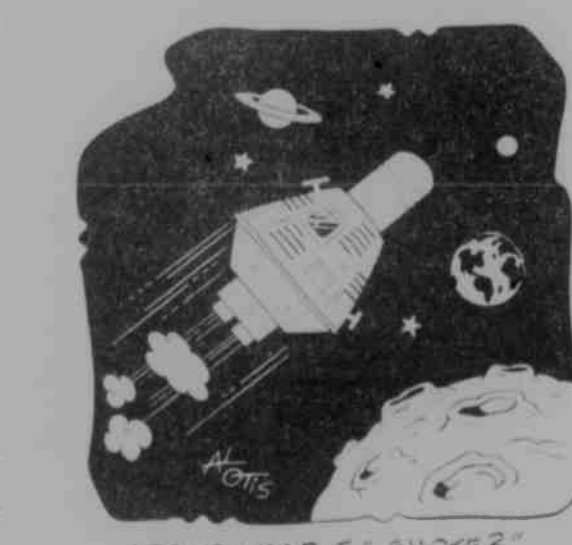

unemployment rate soared from 8.5 percent to 9.3 percent. Employment increased with seasonal hiring in services outnumbering seasonal layoffs in schools, Hettelman said.

Garrett County registered the largest jump in its unemployment rate, from 12.2 percent to 15.5 percent.

Hettelman attributed the seasonal nature of the economy in Southern Maryland and on the Eastern Shore to an advance in employment in all 11 counties, where there was wide-spread seasonal hiring.

In Caroline, Somerset and Worcester counties, trends differed from those statewide. Their unemployment rates declined because of recalls in food processing and hiring in other seasonal industries, Hettelman said.

The other eight counties showed higher unemployment rates, particularly Calvert, St. Mary's, Kent and Queen Anne's counties, he said.

Nation And World

NEW YORK (UPI) — Du Pont Co. officials, apparently set to take over Conoco after a spectacular three-way corporate battle, today counted Conoco stock offers and prepared to buy up the oil company's stock.

Du Pont Tuesday survived another round of bidding by Mobil Oil Corp. and received antitrust clearance from the Justice Department to buy Conoco, the nation's ninth largest oil firm.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan, having whipped the Democratic-dominated House and inspired the Republican-controlled Senate, now has the bills he says are needed to remedy the economy. The House Tuesday gave final approval to biggest tax cut in history — the second half of Reagan's economic recovery plan. The first was gigantic budget cuts Reagan is expected to sign both bills into law within the next few days.

SYDNEY, Australia (UPI) — Two-year-old William Farr dangled from a ledge inside a 100-foot well shaft for seven harrowing hours but the rescuers who finally pulled him to safety said the boy's biggest worry was his lost boot.

While taking a walk with his father on their farm in Quirimba, 51 miles north of Sydney Tuesday, William plunged feet first through the cover of an old well and fell 15 feet before being stopped by a ledge.

BOSTON (UPI) — Worldwide overuse of antibiotics as a cure-all is feeding the growth of deadly bacterial superstrains that resist any known treatment at a rate threatening global health, scientists say. If nothing is done, said Dr. Walter Gilbert, a Nobel laureate and Harvard University molecular biology professor, "We can look forward to a time when 80 to 90 percent of all infections" are resistant to current treatments.

Guardian Angels Founder Attacked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Guardian Angel founder Curtis Siwa said he was attacked by four men who abducted him as he walked near the Washington Monument early Tuesday.

Siwa, 26, claimed the assailants first said they were police officers who were arresting him on a charge of suspected sexual assault. He said he was walking between the White House and the Washington monument when the four men in a van handcuffed and abducted him.

"They put me face down in the van. Once I was in it was no longer an arrest," Siwa said Tuesday afternoon after an aide to Rep. Ron Mottl, D-Ohio, picked him up at Georgetown University Hospital.

"It just showed me I can't go off on my own and do what I want. I'm going to have people with me," he said.

Christina Puc, a hospital spokeswoman, said Siwa was treated for contusions Tuesday. Siwa claimed the alleged assailants threatened him with a cattle prod and played Russian roulette with a revolver.

He said he was making a complaint about the assault Tuesday afternoon and that he would ask Park Police to investigate. "It's their jurisdiction," he said.

Reports conflict from different D.C. police agencies about what may have happened to Siwa.

U.S. Park Police spokesman Officer R. Meeks said Siwa reported the assault to Metropolitan police. But Lt. Hiram Brewton, with the Metropolitan police, said Siwa reported the assault to the Park Police.

"He didn't say anything about (being attacked) by police officers. He indicated to Park Police that it was three white males," Brewton said.

Siwa claimed the abductors tied his hands with his neck tie and his feet with his Guardian Angel t-shirt and threw him in a shallow part of the Potomac River near the Lincoln Memorial.

Siwa said Park Police called an ambulance for him.

Siwa was to have met with Metropolitan Police Chief Maurice Turner Tuesday to talk about reaching an agreement in Washington similar to the one recently reached with Transit Police in New York City. The agreement gave the Angels credentials to continue their anti-crime patrols in New York City subways.

Attorney General's Docket

by Stephen H. Sachs
Attorney General of Maryland

It is a sad reflection on modern life that companies providing home security systems do a thriving business. According to the latest figures from the Federal Bureau of Investigation, residential burglaries accounted for 64 percent of the 3.3 million break-ins reported to police in 1979. Homeowners and apartment dwellers lost $2.1 billion in valuables and money to burglars in 1979, or an average of $644 per burglary.

Not surprisingly, many consumers are anxious to find ways to prevent—or at least deter—a burglar from breaking into their homes. Some people install special locks on their doors and windows; others go even further and purchase elaborate home alarm systems that not only give off loud noises but automatically alert the police or a central station as well.

Before buying one of these home security systems, you should check either with our Consumer Protection Division, the Better Business Bureau or the Maryland Home Improvement Commission (which is part of the state Department of Licensing and Regulation) to make sure you are dealing with a reputable company and a reliable product. If you buy a bogus or malfunctioning alarm system, you could be worse off than before, because you'll think you're protected when you're not. Your local police department also can give you tips on home security.

One relatively inexpensive and easy-to-install security device is a deadbolt lock. A deadbolt is a solid metal bar that spans the space between a door and its frame. It's called "dead" because no springs are used to operate the bolt. It must be locked and unlocked with a key and cannot be pushed back by burglar tools.

Assessment Answers & Tax Talk

TAX RATE TRENDS

By James Burley
With the year's local property tax rates set and the tax bills mailed, now might be a good time to take a look at what has happened. From the taxpayer's standpoint, the picture is getting brighter.

The combined average of the local property tax rates rose by only one cent. If this does not set a precedent, at least compares favorably to the seven cent average increase the previous year. There are some other good signs. Nine counties avoided any increase and kept their rates the same as last year. Another eight counties were actually able to reduce their rates with an average reduction of seven cents.

Less than a third, or seven counties, (Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Charles, Harford, Howard, Worcester, and Baltimore City) found it necessary to increase their rates, the average increase being twelve cents. But, even here, there is some significance in the fact that this is the smallest group.

No doubt, the constant yield tax rate provision has had some effect and is working as intended. The Constant Yield Tax Rate, a statutory provision, is the rate which would produce the same revenue from year to year through adjustments made to compensate for changes in the assessable base. It is based on the proposition that as property values and taxable assessments rise by reason of inflation or other forces, the tax rate should decline proportionately, thereby protecting property owners by maintaining revenue derived from property taxed at a constant level.

The constant yield rate, which is provided to the local governments individually by the Assessments Department, is not mandatory. The locally elected officials have the responsibility for setting the local tax rates. Following due consideration, if local governments do not adhere to the constant yield rate for their jurisdiction, public meetings must be held before the actual property tax rate is set in order to give members of the public a chance to air their views.

Constant yield is an important component in the system of checks and balances as it relates to local taxation and helps to offset the pressure from special interest groups who are generally urging greater expenditures for specific purposes at taxpayers' expense.

Constant yield has been in effect four years. A number of counties have kept the tax rate at the same level as the constant yield rate some of those years. To their credit, four counties, Calvert, Prince George's, Talbot, and Washington, have tax levies the same as their constant yield rates for the current taxable year. Three counties, Prince George's, Talbot, and Washington, deserve special mention for keeping their tax rates to a level at or below the constant yield tax rate since its inception four years ago.

A FAMILY CRUSADE. led by Von Saum, of Indiana, will be held at the Maranatha Tabernacle in Grantsville August 9-12, at 7 p.m., each evening. Saum, who lost his left arm and leg because of injuries received in a motorcycle accident, is a ventriloquist and the star of a television program, "Pirate Adventures with Captain Hook," which is broadcast in some 300 major cities and overseas. He is also a former pastor of a church in Ohio. Rev. DeWayne Johnson, pastor, invites the public to the crusade. The church is located at 1000 Springs Road.

If you decide to buy a burglar alarm system, there are a couple of things you should look for or consider.

•See if the system has been tested and rated by the Underwriter's Laboratory. A UL listing is a good guarantee that the system will do what it's supposed to do.

•The system should have an auxiliary power source such as a battery so it will work even if your home loses its power temporarily or a crafty burglar cuts your power lines.

•The alarm should be loud enough to be heard throughout your home, even if the doors are closed. That probably means it's loud enough to scare off any burglar, too.

•It's helpful if the system has a signal you can test to make sure it's "armed" and working properly.

•Some experts think the best alarm systems are those connected to a 24-hour, central monitoring station, where the alarm sounds simultaneously and can be interpreted by workers, who decide on the proper response, either contacting police, firefighters or paramedics. In addition, if you set the alarm off accidentally, you have a few minutes to call the station and cancel it.

There are a number of other precautions you can take to discourage would-be burglars.

•To prevent burglars from opening your windows, either install inexpensive locks that use a key or—more simply—just drill a downward-slanting hole through the window frames where they overlap and insert a nail or pin. That'll stop the burglar from opening the window from the outside or lifting a sliding door out of its track.

•When you're away, use automatic timers inside your home to turn lights—and even radios and air conditioners—on and off at different times. This will make your home look occupied.

•If you are leaving on vacation, stop newspaper and mail delivery. If possible, arrange for neighbors to mow your lawn or shovel snow from your path if necessary, and even put some of their trash in your outside containers, to suggest that people are inside your home.

Don't hide keys under doormats or in mailboxes or on top of door frames or in planters. Every burglar—even the amateurs—knows those hiding spots.

DOUBTER

She's young, she's beautiful, but she doesn't believe in God. At least, she doesn't think she does.

Shocked? Lots of young people today and a good many older ones aren't all that sure of the "old religion." They don't want a panacea. They want something of substance, a truth to live with.

That's why the Church has risen to meet the challenge. There's a new tide in today's church, a reality as old as the centuries but as new as the future.

You owe it to yourself to investigate.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

ARE YOU IN OR OUT?

August 9, 1981

Background Scripture:

Deuteronomy 29:1-15.

Devotional Reading:

2 Samuel 7:18.

A little boy was being guided (dragged?) through the museum of Natural History by his mother. "And next," she assured him, "we are going to see homo sapiens." But, when at last they stopped before the exhibit, the little boy protested, "That's not homo sapiens, that's a man!"

It took the patient mother quite some time before she was able to explain that he too was a homo sapiens. It astonished him to realize that, without knowing it, he had been a homo sapiens all along.

What You Have Seen

The little boy's experience was not as unique as it may sound. Lots of us discover from time to time along life's road that we are part of something we heretofore didn't know even existed. We are all God's children, even if we don't acknowledge him as Father. All of us bear his divine image, even if we don't acknowledge him as creator.

So it may be with God's covenant people: we may be members of that group without thinking of ourselves in that light. "Covenant people" is not a popular term in Christianity today. Few of us think of God's covenant people as those who have experienced the grace and power of God in their own lives. As Moses put it to the people of Israel in the land of Moab, "You have seen all that the Lord did before your eyes in the land of Egypt . . . the great trials which your eyes saw, the signs, and those great wonders . . ." (Deuteronomy 29:2, 3). If you have seen anything of the power and grace of God in your life, you belong to the covenant people—and if you haven't, you simply haven't opened your eyes and ears to God's presence.

Do the Covenant

Another test, according to Moses' criteria, is whether or not in your life you are doing what God wants you to do. "Therefore be careful to do the words of this covenant," (29:9). We may not be consciously aware of trying to perform our covenant responsibilities, but if we are trying to do God's will in our lives, that is an indication that we are one of his people.

The third test, according to Moses, is an awareness that we are part of something beyond ourselves. We may think of that "something" as God's covenant people, but so long as we are aware that others have come before us, that we are now one with others throughout the universe, and that others will come after us, we are truly with God's great company of God's people bound together by his love and grace.

We Build Energy-Efficient Houses!

That's what they all say—every builder and manufacturer around. But when we say it, we mean something different. Pictured above is a research house at Mt. Airy, Maryland, built by the National Association of Home Builders Research Foundation (a subsidiary of the National Association of Home Builders) under a contract with the U. S. Department of HUD. Our Panel-Drainage system of movable window insulation was selected to be used in this house after NAHB Research Foundation engineers examined 17 systems in the U. S. and Canada. It's an improved version of the same pocket-panel system we have in our house on Pennington Street in Oakland that has helped us hold our electric heating bill for our first 12 months to $149.00.

Although we didn't build the house above, we can build you one with the same features right here on the mountain top. A house with walls that lose 87% less heat than 8" log cabin walls. Insulated windows that lose 92% less heat as double-pane glass. Proper site orientation to get passive solar heat gain. Zoned interiors so you won't have to heat all your rooms all the time. Careful caulking and weatherstripping to keep out the wind. Sub-slab insulation. Earth berming. And many other features.

Our houses are not for everyone. They are for people who want to save money in the years ahead when gas prices triple and oil and electricity costs double again. They are for people who discover, as their grandparents did, that coal heat is dirty. And people who see the cost of wood (including their investment in time, energy, equipment, maintenance and worry over fire) as not so good a deal. Of course—we can save you money on any type of fuel you choose.

So drop us a line. You can choose one of our Shelter, Inc. plans or we can modify your plans to make them truly energy-efficient. We can build you a do-it-yourself package and do as much of the site work as you wish.

State Police Re-Emphasize Speed Compliance

State Police this week expressed concern over the increasing number of people killed on Maryland highways. As of midnight, July 29, 480 people had lost their lives on Maryland highways, compared to 410 during the same period of time last year.

Maryland traffic deaths claimed 772 lives during 1980 which is a 10.1% increase over the previous year. This is the highest toll since 822 persons lost their lives in 1973.

Traffic surveys conducted by the State Highway Administration indicate that motorists' speeds have increased around the state. The quarterly speed survey ending June 30, 1981 shows that 52% of motorists traveling on 55 mph roads are exceeding the speed limit, but only 15% over 60 mph and 2 1/2% over 65 mph.

Colonel Thomas S. Smith, State Police Superintendent, is concerned that vehicle speeds have gone up and is sending a stern warning to those motorists who continue to exceed posted speed limits. Smith pointed out that conscientious drivers are frustrated when other motorists speed past them.

Special instructions have been handed down to the Field Operations Bureau which outline certain features in an effort to reduce speeding in Maryland. One of the features will be the high visibility of State Police cars to serve as a constant reminder to all motorists to voluntarily comply with the speed limits. Another major component will be the increased use of non-traditional enforcement techniques that will include the use of trucks, vans, foreign cars and even aircraft to clock speeders. Many habitual speeders rely on CB radio and fuz busters to circumvent police traffic enforcement efforts. The use of covert vehicles by troopers will make their identification by speeders difficult.

Some motorists, particularly interstate drivers, tend to accelerate after they have passed radar monitoring locations, Smith said. Radar operations are being increased and special teams will be working in tandem. "Moving" radar and Vascar will be used extensively on Maryland highways, he stated.

According to Col. Smith, "If we all slow down a little we can save lives. If you leave a few minutes early you reduce the tendency to speed and will have a more pleasant drive." Smith added that if motorists continue to speed they will be arrested.

Wednesday afternoon Colonel Smith met with members of the Maryland Troopers Association and discussed plans for this re-emphasis of speed compliance. The Troopers Association announced that they are in full support of this endeavor.

Children who participate in the Zoo Mania Summer Reading Club at the Ruth Enlow Library are asked to bring their pets to the library for a pet show this Tuesday, August 11, at 2 p.m. All participants will get a prize.

The group will not judge the pets, but all members should introduce their pet and share it with other reading club members. The show will be held outside the library on the lawn, and children should make sure that the pet is on a leash or is restrained in some way so that it will not get loose and lost.

The last session, to be held next week, will feature a party and puppet show. The reading club is open to all school-aged children and the group meets every Tuesday in the children's room of the library at 2 p.m.

FALLING STARS

Falling stars are not really stars. They are meteors glowing as a result of the heat created by friction between the meteor and the atmosphere as the meteor falls to Earth. Meteors are small objects orbiting the Sun. When they collide with the Earth, they can be seen as falling star-like objects. While in space, these objects are called meteoroids. If a meteor survives its fall through the atmosphere, it is called a meteorite. Meteorite collections may be found in museums.

The dark comedy of 'Measure for Measure'

"Measure for Measure," one of William Shakespeare's less frequently seen plays, tells a story of lust, betrayal and deception in a corrupt Vienna. The extraordinary dark comedy will make its debut appearance as part of The Shakespeare Plays Monday, Aug. 10 over PBS. (Local times may vary; check listings.)

Set in a corrupt and bawling Vienna, "Measure for Measure" tells of the peculiar attempt at moral reform undertaken by Duke Vincentio (Kenneth Colley). Vienna's ruler, pretending to leave Vienna on a journey, he appoints a deputy to rule in his place. Angelo (Tim Pigott-Smith), a supposedly upright man whose blood is very snow-broth. Then the Duke assumes a friar's habit and secretly remains in the city.

Once in power, one of Angelo's first acts is to enforce the ancient law prohibiting premarital sex by condemning Claudio (Christopher Struill) to death. Hearing of Claudio's death sentence, his chaste sister, Isabella (Kate Nelligan), who is about to enter a convent, returns to Vienna to plead for her brother's life.

Angelo falls in love with the beautiful Isabella, and tries to strike an unholy bargain with her. If she will sleep with him, he will free her brother.

The Duke, meanwhile, discovers the plight of the brother and sister and resolves the conflict through an involved, secret plot, tricking and finally exposing Angelo for what he truly is.

The production also stars John McEnery as Claudio's friend Lucio.

"Measure for Measure" was directed by Desmond Davis. Executive producer for "The Shakespeare Plays" was Cedric Messina. Alan Shalleross was script editor with Dr. John Wilders of Oxford serving as literary consultant. Jac Venza is executive producer for WNEThrirteen, New York.

A presentation of WNEThrirteen, New York, "The Shakespeare Plays" is a six-year series beginning its fourth season this fall on public television. It is made possible by grants from Exxon Corporation, Metropolitan Life Insurance Company and Morgan Guaranty Trust Company. "Measure for Measure" originally aired in April 1979.

Tim Pigott-Smith plays the evil Angelo in Shakespeare's "Measure for Measure."

Actors who sing and singers who act

By Ruth Thompson

There are two lines that usually rate press notices: "Singer turns actor" (that's the biggest draw) and "actor turns singer."

Johnny Cash, who by now has several fine performances to his credit, all but apologizes to the trained actors with whom he appears for being "new" at this side of the business. He needn't.

Kirk Douglas, with whom Cash worked on his first film, characterized the solemn-faced country singer as a fine, natural actor. The Douglas sentiment was echoed earlier this season by Eli Wallach who added, "Johnny has fine timing, when they appeared together in the CBS movie, 'The Prize of Jesse Hallam'."

In analyzing what made Johnny Cash so effective as an actor, Eli Wallach said, "When you get and face audiences of thousands as Johnny does, that takes presence and pose."

For his dramatic debut last winter in an NBC movie, "Three Hundred Miles" for Stephanie singer Tony Orlando won wide praise as the father of a critically ill daughter.

Then there's singer Kenny Rogers whose first television movie, "Kenny Rogers as the Gambler," for CBS, earned the highest movie rating last year. He's done a second one star in musical television specials, turn out to have musical talent and often considerable musical training as well.

Estelle Parsons' comment when she sang a hymn in last spring's "Coward of the County."

With a few exceptions, the actors and actresses who suddenly develop club acts or "Gentleman Bandit" on CBS because movie goes got to know her first as a dramatic actress. But Miss Parsons needed no crash coaching course. She is a graduate of the New England Conservatory of Music; she originally planned a singing career for herself and is just getting back to it on Broadway in

"The Pirates of Penzance."

Another trained singer is "Wonder Woman" Lynda Carter who sang on radio when she was 15, moved on to Las Vegas when she was 19, and was more than ready when asked to star in a musical variety television special.

Donna Pescow, who went into her own television series,

"Angie," following her touching performance opposite John Travolta in "Saturday Night Fever," didn't sit around waiting for cast agents to call when "Angie" folded. She shaped up an act she had been developing just in case and debuted as a singer (again, she has a good voice and has studied) at the New York cabaret Les Mouches.

Words on West Point

"West Point was designed to create professional officers for the U.S. army just as a greenhouse is designed to grow flowers," says one young female cadet in "No Excuse, Sir," a documentary airing Aug. 14 as one part of the "Exchange" series of five hour-long documentaries on PBS about cultures, customs and issues.

"No Excuse, Sir" explores the dual role of the Academy that of being a first-rate institution of higher learning while also being a professional school for military officers — and investigates the conflicts caused by these dual roles.

Says a former West Point instructor who has written a book about the academy: "The highly organized, disciplined life at West Point helps submerge personal interests and individuality into the larger purpose of defending the country. The educational emphasis is on technical skills, not deep, philosophical thinking."

Watergate stars

Four New York actors will portray Washington D.C. figures in the upcoming "Lies, Gordon Liddy," a drama on NBC inspired by the best-selling autobiography of the convicted Watergate conspirator Robert Conrad stars as Liddy in the production, which recently completed principal photography on location in Illinois and Washington D.C.

Peter Rattray, F.J. O'Neil, Gary Bayer and Jim Hobbins are the four New York actors. Rattray will play White House counsel John Dean, O'Neil will play Howard Hunt. Bayer will portray Jeb Magruder and Hobbins will be Liddy's attorney and friend Peter Maroulis.

Burns' Christmas

George Burns will definitely not be late for Christmas this year.

He's the host of the "George Burns' Early, Early, Early Christmas Special" on NBC this fall.

Burns will be joined by Bob Hope, who is seen as he entertained the troops through the years, Ann Margret, who has a production number, and five Playboy Playmates who perform an act called "My Body."

Soap death

Two New York television soap opera writers are locked in a battle over a death sentence issued by their boss in "Two the Hard Way," a comedy to air Tuesday, Aug. 11 on CBS.

The executive producer of the soap wants to kill off one of the characters who has become a hero and she directs the two writers to figure out how. But one of the writers feels compassion for the character who has played the character for 16 years and he tries to save the role. Meanwhile, the other writer is working desperately to please his boss and annihilate the character.

Ex Det. Fish (Abe Vigoda, r.) makes a surprise visit and finds a surprise of his own. Peggy Pope and Howard Mann guest star in "Barney Miller," to air Thursday, Aug. 6 on ABC.

The good doctor who writes and directs

When people leave messages with Dr. Sandor Stern's answering service, the messages are not about ulcers, the flu or Timmy's broken toy. They usually concern script revisions or changes in tomorrow's shooting schedule. His tools are not scalpels and forceps, either — they're lights, cameras and props.

He is, in fact, a physician. As a general practitioner, he practiced medicine in Toronto for five years. But it wasn't a case of a doctor taking up writing so much as that of a writer taking up medicine.

I wanted to be a writer ever since I was a kid," he says. "In fact, I went into medicine as an education to help myself become a better writer."

Stern is the writer and director of "The Seeding of Sarah Burns," a motion picture for television starring Kay Lenz, Martin Balsam and Cliff DeYoung, to be broadcast Wednesday, Aug. 12 on CBS.

If ever a story called for a doctor as the writer-director, it was "Sarah Burns." Set several years ago when the scientific world was first approaching human embryo transplants, the film focuses on a woman who volunteers for such a transplant, carries the pregnancy for about eight months and gives birth to the baby. In the story, the then unprecedented procedure brings with it emotional tensions between the two mothers, and among them, their families and loved ones.

Stern sold his first script while he was still in medical school in Toronto, somehow finding the energy to write in the evenings after hours of pouring over medical tomes. After setting up his practice, he continued selling scripts and occasionally producing and directing programs for the Canadian Broadcasting Co. He has since been toiling in American television for more than 10 years.

"Sarah Burns" was Stern's first directorial effort on a motion picture for television.

My medical background definitely helped, he says. "It gave me insights into people in stress situations, because as a doctor I dealt with people's lives, people from every walk of life. There's no way to get that experience anywhere else."

If the good doctor wasn't busy enough with 18 hour days that were sandwiched between hospital rounds at 7 a.m. and writing until after midnight, he also performed as a folk singer in a small Toronto club on Thursday nights. That occasionally created complications.

Since a doctor, of course, has to be on call, he says. "I'd leave third where I was. It happened that sometimes I'd have to leave during a set to go deliver a baby. I'd take my guitar with me to the hospital and while my patient was in labor I'd play the guitar for her."

SOAP OPERA WEEK

'Faith in God' basis of 'Another Life' soap

By Nancy M. Reichardt

NEW YORK — There's a new kid on the block in the soap opera world. It's a religious soap titled "Another Life" (not to be confused with "Another World" on NBC). Originating from the Continental Broadcasting Network, everyone involved hopes their belief that "faith in God can overcome the trials of life" will prove to be right — and draw a large share of the daytime audience.

Centering around three core families, the Davidsons, the Masons and the Carpenters, the half-hour show made its debut on June 1 in several large cities around the country, including New York, Los Angeles, Chicago, San Francisco and Dallas. Fort Worth. "Another Life" is the first serious U.S.-produced, tender fielded by an independent production company in the competitive continuing drama field.

Working on the production of the show are several former network soap opera talents, including Roy Winsor who was headwriter on "Another World" and "Somerset," and executive producer of "Search for Tomorrow," "Love of Life" and "Secret Storm." The associate producer of "AL," Peter Andrews, has a production background that spanned 16 years on "Guiding Light" and as producer of "Lynwood King," who directed "The Doctors" and "One Life to Live" in the past, is the supervising producer of "AL." Although the new soap has a lot going for it, only time will tell whether or not the soap-viewing public will be converted.

The new soap opera family, the Davidsons: Scott and Terry (standing) and Lori and Peter.

ASK ME ABOUT TV

By Val Carey

LIVING ABOUT LORNE Lorne Greene is my favorite actor. I don't know much about him. Could you tell me if he is married? Does he have children? Is there some place where I can write to him?

Crazy About Lorne: Chester Depot VI
Lorne is married. His wife, Nancy, is very active in local political causes. He was married once before and has grown twins from that marriage. He and Nancy have a young daughter. He is from Canada and was a newscaster on CBC when he decided he wanted to act. He has appeared on Broadway and several TV shows before.

'Bonanza' catapulted him to everlasting fame and wealth. He'll be back on TV next season in the new ABC series 'Code Red.' Write to him in care of Grossman-Stalmaster, 8730 Sunset Blvd., Hollywood, CA 90046

Total Spent On Entertainment In '81 Up 15%

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein announced recently that $270,255,087 was spent on taxable entertainment in Maryland during Fiscal Year 1981, a 15% increase compared to the $229,354,520 spent during the previous fiscal year.

"Marylanders continue to increase their spending on entertainment and leisure activities," said Goldstein, noting that the counties, and cities and towns of Maryland benefited to the tune of $13,948,302 in Admissions and Amusement Tax revenues during Fiscal Year 1981, up 18.8% over the $11,741,744 distributed to the subdivisions for Fiscal Year 1980.

"More tax revenue was received from night club entertainment than any other form of taxable entertainment reported," Goldstein said, pointing out that the $68,569,728 spent for night club admissions and entertainment yielded $2,731,890 in tax revenue.

Spending for other forms of taxable entertainment included $46,909,618 for movies, producing $2,557,826 in tax revenue. The explosion of arcades and amusement centers made spending in coin-operated amusement devices the fastest growing of any category. Players spent $50,782,408, up 37% over the previous fiscal year, producing tax revenue totaling $2,061,274 for Fiscal Year 1981.

Live theatre and concertgoers spent $15,955,198, a decline of 4% from similar spending made during the previous fiscal year. The category produced $1,025,680 in tax revenue. Marylanders spent $19,508,961 for admission to athletic events, yielding tax revenue of $1,905,227. Spending for golf activities amounted to $13,363,124, accounting for $694,210 in Admissions and Amusement Tax revenues. The Admissions and Amusement Tax Rates are set by local elected officials, while the tax receipts are collected by the State Comptroller's Office and distributed to the local subdivisions. "Final payments covering the 4th quarter of Fiscal Year 1981 (April, May and June) totaling $3,616,895 have been mailed to the local subdivisions," Goldstein said. Garrett County received $10,231.63 for a total of $74,489.27 for fiscal 1981.

PLAYER'S Profile

THIS WEEK...
Chris von Eckartsberg

by Kathy Railey

Chris von Eckartsberg, 19, Potomac, a student at Dartmouth College, returned to the Mountaintop this summer for his second year with the Garrett County Playhouse. Because of his unique introduction to the Playhouse, Chris has adopted the name of the "mail order" member of the company, having been hired over the telephone with no audition.

He credits his employment to persistence. The actor's family has a summer home at Beckman's Peninsula, through which Chris became initially acquainted with the Garrett County Playhouse. Having acted previously in high school, he first contacted the Rev. Manning Smith, a local supporter of the Playhouse with whom he currently resides, who connected him with Gene Yell, chairman of the Playhouse Board of Governors.

The aspiring actor was informed that the Playhouse needed another player for the coming season, however von Eckartsberg could not audition since Milburn Mehlopp, actor and director, was in New York and Yell was in New Mexico. But he was persistent and called often, concluding that "Gene apparently got tired of my phone calls and figured he'd better hire me."

The actor was cast as Mortimer in "The Fantasticks," the first play of last year's season. The performance worked out well and Chris appeared in six shows last summer as a regular member of the company.

Entering into his sophomore year, Chris said he is "leaning toward architecture" as a major concentration of study and he does not plan to make a career of acting. "To be honest with you," he said, "I don't think I have the drive to be an actor. I couldn't see myself living the life of an actor. I have invested a lot in college and I want something definite to come of it."

Acting, however, has been a large part of his life, perhaps second only to soccer, a sport in which he has been an avid participant since the age of seven when his family lived in Brussels, Belgium for a time. Perhaps his diverse and culturally rich background accounts for von Eckartsberg's seeming older, or perhaps more knowledgeable, than the average 19-year-old. A sports enthusiast, von Eckartsberg skied in the Alps as a child, and he traveled to England a few years ago with a Silver Springs soccer team. Having relatives abroad, Chris has "been all over Europe" and he intends to study in Florence, Italy in the spring of his junior year at Dartmouth, in a special art program.

Chris has been acting since his tenth grade at St. Albans School, a private school in Washington, D. C. Perhaps unlike most high schools, acting was a big thing at St. Albans. "The school was very small and everyone auditioned for the plays," Chris noted. Each summer the school's theatre served as a professional stage for "Shakespeare and Company," a group directed by the drama teacher at St. Albans.

Roles played by von Eckartsberg in high school included Dracula in Woody Allen's "Count Dracula." Simon Stimpson in Gene Wilder's "Our Town," Mr. Kraler in "The Man Who Came to Dinner," by Hart and Kauffman. The latter character was, up until last week's role at the Playhouse, von Eckartsberg's favorite role. "I loved that," he said, "I played an arrogant old man. I got to yell at everyone, and I had so much fun with it." His first big lead, Chris described that role as a "huge part."

At St. Albans the school director injected a unique experience into the lives of the cast of "The Diary of Anne Frank." Chris recalled, by showing actual films of concentration camps in World War II, which the student described as "awful and disgusting. He wanted us to feel what the characters were feeling."

In the summer of 1979 Chris was cast as Rudolph in "The Matchmaker," a production by Shakespeare and Company. His first paid acting experience, he participated in about 25 productions of that play. The catch, Chris recalled, was that after about the tenth show the part started to become automatic, and the actor found it "difficult to keep up spontaneity and energy every night."

He has no problem with that at the Garrett County Playhouse, and Chris said he is "still amazed that the plays are put together so fast, just one week, but opening night always comes together." Here, in respect to the heavy schedule the company endures and the large amount of time spent rehearsing and performing, "the (weekly) change keeps you going."

Chris said he always played character parts "such as an old man, or someone who isn't you" until last summer's production of "Table Manners," when he was cast as Tom. It was the first straight part he ever had, but he feels one of his best roles.

A lover of comedy and farce, Chris is right at home with Garrett County's company of actors. Last week's one-act play "Crossed Roads," part II of "Road Hazards," was written by Milburn Mehlopp "expressly" to be performed by Chris and Cather MacCallum, a distinguished actress and director who has gained the respect of Garrett playgoers since 1975. Playing the part of a 17-year-old burglar, Chris said that has become his favorite role. "When I think that Milburn thought of me when writing it, I wanted my performance to be letter-perfect, wanting not to disappoint him," he said.

In addition, Chris was faced with a rapid character transition last week, from the role of a 35-year-old husband and father in Part I to a 17-year-old juvenile delinquent in Part II. He noted that "It's a lot of fun to play two roles in one night and try to make them as different as you can." Even with having to change his voice, Chris stated that the hardest part in the transition was changing make-up and appearance before the end of intermission.

"The script was great, the part was so funny and Cather was a blast to work with," he said, adding that, "When plays end here, it's really sad... I'm really going to be bummed out when this one is over, the one written for him," his personal part played.

As a freshman at Dartmouth Chris appeared in several productions with the Dartmouth Players, and he won an acting citation in the Eleanor Frost Play Competition for his performance in "The Matter of Kelly's Dog," an original script by Monte Brauer.

The student's interest in architecture began this year through "an amazing professor" of a History of Art course Chris had taken. That course and Design and History of Architecture courses were his favorite classes all year, branching his already established art background into the field of design. Chris said he likes to "relax by drawing," but finds little time for pleasure drawing at school. Working primarily with pastel and ink, von Eckartsberg has won awards for his artwork.

Still, his major endeavors at Dartmouth seem to be "getting the requirements out of the way" and playing soccer. A responsible, hard worker, he is forced this summer to take time out to practice the sport as often as possible, to keep in shape for the fall season. How does he keep going with the hectic Playhouse summer schedule and the rat race of college life? "I like everything I do," he said.

A very kind and "mellow" person, Chris particularly values friendship, citing friends as essential to a person's very existence. He treasures his time with them more than his time alone, but still enjoys his Saturdays down by the water on Deep Creek Lake, where he learns his lines and gears up for the next Playhouse production.

The Garrett County Playhouse

by Theo Varnell

Tonight at 8:30 the Garrett County Playhouse presents Noel Coward's best-loved comedy, "Private Lives." The play revolves around Amanda Prynce (with actress-journalist-photographer Jean Jordan in the coveted role) who, on honeymoon with her second husband, discovers her first husband Elyot Chase (Milburn Mehlopp) in the next suite. With Chris von Eckartsberg and Pamela Harden as the hapless second spouses and Debbie Martinez as the irascible French maid, "Private Lives" promises to be the perfect confection. Guest director Russell Arthur is making his debut in that capacity at the Playhouse.

To reach the Playhouse from Rt. 219, persons should take the Glendale Bridge Road (at Alpine Village), cross the bridge and bear right. At the first intersection, approximately one mile beyond the bridge, turn right onto the Beckman's Peninsula Road (the first intersection past the bridge). The Playhouse drive is just at the bottom of the short hill.

For information and reservations persons should call Englander's, Gregg's or Proudfoot pharmacies in Oakland. All seats are general admission but theatre-goers are urged to make reservations, which will be honored until 8:20 on performance nights.

"Private Lives" will play through Saturday night with each performance at 8:30. Next week see Neil Simon's highly-acclaimed "Chapter Two."

Looking At Antiques
With The Country Boy
by Dave Bowman
IRONWARE

As early as 1607, iron items were being forged at Jamestown, Virginia. It was not until the 1700's that American ironware began to take on its own distinct style and started to turn away from the style of the European ironmakers.

The early ironware was used in the kitchen as well as the hearth. Such items as pots, trivets, grills, cooking utensils, spoons, forks and ladles were the most common.

Today most iron items found by the collector are classified as cast iron. Items such as kitchen and fireplace equipment, door hinges and latches, cabinet hardware, nails, locks and iron used on farm equipment. A nice collection of ironware can be put together without a great outlay of cash. Few items are signed or dated but when these are found they usually command a much higher price.

Beware of reproductions. Many items are now on the market from Europe and Japan. Some spoons, forks and spatulas can hardly be distinguished from the American made product after they have been aged. If you collect ironware and plan to invest in better pieces, buy only from a dealer who will guarantee the authenticity. This applies to all antiques.

We are always interested in buying good antiques — one piece or a houseful.

PET POINTERS

By Robert L. Stear, D.V.M.
Manager of Veterinary Services
Sorden Laboratories

For the household pet, summer means more walks in the park, leisurely car rides and lazy days in the back yard. Unfortunately, summer can also mean more fleas.

You should suspect that your cat or dog has fleas if the pet scratches vigorously at the skin around the ears, neck, tail or hind legs. These are the areas most commonly infected by fleas. You can also part the pet's hair and look for small, dark brown insects that scurry away from the light.

These small, blood-sucking pests can be much more than a passing nuisance. They feed on your pet's blood, and large numbers of them can make a young kitten or puppy anemic. They may also be the indirect cause of bald spots, redness or other types of skin irritation that develop when the pet scratches its inflamed skin. Fleas are also intermediate hosts for tapeworms. If an irritated cat or dog swallows it, the tapeworm will be released to continue its development in the pet's digestive tract.

There are a variety of products that you can choose to relieve your pet's flea problem.

Flea powders are easy to apply but messy. Some contain ingredients that kill fleas; others temporarily stun the insects, which must be brushed out of the pet's coat onto newspapers, and burned.

Shampoos are the most effective way to eliminate a heavy flea infestation. You begin by thoroughly wetting the cat or dog, starting just behind the ears, and working in the insecticidal soap from neck to tail. It's important to shampoo the entire animal, including the underside. You don't want to leave dry spots where the fleas can escape the shampoo. You should also carefully wash and rinse the pet's ear flaps and muzzle, keeping the soapy water out of the pet's eyes and inner ear canal.

Flea collars and tags are another way to attack your pet's flea problem. These products will slowly release insecticides for several months, if you follow directions for use carefully. The collars should be carefully adjusted so they don't rub the pet's coat or irritate the skin. The tags must be close enough to the body so pets can't chew on them.

Treating your pet is only half of the solution to the flea problem. The fleas must also be eliminated from your home or yard. If you don't deflea your pet's surroundings, the cat or dog will be reinfected in a few days.

You can begin by thoroughly vacuuming the entire house, with special attention to cracks, baseboards, and furniture where the pet sits. Make sure you discard the vacuum bag, or empty it promptly and burn the contents. You can then use a flea spray or flea bomb, or pay a professional exterminator to spray your home.

Outdoor areas can be treated with an appropriate spray or dust. Cover the driveways, walks, building foundation, and areas where the pet rests. Be very careful to follow the directions, and keep your pet indoors until the job is done and the spray has dried. You don't want the pet walking or rolling in the treated areas for several hours.

Some insecticides that kill the immature and adult fleas have no effect against the insect's eggs and pupa resting stage. For this reason, the directions on certain products recommend retreatment in three to five days to kill the new generation of fleas. Do not apply flea products more often than the instructions suggest; they are strong chemicals and should be used with care.

Insecticides manufactured for home use should not be used on pets. These products may contain ingredients that can sicken or even kill your pets. Also, cats and dogs react to insecticides differently: a product designed especially for dogs may not be safe for a cat or kitten. It's always best to use a product that is recommended for your type of pet. If you have any questions about treating your pet's flea problem, it's a good idea to talk with your veterinarian. He or she can recommend an appropriate product and outline the best way to use it.

NO BEAUTY SHOW WINNERS but "ladies" in their own right, just the same. These members of the Cumberland Cutes and the Friendsville Delights are strutting their stuff before the crowds during the Friendsville Community Days celebration on Saturday. The score seemed lopsided, and often times not at all "legitimate" but just the same, the event sponsors reported quite a "hit" from the team participation.

CENTERFOLD MATERIAL, perhaps, but most likely, this vision of loveliness is destined to spend "her" days as part of a comical softball team. "She" and her teammates dazzled the crowd at the Friendsville Community Day celebration on Saturday, following a "stroll" down the main street of the town during the opening parade.

ENERGY TIP. To help stay cool this summer, wear as little jewelry as possible on those hot days because jewelry retains heat.

UNIQUE USES FOR BAKING SODA

Baking soda can be a real helping hand around the house because it has dozens of uses. Here are some ways you can use it this summer to help make life easier.

*During the summer months when your fireplace is not in use, place an open box of baking soda in the corner to help eliminate the "smokey" odors. It can be hidden behind logs, a plant, or a bouquet of dried flowers.

*While you're cooking on the outdoor grill, keep an open box of baking soda within easy reach to quickly extinguish grease fires and flareups. After cooking, sprinkle it over the coals to safely and cleanly put out the fire.

*Save energy and water by operating your dishwasher only

Freezing, Canning Workshops Held

Two workshops on freezing and canning were held July 28 and 29 by the Community Food and Nutrition Program of Garrett County Community Action. The workshop on July 28 was held in the cafeteria of Northern High School and was attended by 16 persons and the July 29 workshop was held at the Extension office in the Garrett County Courthouse and attended by seven persons.

Mrs. Jane Rentschler and Ms. Alice Hevner of the Extension Service conducted the workshops.

A film on proper freezing and canning methods was shown after which a discussion was held. Mrs. Rentschler distributed several handouts on the subject.

The staff of the Food and Nutrition Program then held drawings for freezing and canning supplies.

The first-place winner at the northern workshop was Theresa Hetrick, followed by Marie Bowser and Alletha Thomas. Winners in the southern workshop drawing were Ruth Beckman, Betty Emmart, Genevieve Rowman and Annour Metheny, in that order.

Each family present was given a Ball Blue Canning Book.

Members of the program staff present at the northern workshop were Linda Green, assistant director; Judy Locke, nutrition aide; and Gertrude Deem, green thumb aide. Present at the southern workshop were Pat Callis, director; Verna Speicher and Ray Teets, nutrition aides.

The record for rapid typing is 14 words a minute, set in 1923.

ADVANCED MOUNTAIN RESCUE was the topic of study July 25 and 26 for several members of the Southern Rescue Squad at Cooper's Rock State Park near Morgantown, WV. The students, who were already trained in rappelling and emergency care, received advanced instruction in raising and lowering patients in a litter over the side of a cliff. Various rope hitches and ties, as well as safety procedures and practical and situational problems were covered in the course. Pictured above are rescuers Randy Crabtree, left, and Dave Evans, raising instructor Jim Ancell in a simulated accident situation. Gregory Vanhorn, of Weirton Heights Volunteer Fire Department, Weirton, WV, was the other instructor.

State, County Jobless Figures Higher In June

Maryland experienced a significant rise in unemployment in June, as the state's unemployment rate climbed from 6.2 percent in May to 7.1 percent in June, according to statistics released by the Maryland Department of Human Resources.

Accordingly, Garrett County's jobless rate jumped considerably, from 12.2 percent in May to 15.5 percent in June. Of a total labor force of 13,100 in the county in June, 2,031 were unemployed.

The rise in state unemployment was similar to the increase for the same months in 1980, when the unemployment rate jumped from 6.0 percent to 6.9 percent. As in other recent months, the unemployment rate was only slightly higher than the rate a year ago.

School graduates and summer workers entering the labor force heavily influenced Maryland's labor market trends for June, according to the Department. Though initial claims for unemployment insurance benefits rose in June, most of the increase in unemployment occurred as workers entering the labor force remained unemployed.

Employment jumped in June, as major seasonal hiring in trade and services outnumbered layoffs of school workers. Manufacturing experienced its largest increase in hiring since last November. Seasonal hiring, particularly in food processing, outweighed layoffs in shipbuilding and repair.

Trends in the Baltimore Metropolitan Area followed those set statewide, as employment and unemployment increase, and the unemployment rate jumped from 7.2 percent to 8.1 percent.

Unemployment in the Maryland suburbs of Washington, D.C. also advanced, from 3.9 percent in May to 4.7 in June.

Western Maryland's overall unemployment rate jumped from 8.5 percent to 9.3 percent. Employment advanced, with seasonal hiring in services outnumbering seasonal layoffs by schools.

The strongly seasonal nature of the economy in Southern Maryland and on the Eastern Shore caused employment to advance in all 11 counties.

Univ. of Maryland Given Grant For Energy Research

Four University of Maryland research scientists have been awarded a two-year grant to study the economic and technical feasibility of using vegetable oils as an alternative fuel source.

Oils such as those squeezed from peanuts, soybeans, sunflowers, rape seed and winter wheat could be used to "extend" diesel fuel now used in agriculture, according to Dr. Larry E. Stewart, chairman of the university's Department of Agricultural Engineering.

The combination of oils and diesel fuel would work in much the same manner as the current combination of corn alcohol and gasoline to produce "gasohol," he said.

The four scientists, working under the university's Agricultural Experiment Station, and their particular endeavors in the research project include:

•Dr. Ali Farsale, Department of Agricultural Engineering, who will study oil squeezing equipment as well as conduct engine tests with oil-diesel combinations.

•Dr. William Wiebold, Department of Agronomy, who will study various crop combinations of peanuts, soybeans, sunflowers, rape seed and winter wheat to determine which combinations produce the most oil and which grade of vegetable oil is best suited for diesel fuel.

•Dr. William Lessley, Department of Agricultural and Resource Economics, who will study the economic and energy feasibility of vegetable oils and diesel fuels; and.

•Dr. Jerry V. DeBarthe, Department of Animal Science, who will study possible uses of by-products from the oil production process as swine and sheep feed supplements.

"Potentially, the use of vegetable oils with diesel fuel or in place of diesel fuel looks very promising," said Dr. Stewart.

In 1978, 53 percent of all farm tractors in the nation used diesel fuels, consuming 3.3 billion gallons, he said.

By 1990, 88 percent of all farm tractors are expected to be diesel-powered, he said.

The research grant, awarded by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, is for $135,187 and was sought competitively by a host of other major universities and private industry.

New High-Yield Wheat Variety Set For Release

After a six-year statewide test period, the Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station is ready to release a new high-yield wheat variety that promises early maturity, excellent baking quality and good disease resistance, according to a new release from the station.

The new soft red winter wheat variety is called "Severn," and research scientists with the Experiment Station at the University of Maryland say it has proven to be an ideal partner for double cropping with soybeans.

Official release of the new wheat variety is scheduled to coincide with the "Crops and Soils Research Field Day" August 18, at the Wye Research Farm near Queenstown.

There, approximately 1,000 members of Maryland's farm and lay communities will see an assortment of current agricultural research projects.

"Severn's" yield, says Dr. James R. Miller, chairman of the university's Department of Agronomy, averages seven bushels per acre more than "Arthur," a widely-planted wheat variety in Maryland.

Arthur, adding to its potential popularity for wheat-soybean double cropping by Maryland farmers, added Dr. Miller.

Foundation seed of "Severn" was produced in Maryland during 1980-81 and will be distributed through foundation seed organizations this fall, he said.

Small amounts of seed should be available for farmers' use by fall 1982, and seed should be generally available in 1983, said Dr. Miller.

Breeder seed will be maintained by the Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station, he said.

Social Security Manager Notes Medicare Changes

Medicare's basic medical insurance premium went up $1.40 starting July 1 — from $9.60 to $11 a month — Valerie J. Loughran, District Manager, Cumberland announced. Also effective since July 1 are several significant changes in home health coverage enacted late last year.

The Medicare law requires an annual review of the cost of the medical insurance program, which supplements the basic hospital insurance coverage under Medicare. Based on this review, an estimate is made of the cost for this coverage for the following year. The premium increase cannot be more than the percentage increase in social security benefits for the previous year. Social security benefits increased by 14.3 percent in 1980.

About 27.7 million people are covered by the basic hospital insurance and 27.4 million also have the supplemental medical insurance which covers doctors' bills and a variety of other expenses not covered by hospital insurance, Miss Loughran said. Included are people 65 and over who are eligible for social security or railroad retirement payments and people who have been entitled to disability benefits for 24 months or more.

People who worked long enough under social security or the railroad retirement system don't pay a monthly premium for Medicare hospital insurance, but those who sign up for medical insurance pay a monthly premium. More than two-thirds of the cost of the monthly premium is paid by the federal government from general revenues.

The monthly premium will be higher for some people, reflecting a surcharge of 10 percent for each year they could have had medical insurance but did not.

Starting July 1 the monthly payment for people who purchase Medicare hospital coverage because they didn't work long enough under social security or the railroad retirement system increased from $78 to $89. People who purchase hospital coverage are also required to sign up for medical insurance.

Miss Loughran pointed out that other changes in Medicare's home health insurance coverage were signed into law in late December and became effective starting July 1. These include:

- Unlimited home health care visits so long as the services are covered by Medicare. The prior limit was 100 visits during a prescribed period under each part of Medicare.

- Eliminates the requirement that home health care services be preceded by a hospital stay before Medicare hospital insurance can pay for home health visits.

- Eliminates the application of the $60 annual deductible under medical insurance for home health care coverage.

- Includes occupational therapy under home health care coverage.

- Permits private home health agencies in states without a licensure law to participate in the Medicare program.

The same legislation included a provision designed to make skilled nursing beds available in hospitals where acute care beds are available. Under agreements with Medicare, these "swing beds" would be used by patients who do not need acute care, but could not get into a skilled nursing facility for one reason or another.

Loughran Notes Planning Needed For Retirement

People who plan to retire at the end of the year should take some time soon to think about social security retirement benefits, Valerie J. Loughran, social security district manager in Cumberland said this week.

A person should apply for social security benefits two or three months before they plan to retire, she said. This way, benefits can begin shortly after income from work stops.

Before applying, a person should get the necessary proofs together, Miss Loughran said. This will save time at application time. The first item a person needs is his or her social security card or a record of the number.

Next, proof of date of birth is required. Preferred proof is an official record of birth or baptism before age five. If this does not exist, other proofs can be submitted. People at the Cumberland social security office can explain over the telephone what kinds of evidence can be used, she said.

Records that might be used include school, church, state or federal census, insurance policies, marriage, passports, employment, military service, children's birth certificates, union, immigration and naturalization. This is not an exclusive list and other records may be acceptable.

Forms W-2 (Wage and Tax Statement) for the past two years should be provided. A self-employed person should have copies of his or her self-employment tax returns for the past two years. These are needed because recent earnings reports may not be in social security records, Miss Loughran said.

A husband or wife who also plans to apply should have about the same documents. A marriage certificate may be required, but is not needed in all cases. Information about any previous marriages is also required.

Birth certificates of any young, unmarried children should be obtained as well.

Additional documentation may be required depending upon the particulars of a certain case.

Residents of Garrett County may call the office collect. It is located at 316 Paca Street and the telephone number is 724-0970. The office is open 8:45 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. weekdays.

IF THE SHOE

FITS . . .

Here is an open letter to any homeowner who has been trying to sell his own home or has thoughts in that direction:

"DEAR SIR:

Welcome to the real estate business! Now, would you like to get out of it?"

It does take a lot of your time, doesn't it? We know because we've been in it for some time now. It always amazes us how our "business day" stretches out, with the so-called rush-hour common to most businesses sometimes never occurring at any set time.

That's why our office puts in what we call a "9-to-5-and-then-some day". Owners who list with us never have to pass up meals or weekend trips, since there's no need for them to be around to make sure a prospect sees the property. And that means faster sales as well as easier selling because we can show your house to a dozen prospects while you're at the regular job you're supposed to be doing.

Why not phone us? We'll be happy to discuss your situation in the strictest confidence."

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone one of our offices:

Gormanian Man Killed Thursday In Auto Mishap

Services were held Sunday for Robert D. Knotts, 47, Gormanian, W. Va., who died Thursday night of injuries received in a two-vehicle accident on W. Va. Rt. 42 near Elk Garden.

According to a spokesperson for the West Virginia State Police, Knotts was traveling on Rt. 42 in foggy weather conditions when his vehicle apparently went left of the center line and struck a Mack dump truck being operated by Darl Roderick, Kitzmiller. No charges have been filed against Roderick.

Born in Bayard, Mr. Knotts was a son of Margaret E. Wilson, Knotts, Gormanian, and the late John H. Knotts.

He was a heavy equipment operator for Davis Trucking Company, Bayard.

In addition to his mother, he is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Jean Osmer, Bayard; Mrs. Mary J. Baugh, Goffsburg, Pa.; and a brother, Jack Knotts, Deer Park.

Friends were received at the Stewart Funeral Home, Oakland where services were conducted by Rev. William Anderson.

$13,000 In Stolen Silver Is Recovered

A set of stolen silverware valued at nearly $13,000 was recovered by the Garrett County Sheriff's Department after two juveniles found the merchandise in a wooded area near their homes.

The theft was reported by Susan F. Schumke, Mt. Lake Park, on June 4. The thieves apparently forced open the rear door of her residence during the night and took approximately 30 pieces of silver from the cabinet, guarding nothing else. One piece is missing from the recovered set, and the investigation is continuing.

The department has been working on other area burglaries reported last week.

Hearing Held For Deep Creek Sanitary District Boundaries

Approximately 35 Deep Creek Lake area residents turned out for a public hearing to establish legal boundaries for the Deep Creek Lake Sanitary District last Tuesday, August 4, at Garrett Community College in Mt. Henry.

Among those present in addition to Sanitary Commission members, were Tim Lash of Rummel, Knepper & Kuhl out of Baltimore, project engineer, and Garrett County Commissioner Ernest J. Grogg. The hearing was conducted by Harry Fienlyer, commission chairman.

Fienlyer explained that the hearing served as a legal step to define the general area within which sewerage service is anticipated, a pre-requisite to construction of the Deep Creek Sewerage System.

The proposed district encompasses areas considered to be served now or in the possible future. Fienlyer emphasized the fact that the Sanitary Commission does not intend to use an ad valorem tax to retire the debt of the project, stating that the commission "feels only those facilities to be served should be charged for services," and residents within the district "won't be paying for anything if they are not served."

Commissioner Grogg reinforced that determination by saying that ad valorem tax is not the intent of the commission or the county government.

Board Awards Solid Waste Contract

The Garrett County Commissioners have awarded a $196,800 solid waste contract to Winchester, Virginia firm which will take over the county's present dumpster system with the equipment used by the county for solid waste disposal.

The operation of the solid waste system by B.F.L. is expected to save the county $50,000 this year.

The commissioners noted they have abolished the county solid waste department, which meant eight men lost their jobs, but they explained the men would have the opportunity for employment with B.F.L.

Nine Juveniles Apprehended In Grantsville Crime Spree

Grantsville Police Chief Frank Wilkins has arrested a total of nine juveniles since Wednesday in connection with alleged breakings and enterings, thefts, and destruction of properties which have occurred during the last eighteen months in the Grantsville area.

According to Wilkins, some of the stolen merchandise had been disposed of in a pond on the property of Councilman Harold Humberston on Miller Road. The pond was drained on Saturday after being dredged twice last week, thus far revealing missing tires, toys from neighbors in the area, and merchandise stolen from a residence. "Most recovery efforts have been temporarily halted until drainage is completed."

Portion of the arrests involved the breaking and entering of the new Grantsville school, as well as severe damage of facilities in the old school building.

Thus far merchandise valued at $1,000 has been recovered, and Wilkins expects that figure to increase in the near future.

The current investigation involves approximately 36 different incidents, including breakings and entering the buildings in Grantsville Park, the Casselman Motors garage, and both elementary schools.

Charges against the youths, ranging in age from 14 to 17 include theft, malicious burning, destruction of property, and breaking and entering. "The investigation is continuing, and Wilkins anticipates further arrests in the near future."

Dr. Schrock Honored With Alumnus Award From Waynesburg College

Alta E. Schrock, PhD, founder and development director of Penn Alps, Inc., and Highland Association, Grantsville, recently received the 1981 Distinguished Alumnus Award at her alma mater, Waynesburg College, Waynesburg, Pa., in recognition of her "outstanding achievements in the preservation of Appalachian heritage and enrichment of Appalachian culture."

Dr. Schrock is a 1937 graduate of Waynesburg College, founded in 1840, which was one of the first colleges in the nation to adopt co-education. She received her M.A. degree from Kent State in 1939, and her PhD degree from University of Pittsburgh in 1944. In addition to this she did graduate study at Oberlin College, University of Cincinnati, research in Anthropology, history and handicrafts in Germany, Switzerland and Austria. In 1972 she was awarded the Doctor of Humanities honorary degree at Waynesburg College because of "her great concern for the welfare of people."

She founded Mennonite Youth Village (Meburn) for underprivileged youth in 1956, served as director of a team of women doing relief and welfare work in Europe from 1952 to 1964 and was a leading force in the organization of Springs Historical Society, Spring House (Pennsylvania) Folk Festival, Council of the Alleghenies, and more recently, Casselwood Corporation, a small furniture manufacturing business near Grantsville, which specializes in early American furniture.

During the late forties and early fifties she served as co-director of biology at Bluffton College, where she transformed an old barn into a home for herself and meeting place for college students.

Her dreams of serving her own people in the mountains of Pennsylvania and Maryland came true when she returned to become professor of biology at Frostburg State College from January 1960 to December 1978. In addition to teaching she served as editor of "The Journal of the Alleghenies," "The Casselwood Chronicle," and was co-founder and charter member of the Charlestown Child Welfare Committee of the Mennonite Church.

Since her retirement from teaching in 1978 she has resided in her home near Penn Alps, Grantsville, where she remains active in numerous organizations.

HUD Grant For Kitzmiller Water System Approved

A $244,000 Community Development Block Grant for the Town of Kitzmiller has been approved by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development under the provisions of Title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974, as amended.

In a letter to Mayor Lois Messer, Thomas R. Hobbs, area manager of the Baltimore Office of HUD, announced approval of funds for the development of the Kitzmiller Water Distribution System.

The primary objective of the CDBG program is the development of viable communities including decent housing, a suitable living environment, and expanding economic opportunities, principally for persons of low- and moderate-income, according to HUD.

The long-awaited block grant will be used in conjunction with other grant and loan funds for the construction of the town's water system. The Garrett County Sanitary Commission, initiators of the project several years ago, will act as the lead agency for the project, although the town will have sole responsibility for the HUD grant funds.

After construction of the project the town of Kitzmiller will operate and maintain the system, collect fees from the users and set the rates, with the exception of front lot assessment set to pay the capital cost for construction, according to Wendell Bortzel, Sanitary District Administrator. He added that front lot assessment funds will be turned over to the Sanitary Commission to pay off the capital indebtedness.

Board To Vote On FY '82 Food Service Budget

The Garrett County Board of Education will consider for adoption at 2:45 p.m. Thursday during its meeting the FY1982 food service budget totaling about $229,000.

Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, county superintendent of schools, stated the Board must make a decision about its food service budget even though the federal government has not made all final decisions on the school lunch program.

The budget, as proposed by Ryscavage and members of his staff, will include two federally mandated increases in meals. The reduced lunch price will increase from 20 cents to 40 cents and the reduced breakfast price will increase from five cents to 10 cents.

Ryscavage noted that the only increase to be recommended for the full paying student will be a price rise from 40 to 50 cents for breakfast.

Prices for paid lunches would remain the same as at the end of the past school year, which were 55 cents for elementary, 60 cents for middle school, 70 cents for high school, and $1.35 for adults.

The recommendation would not include any reductions in cafeteria staff, Ryscavage said, but transfers of staff might be necessary due to retirements or resignations.

Ryscavage added that because the federal government has taken no final action, he will point out to the Board that

Bradley Manor Residents Press On In Struggle To Save Their Homes

by Beverly J. Smedley

On April 1, 1971, an advertisement appeared in The Republican which seemed to be promoting a townhouse complex in a metropolitan rather than the 106-unit Bradley Manor apartment complex on the western outskirts of Oakland.

It told the reader to "Enjoy the beauty and quiet of suburban living with urban facilities right at hand." It stated that the new, ultra-modern apartment complex, partly funded with federal Housing and Urban Development funds and developed by the Baltimore firm Oakland Associates, was designed for comfort, convenience, privacy and economy.

The ad pictured a modern, two-story townhouse complex with landscaping. The townhouses were faced with brick and appeared to be well-constructed and well-kept.

Some today would call the April Fool's Day of a cruel joke. The ultra-modern modular units, minus the brick and landscaping, are rapidly deteriorating. Local officials fear some may not hold up under another Garrett County winter.

The flat roofs, not an architectural advantage in this county of heavy snows and rains, began leaking soon after the complex was built, allowing extensive water damage to the pre-fabricated units. Wallpaper is peeling from the walls, ceilings are falling down, and in some the walls are coming apart.

One resident, who is wheelchair bound, must sit in her kitchen during rainstorms and the spring thaw to mop up the water that pours down her walls onto the floor.

Because of inadequate drainage and soil-erosion planning on the marshy grounds, the foundation under one unit collapsed and, consequently, the unit had to be abandoned.

Officials believe that portion of foundation was just the first to go.

The three and four-bedroom homes had inadequate insulation, driving utility costs up, and though heat was included in the rent, the tenants felt the inefficiency in their higher rents.

The residents not only cope with the rent, but with drafty apartments. One tenant had to cover her bedroom wall with plastic in the winter to maintain even a little warmth in the room.

Those who were on the Oakland town council when the complex was first proposed in June 1970 are not surprised that the complex is deteriorating.

The surprise is that it lasted ten years," said one former council member.

The council fought to insure that the units were constructed properly and would be safe and comfortable for tenants, just as the tenants and county officials have fought over the years for repair to the deteriorating units.

The town imposed a building code and sent inspectors out to oversee the units and even tried to delay the opening of the complex until certain problems were corrected.

The town charged that the apartments had inadequate firewalls, were inadequately anchored to each other and to the foundation, had inadequate drainage, leaking roofs, and inadequate ventilation for furnace rooms. They had watched as the foundation was poured and the complex hastily constructed during the winter months.

A court order on June 30, 1971 brought about after Morton Sarubin, general partner of Oakland Associates, filed suit against Oakland restricted the town's inspectors to safety and habitability matters, and required the town to issue a final use and occupancy permit for the project upon completion of the town's inspection and the correction of any defects found.

The state fire marshal ordered the installation of fire wall between units and the Department of Water Resources cited the project for soil erosion violations.

Despite mounting local skepticism, the complex opened in July 1971. Problems continued at the complex. Inadequate insulation, poor management, and lack of repairs made the complex undesirable to potential renters who could afford better.

To correct the low occupancy rate, Oakland Associates applied for a federal rent subsidy program in addition to one already offered at the complex, which increased the number of units eligible for rent subsidy from 40 to 100.

Now the waiting list for apartments is up to 73 families, but management has frozen acceptance of new occupants.

As tenants move out of the complex leaving units empty, the fear of remaining occupants mounts. Some of them interpret the empty units as signs that the management might close down the complex, which is the last thing they or local officials want to see occur.

Local officials are working with a recently formed tenants group to do what is needed to correct the problems at Bradley Manor, short of closing it down.

We are striving for 100 percent decent, safe and sanitary housing for Bradley Manor residents," said Tim Duane, county planning director, who along with county housing director Duane Wawczinski, Community Action director Duane Nelson, and his assistant Pam Nelson, have been working with Bradley Manor residents.

The all emphasis they are not interested in putting Morton Sarubin out of business, although they view him to be negligent in his responsibilities as owner of the development.

They point out that Sarubin has built numerous housing complexes in Maryland; most of them have been controversial.

They and the tenants have been contacting elected officials to place pressure on HUD, the mortgage holder for the project, which they charge with inadequate policing of the project. They have met with Congressman Beverly Byron as well as representatives for CONSTRUCTION began this week on the Meadows project in Mt. Lake Park, a 20-unit apartment complex designed for the elderly and handicapped. The project is located on St. Street on land formerly owned by William L. Martin, Jr. The complex design is similar to that of the recently completed Town View Village project in Accident. Pictured are Dick Devlin, left, and R. Thomas Thayer, local developers who are constructing the project with a loan obtained through Farmer Home Administration Section 515 project. STONES ROLL AWAY — The foundation under this unit crumbled on Easter Sunday this year forcing the residents to move into another unit in the Bradley Manor complex. Officials blame poor drainage in a marshy soil and bad construction practices as the reason for the foundation collapse. Plywood has been placed over the opening to prevent children from climbing underneath the unit.

Senators Charles Mathias and Paul Sarbanes.

Dugan states that HUD cannot claim ignorance of the problems at Bradley Manor because letters have been written to the regional office at HUD in Baltimore. HUD, Dugan said, responded with promises to remedy the situation, but never kept the promises.

The political pressure and a letter campaign by the tenants seem to be bringing results. Dugan said the Washington, D.C. office of HUD has sent an ultimatum to Sarubin telling him he must either find the money to fix the complex or deed the complex to HUD. If he chooses neither alternative, the official said HUD will foreclose on him.

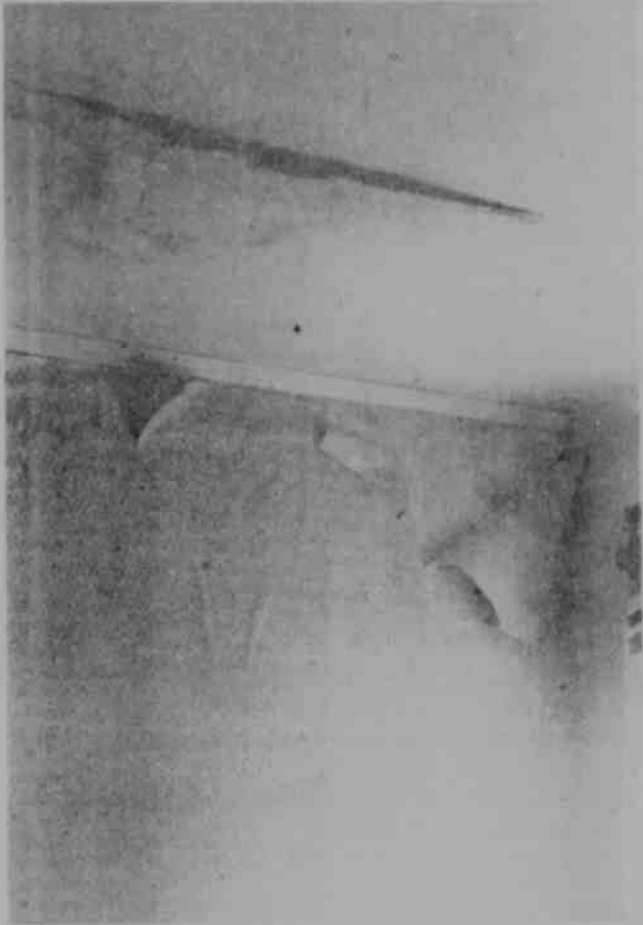

Another accomplishment is the request by Senator Edward M. Kennedy for a federal investigation of both the Baltimore office of HUD and of Oakland Associates.

In his request to June Cook, deputy undersecretary for intergovernmental relations of HUD, Mason stated "While Oakland Associates, as owner of the property, must ultimately be held responsible for the structural and management deficiencies which exist at Bradley Manor, I in no way exonerate the failure of the Department's Area Office (Baltimore) to remedy this situation."

Though Mason notes his concern for the tenants of the complex, he emphasizes there is little that can be done at the state level.

Local activists hope to see HUD take over ownership of the project, because the project would then become eligible for federal money to rehabilitate the units, if any money is available.

No one knows for sure the extent of repairs needed at Bradley Manor, but County Commissioner Ernie Gregg expects most of the units will have to be razed and reconstructed, a block at a time, while tenants live in trailers temporarily set

SEVERE WATER DAMAGE — In Tenant Group spokesperson Sharon Elsey's apartment, water damage in one bedroom has caused the ceiling to begin to fall down and the wallpaper to peel off the wall. cooperate with HUD to reach a satisfactory solution. They do not want the complex closed down for they have no idea where they would find homes for the 330 Bradley Manor residents.

Sharon Elsey pointed out that 54 percent of the residents have annual incomes less than $4000.

Commissioner Gregg says that even if some of the tenants could afford fair market rents, not even 25 percent of them could find housing in Garrett County, due to the housing shortage.

For many of the residents, the apartments are better than the shanties or overcrowded homes they left behind. If the apartments were closed, they would have nowhere to go.

Last week, the tenants received a letter from Community Services, Inc., the firm hired by Oakland Associates to manage the project. The tenants had received letters before containing promises to repair the units, but the repairs turned out to be mere patchwork rather than correction of problems.

This letter was different, somewhat. It admitted there were critical problems at Bradley Manor and asked the tenants to write to their elected officials to complain about the lack of cooperation from HUD in funding the renovation of Bradley Manor.

Sharon Elsey and other tenants are writing letters, but not to complain against HUD. They are saying that they want to keep their home, but they have had enough empty promises and lies. They are no longer April's fools.

THIS WEEK
Jean Jordan

by Kathy Bailey
Jean Jordan of Albuquerque, New Mexico joined the Garrett County Playhouse Company last week when she played the female lead role of Amanda in Noel Coward's "Private Lives." Although the personalities differ, Ms. Jordan's experiences have, in some ways, paralleled the lifestyle of Amanda, as she has traveled extensively, she seems to live for the present and she appears always ready to tackle just about anything in her wide span of interests.

A pretty blond and very easy to talk with, Jean portrays an image of grace and elegance. Her easy-going personality masks the serious determination and drive with which she approaches her many endeavors. One could not picture her being unkind, and her understanding of people and human nature is evident in her conversation. Her admirable achievements support her enthusiasm for women's rights, however she remains a picture of femininity.

Jean is living proof that a person is able to do many things well, and she resents the fact that people are labeled according to their occupation. Such labeling in her case would certainly be inappropriate.

In addition to her award-winning career as a free-lance writer and photographer, she is also employed in the area of public relations, she has worked with radio and television, documentary film-making and cinematography. She was once a nightclub singer and during her six-year residence in Mexico Jean even took on the art of bullfighting.

Ms. Jordan currently carries with her three resumes, stating that, "When people ask me, 'What do you do?', my answer depends on what day you ask me and what hour."

In the area of entertainment, Jean states that she learned all of her skills from her father, a Methodist preacher. "Show biz was a natural," she said, "my father was marvelous with it." Raised in Texas, Jean was primed for the stage as a child through speech lessons in articulation and exposure to music and expression through the church and her father. She entered the world of nightclub entertainment with her sister Jeffie, booking themselves as the Fisher Sisters and joining scattered duos in pioneering the two-man (or in this case two-woman) nightclub act. The Fisher Sisters performed in New York City, Boston and New Jersey, and they appeared regularly on NBC television with a variety show. Having been a singer as well, Jean maintains a belief that the impact made by an entertainer is most important, falling back on the power of persuasion which she says she got from her father.

She later married Lethrop Jordan, a movie producer and cinematographer in Texas. Several years later the marriage ended in divorce. At that shattering time Jean and her two sons traveled to Mexico where Ms. Jordan re-entered the world of the theatre and pursued new interests. "I began to explore myself and I discovered inner resources that I never thought I had." There Jean traveled with a Mexican acting group, Spanish-speaking, which performed at universities in the western part of the country. "It was a funny experience," she said, "but I learned a lot... actors there are much more dramatic."

She also worked on a fine arts committee in Guadalajara volunteering directing and coaching services, and she voluntarily directed the musical "West Side Story" at the "second-largest theatre in Mexico" the year the International Olympic Games were held there. That production was unique in that the musical portion was done in English, but the acting was in Spanish.

Jean also taught drama at the Guadalajara State Penitentiary for a time, and she taught Yoga on Mexican television. In that country Jean became a bullfight reporter and, occasionally, a bullfighter.

The GARRETT COUNTY PLAYHOUSE

by Theo Varnell
Tonight at the Garrett County Playhouse playgoers will see Neil Simon's comedy "Chapter Two," a semi-autobiographical play about second chances in life and love. Directed by Russell Arthur, the cast includes Milburn Mehlhop, Chris von Eckartsberg, Debbie Martinez and Pamela Harden.

To reach the Playhouse from Rt. 219, take the Glendale Bridge Road (at Alpine Village), cross the bridge, bear right. At the first intersection, approximately one mile beyond the bridge, turn right onto the Beckman's Peninsula Road (the first intersection past the bridge). The Playhouse drive is just at the bottom of the short hill.

For information and reservations call Englander's, Gregg's or Proudfoot's pharmacies in Oakland. All seats are general admission but theatre-goers are urged to make reservations, which will be honored until 8:20 on performance nights.

All performances begin at 8:30 p.m. Next week at the playhouse see William Douglas Home's "The Kinslayer."

The reporting introduced her to the media, with which she has since been very much involved, stating it is "a good thing, because it offers diverse sources of information." Diversity has indeed been evident in a large part of her life.

Having returned to the states, Jean attended numerous colleges and was also involved with teaching, the theatre and the media. Pausing for a moment, she rattled off the subjects taught at various places, including photography, theatrical make-up, acting, theatrical history, journalism and creative writing. Ms. Jordan graduated from the University of New Mexico in 1974 with a bachelor of University studies degree and her sons cheering her on. Her continual studies are concentrated in the areas of theatre arts, mass communications, television and journalism. Jean says she still loves to take classes and will never stop learning.

One of Jean's dearest accomplishments, she notes, was in the acting field when she won the Dallas Entertainment Award for her performance as Jenny Diver with a small theatre there. She views that "very emotional role" as the high point of her career, as she played a broken prostitute in a part involving "dramatic, bitter song."

Jean has obviously been a

Sincell Appointed Instructor Of Speech, Theater

R. Benjamin Sincell, Jr., a native Garrett Countian, known to many area residents as "Mr. Magic," has been appointed instructor of speech and theater at Garrett Community College, according to Robert L. Trantam, Dean of the College. Sincell's appointment becomes effective September 1.

A graduate of Southern High School, Sincell attended Garrett Community College for one year before transferring to West Virginia Wesleyan College where he was graduated in 1977 with a bachelor of arts degree in speech and dramatic arts. While in college he participated in many dramatic productions as actor, set construction and lighting technician, and special effects consultant. He was elected to Omicron Delta Kappa, national honorary fraternity, and served as president of Alpha Psi Omega. In 1977 he was named to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

After his graduation Sincell studied modern dance, mime, and ballet in New York City for one year and worked with the Magic Mime Players. For the past three years he has been employed as pressman by Sincell Publishing Company in Oakland and has presented his "Night of Magic" illusionist performances throughout western Maryland and West Virginia. Last year he taught adjunct speech courses at Garrett Community College.

Sincell has also been actively involved with many local dramatic productions, having performed with the Garrett County Playhouse, and having served as lighting and set design technician for the Community Choral Society's production of "Annie and the Night Visitors" and the Community Theater production of "Beauty and the Beast." He is currently working with that group on the production of "Butterflies are Free" to be presented next month.

As a member of the college faculty, Sincell will teach basic speech, technical speech, introduction to the theater, and fundamentals of acting courses. He will also be responsible for the college's dramatic productions. According to Joan B. Crawford, chairperson of the Humanities Division, his appointment is the result of the college's decision to develop a theater program for the students and the community. In future years it will be possible for college students to get practical theater experience with the Community Theater group and the summer Garrett County Playhouse, Mrs. Crawford said.

Sincell views his appointment as a step toward a successful college-community theater program. He stated, "Now that Garrett Community College has created this position, there will be a wonderful opportunity for individuals and groups. Not only will it provide a solid foundation for a few career-bound students in speech and theater, but it will also provide activities for the college students, entertainments for the county, and an opportunity for many county residents to become involved in community theater."

During the past three years Sincell has participated in community activities other than theatrical productions. As a certified emergency medical technician, he is a member of the Southern Garrett County CHANGING HANDS after 35 years will be the chairmanship of the canteen of the local Red Cross Bloodmobile program. Mrs. Beryl Gortner, Oakland, pictured center, has held the position for the past three and a half decades, making sure all blood donors partake of food and beverages immediately after donating during regular visits of the Bloodmobile. Rescue Squad and the National Ski Patrol. He is also a member of the Garrett Choral Society, the Garrett County Arts Council, and is a certified United Methodist Lay Speaker. Sincell lives in Pleasant Valley with his wife, the formerly Beverly Remley, and his son Daniel. He is the son of Robert B. and Hannah Sincell of Mt. Lake Park.

Talk Of The Towns

What's Going On In . . .

by Wendell Keaton
Municipal Administrator

Accident-August 3

Two major business items were discussed during the August 3 meeting of the Accident Mayor and Town Council:

1. A final engineering contract from Franklin and Associates was received and reviewed by the Council. The contract, in the amount of $1,650.00, proposes to provide a full range of engineering services, including surveys, design work and project inspection, for the water and sewer extensions along the Accident-Bittimer Road to the new elementary school site. The Mayor and Council decided not to execute the contract until bids for the new school had been awarded and certain written agreements were obtained from the Board of Education.

2. Three bids from area accounting firms for completing the Town's 1980-81 audit were also reviewed. Bid amounts ranged from $975 to $1,650 plus additional fees for preparing a cash journal, which is a prerequisite for undertaking the audit. The Town's Administrator discussed the possibility of developing the journal with assistance from the Office of Training and Management Assistance in Annapolis, at no charge to the Town. The net savings would range from $150 to $500. The bid award was tabled until such time as the cash journal is prepared.

Kitzmiller-August 5

During the August 5 meeting, Ms. Marilyn Metheny of the Commission on Aging updated the Council on the future of the hot meals program in Kitzmiller. Because of a reduction in funds, only two meals per week are anticipated. Council agreed that effective October 1 the rent for the Community Center will be reduced by one-third, which does not include an anticipated 10 percent increase in rent) provided that the Commission on Aging will provide janitorial services if CETA workers are not available at that time.

Friendsville August 3

Due to a lack of a quorum, no official business was conducted during the August 3 meeting of the Friendsville Mayor and Town Council.

However, Mayor Ross was in receipt of a letter from the Maryland Department of Transportation in reference to the runaway truck incident which occurred on April 24 on Route 42. The letter, from District Engineer T. W. Beaulieu, outlined four improvements that MDOT has agreed on for Route 42:

1. Increased lighting (upgrading existing lights to high pressure sodium and installing two new light fixtures). Costs for these activities would be the Town's responsibility, although MDOT will provide design data.

2. The speed limit of Route 42 will be reduced from 50 mph to 40 mph from the top of Elder Hill to the corporate limits of Friendsville.

3. Signs will be placed at the top of Elder Hill advising motorists of the existing curves and will also advise truckers of the percent of downgrade. Additionally, an advisory sign will be placed on 219 north (prior to the junction of 42) recommending that truckers continue north on 219 to reach US 48.

4. Discussions are underway with the property owner on the west side of 42 opposite Second Street concerning the removal of several trees which affect the view of motorists turning left onto Second Street. Negotiations are still pending.

During the informal meeting, the Town's Municipal Administrator discussed the recent submission of an Economic Development Administration (EDA) application which, if approved, could provide the Town's local share of market study-project feasibility report which has already been given preliminary approval. The study is one aspect of the current Administration's efforts to rehabilitate the old Friendsville Elementary School for commercial or industrial use. These EDA funds (up to $5,000.00) will be used to match an additional $5,000 grant from the Maryland Industrial and Commercial Redevelopment Fund (MICRF).

In related matter, Mayor Ross informed Council that he and the Administrator would be meeting with the Executive Committee of the Small Town Emphasis Program (STEP) on August 6 to discuss delays encountered with a previous grant award for the replacement of the roof on the old school building. Final action is expected to be taken by the full committee on that date.

by Kathy Bailey

Oakland-August 3

In addition to regular business matters, the Mayor and Town Council took action on the following items:

1. Council voted to accept a bid from Metheny Brothers Construction, Kingwood, W. Va., in the amount of $3,380 for the repair of Ward Hinebaugh's wall located at Ward's on Second Street. Damage to the wall was apparently related to the Town's curb installation nearly 35 years ago, which allowed water to flow under the curb and behind the wall, causing it to bulge out. Construction of the curbing, sidewalk and wall is expected to be supervised by the Town's Street Department.

James R. Stanton, council president, expressed reservations on work of this type and the possible precedent-setting for obligating the Town in the future.

2. Paul Frantz, president of the Mt. Top Softball League, informed Council that a survey was completed to determine a site for a softball field at the Bradford Recreation Area, to be sponsored by that league. A site, located in the vicinity of the existing ball fields, was approved by Council and the group is awaiting final approval by the Garrett County Soil Conservation District.

Frantz stated that the league is hoping to begin using the site in the spring or early summer of 1982. A parking area will also be constructed if the project is approved, and the group hopes to have most of the work done through donations of time and equipment. In years to come the league plans to construct bleachers, dugouts and possibly lights for the field. Anyone having equipment or labor to donate to the project may contact Frantz at 334-4205.

3. The Mayor and Town Council adopted a resolution to support the Garrett County Commissioners in preventing the distribution of city sludge in Garrett County.

At a special business meeting July 20 Council adopted the budget for fiscal year 1981-82. The total amount of receipts and expenditures is $760,997.90. The Town's tax rate will remain at $1.20, and residents may review the budget at the Town Hall.

Mt. Lake Park-July 30

In addition to regular business matters, the Mayor and Town Council addressed the following items:

1. Attorney Robert E. Watson was accompanied by Bill Randalls of Cabletelevision of West Virginia-Operating Partnerships, to negotiate a franchise agreement between the towns of Mt. Lake Park and Loch Lynn and Cabletelevision.

Discussion dealt primarily with the company's offering paid television, the terms of installation and service, and compensation for the towns which is set at five percent of gross annual receipts.

2. Mayor Russell B. Alexander signed a lease with an option to buy property owned by the Bittinger family, located on I. Street, which the town wants to purchase through Program ment, the firm which is buying out BetterVision, Inc., franchise holdings in Garrett County. Members of the Mayor and Town Council of Loch Lynn were also present.

After some discussion the new franchise agreement was found suitable by both parties and was signed. Under the agreement Cabletelevision will explore the possibilities of offering Baltimore television stations in Garrett County through a feasibility study, the results of which will be reported to town councils for review and consideration. The expense of bringing Baltimore stations to Garrett County through micro-wave reportedly will be passed on to the customer.

The Board, which has been discussing the subject for the past year, is interested in enacting a policy which establishes rules for the activities.

Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, county superintendent of public schools, explained the 13-item questionnaire was developed to obtain information from stu-

3. Mayor Alexander swore into office two new council members, Dave Turney and George Welling, for two-year terms.

Extra-curricular

Activities Survey

To Be Mailed Soon

The Garrett County Board of Education will mail out approximately 130 questionnaires to the public in the next two weeks concerning extra-curricular activities at Northern and Southern high schools.

The Board, which has been discussing the subject for the past year, is interested in enacting a policy which establishes rules for the activities.

Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, county superintendent of public schools, explained the 13-item questionnaire was developed to obtain information from students, teachers, and the public. Approximately 260 students and teachers from both high schools responded to the questionnaire early in the summer.

Ryscavage noted that upon the compilation of all responses, the data will be used to develop a report to the Board which could serve as a basis for a formal policy statement.

Straight Talk About Aging

By Matthew Tayback
State Director On Aging

ARTHRITIS: WHAT CAN BE DONE

Arthritis has been a subject we have covered from time to time. I've told you about its various forms—potentially crippling rheumatoid arthritis, chronic "wear-and-tear" osteoarthritis, and gout—and we have warned you to steer clear of the many strange nostrums and fraudulent cures proffered by quacks who care more about the thickness of their wallets than they do about the thickness of your joints.

We haven't, though, outlined some of the approved therapies for arthritis. We do that now by presenting some of the legitimate forms of treatments being used for the major types of arthritis. Some of the drug names may be tongue-twisters, but don't worry about that. Better a tongue-twister that brings some real relief than an easily-pronounced snake-oil that does nothing, at best.

For the most serious form of arthritis (rheumatoid), physicians often prescribe anti-inflammatory drugs such as aspirin (to be taken regularly and in large doses), corticosteroids (which can give dramatic reduction in pain, but which can also cause serious side effects and thus are being prescribed less often), and phenylbutazone (the use of which must be closely monitored by a doctor).

Other drugs which may bring about beneficial results are gold salts, penicillamine (for patients with severe cases), and antimalarials, derivatives of quinine.

Accepted treatments for rheumatoid arthritis include bedrest, the resting of individual joints by means of removable, lightweight splints, and special "quiet" exercises which gently put affected joints through their full range of motion.

Many physicians also find that heat helps their patients move more easily and with less pain. They therefore prescribe hot baths, heat lamps or hot packs, hydrotherapy, and sometimes applications of warm paraffin wax.

For victims of osteoarthritis, the variety suffered most often by the elderly—especially by older women—aspirin, phenylbutazone, and corticosteroids may again bring relief.

Two Area Men Linked With Chain Of Break-ins And Theft.

Three adults and a juvenile have been charged by Maryland State Police with a series of crimes including breaking, entering and theft, occurring in the last 30 days.

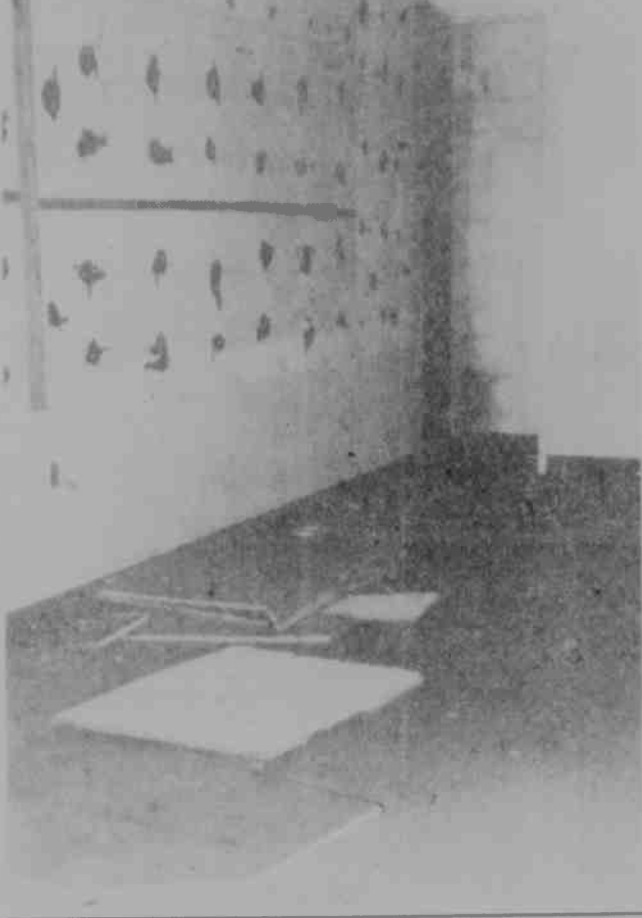

According to Charles Hinnant, special criminal investigator for the Maryland State Police, John Allan Cosner, Rt. 2, Terra Alta, W. Va., and Kenneth Earl House, Star Rt., Friendsville, along with Diana Lynn Sines, 21, also of Friendsville, were charged in the breaking and entering and theft of the U&W Clover Farm Store, Friendsville on August 5.

According to Hinnant, Cosner and House were observed by Tfc. Chester Miller inside the grocery store at 3 a.m. Tfc. Miller was waiting for Cosner as he exited the back door with his bags of groceries, and arrested him on the spot. House was arrested inside the establishment.

Meanwhile, Cpl. Hinnant had been called to the scene, and while searching the area near the store for further suspects, observed the car of Cosner parked nearby. Inside the car, Ms. Sines was waiting while a 14-year-old juvenile was standing watch at the front door.

The trio was arrested and transported to the county jail. A search of the car revealed a total of 72 submarine rolls, apparently planned to turn up with the lunch meat being stolen from the super market delicatessen. Further search revealed an additional 382 submarine rolls in the trunk, which were later discovered to be part of merchandise reported stolen from the Bruceton Mills Amoco Station, Hazelton Road, earlier that morning.

The breaking and entering at the gasoline service center involved an outdoor storage building in which the submarine rolls were stored.

Also confiscated during the search of the car was a brush ax, an automobile battery, wrenches, pliers, and assorted hand tools belonging to the Garrett County Roads Department which had been stolen August 4 from a lawn tractor parked on the Herrington Manor Road.

Further investigation revealed that the front tires on the Cosner car were stolen from the Joseph Lewis residence near Cranesville, along with the car's battery on July 27. Cosner was also in possession of a receipt from a salvage yard in Uniontown, Pa., which revealed the transaction of sale of two 250 pound rolls of copper which had been stolen from a Potomac Edison, Inc., work site in Friendsville on July 27, valued at $470.

Cosner and House are further implicated in the breaking and entering and theft of 600 pounds of fertilizer, 200 pounds of grass seed, a roll of barbed wire, a three-ton chain hoist, and a one-ton chain hoist belonging to the Phoenix Construction Corporation, which has a work site in Friendsville next to the one being used by Potomac Edison. Also stolen were three electric drills, two extension cords, a power tool, and eight quarts of motor oil, valued at $1300.

Cosner is again implicated on July 20 concerning a vehicle belonging to H.D. Blattenberger from which 35 gallons of gasoline, a gas-operated generator, and a water cooler, valued at $360, were stolen.

On July 31, the Phoenix Construction Company site reported the theft of two gasoline water pumps, a wacker, and other assorted tools, valued at $1800.

During the course of the investigation, Cosner was also linked with the theft of a heavy-duty farm tractor battery, valued at $100, from the property of Peter J. Nichols, Cranesville Road, on July 10.

The defendants have been incarcerated in the Garrett County Jail, and additional charges are pending. More arrests are expected, according to Hinnant.

The most common last name in both the U.S. and Great Britain is Smith.

PAST QUEENS PRESENT — Almost all of the 24 past Garrett County Farm Queens attended the coronation of the 25th Farm Queen Lisa Giotteffly, center, held Sunday at the county fairgrounds. The past queens were present to celebrate the 25th anniversary of the county fair.

Looking At Antiques With The Country Boy

TINWARE

Tinware was made by rolling iron into extremely thin sheets and then dipping them into molten tin. This process allowed the tinsmith to process produced items that would remain shiny and rust-resistant as well as being lightweight.

The collector will find that about 90 percent of all tinware will be undecorated. The reason for this is that these items were used for practical purposes and decoration was costly.

Tin items are not only useful but also add to the decor of any kitchen or home. Scoops, buckets, cake-molds, ladles, candle holders and candle molds are only a few of the many items to be found at yard sales, flea markets and auctions.

Some decorated pieces are still to be found and are highly sought after by the advanced collector. Reproductions do exist and one should be aware of this fact. Modern imitations tend to be more exact in their design and the paint will not be covered with a pattern of hairline age cracks.

FNB Names New Assistant Manager At Tri-Towns

Robert M. Broadwater, Courtney R. Tusing, president and chairman of the Board of the First National Bank of Oakland recently announced the promotion of Robert M. Broadwater to the position of assistant manager of the bank's Tri-Towns office, effective July 22, 1981.

A graduate of Bruce High School, Broadwater joined the bank's staff in June 1978. He has had experience in several of the bank's branches, as well as training in the bookkeeping and computer departments. He joined the Tri-Towns office staff in August 1979 as a teller, the position he has held until his recent promotion.

Broadwater is married to the former Susan Metz. The couple resides on Maryland Avenue in Westport.

Stolen Silver

from his residence on July 29 sometime between 3 and 4 p.m. Unknown subjects entered the unlocked dwelling and took a CB channel base set, a Bearcat scanner and other items, all valued at approximately $300.

In a separate case, Joseph L. Lewis, Crestline, Calif., reported that his storage shed on Cranecove Road was entered sometime between July 25 and August 3 when the intruders removed a padlock. Taken from the shed was an 8-cell automotive battery. The culprits are believed to have also taken four 12-inch wheels and tires from Lewis' 1969 Pontiac stationwagon while it was parked in the yard. The total estimated loss value is $300.

Ward K. Livengood, postmaster in Friendsville, told the department that a 6-volt battery was taken from his personal vehicle, a 1960 Ford pickup, while it was parked in the post office lot during the night of August 3. The battery is valued at about $40.

In other business, the Town of Kitzmiller informed the department of vandalism that occurred during the night on Thursday. Someone apparently tore down a stop sign and a street sign and broke beer bottles on the roadway on Center and Main streets.

In other business, the department arrested six persons last week in addition to four juvenile runaways.

Erick V. Shearer, 31, and Eric Frederick Hess, 24, both of Pittsburgh, Pa., were arrested Wednesday, August 5, each charged with theft and bad check charges, two counts. The Maryland State Police worked with the Sheriff's Department in those arrests, and both men are still incarcerated on $1,000 bond.

Charles Ray Cooper, 29, Kingwood, W. Va., was arrested Saturday and charged with driving while intoxicated and possession of a controlled dangerous substance. He was released the same day on his own recognizance.

Robert Stanley House, 45, Friendsville, was arrested Saturday and charged with trespassing. He was released the same day on his own recognizance.

More Applicants Than Money

Maryland Home Financing Program Will Issue Mortgages With Lottery

ANNAPOLIS (UPI) — The state's latest offer of low interest mortgage money has, not surprisingly, attracted applicants for nearly twice the amount of money the state has to offer, officials said Tuesday.

This year, however, there won't be the long lines days of camping out in parking lots that marked past state-run home financing programs. Instead, the $4.5 million in mortgage money available to low and middle income families at 9% interest will be divided up Thursday by lottery.

"This is the first time we're using the lottery," said Alyce Heath, director of the Maryland Home Financing Program.

"We've used the first-come, first-served basis over the last few years and, because of economic conditions, people would line up in our parking lot for as much as six days before we opened our doors and would actually live out there in our parking lot."

Mrs. Heath said conventional mortgage loans available this week go from somewhere in the neighborhood of 16 to 18 percent interest, with 20 percent down.

"Our program doesn't require a down payment, although we do require that they have their settlement costs. We can make up to a 100 percent loan."

"See why we're so popular?" she said.

Economic and Community Development Secretary James Roberson will do the actual drawing, picking cards out of a box that will identify who among 217 qualified applicants will receive the low interest mortgages.

The department expects about 125 families to be awarded loans before the money runs out.

To satisfy the requests of everyone who applied, the state would have had to offer $8.8 million in loans, Mrs. Heath said.

All applicants were required to submit their application forms and fees of $115-$135 for two unmarried persons by Aug. 5 to qualify. Those who are not chosen will get their fees and other paperwork back.

Mrs. Heath said applicant cards will be thrown into the box, divided by counties, before Roberson makes the actual selection under the watchful eye of a representative from the attorney general's office.

The fees, she said, are used to cover the cost of an independent appraisal of the property applicants wish to purchase and to pay for credit checks.

To qualify for the mortgage program, applicants had to be within certain income limits ranging from $21,275 to $28,800 a year, depending on the number of people in the family and where the family lived. The applicants also had to be rejected at least twice, in writing, by private lending institutions.

Maximum loan amounts are to range from $42,500 to $46,500, depending again on where in the state the property is located.

Money for the program was derived through the sale in June of state general obligation bonds.

Over the years, about 2,500 families have received $63 million in below market rate mortgages, usually in one or two separate offerings a year.

Two Employees Die In ABL Explosion

KEYSER, W. Va. (UPI) — Death certificates were issued Tuesday for two men who vanished in a mighty explosion at a rocket fuel laboratory.

No trace of the two had been found after the blast at the Allegany Ballistics Laboratory of Hercules Inc., near the West Virginia-Maryland line.

The Mineral County coroner issued certificates for Charles W. Folk, 26, of Mt. Savage, Md., and Bruce Lejeune, 25, of Cumberland, Md. They had been working in the lab.

Dense fog slowed efforts to search for the bodies and assess damage at the facility at Rocket Center about 15 miles from Keyser on the West Virginia side of the Potomac River.

Shockwaves from the blast were felt for miles around. The two men were involved in the preparation of liquid explosives for use in rocket motors when the explosion occurred.

A statement issued by James Midgarden, the lab manager, said the blast occurred in an operating area of the complex where rocket fuel components and missile parts are made.

Hercules spokesman John Burch said the building was demolished by the blast.

"We're quite positive they were in the building," he said.

The building was designed to force an explosion to go upward, not outward, so other buildings in the complex would not be affected.

"We have assembled a team of experts from the company," said Paul Thompson of Hercules, "and they will be investigating this for some time."

Hercules manufactures solid rocket propellant for the Navy, he said.

Traffic Controllers' Vacant Jobs Draw Minimal Interest

A federal employment official in Baltimore Tuesday said he's surprised there haven't been more inquiries from people to fill vacant air traffic controller jobs.

Inquiries are "up around 400 as of this morning," since the Federal Aviation Administration announced the application process opened Thursday, said Leslie H. Saunders Jr., supervisor of the Federal Job Information and Testing Center in Baltimore.

"It's kind of surprising that not more have inquired. Even in the long lines we've had the past few days, maybe only the 15th or 20th person is interested in a controller's job," Saunders said.

The FAA has called in more than 600 military controllers to staff towers and a spokesman said up to 900 would be manning civilian airports in the next few days. He said some of the military personnel could be brought in to Baltimore-Washington International Airport to beef up skeleton staffs of supervisors and controllers who did not strike.

The FAA recommended the tower at Washington County Regional Airport in Hagerstown be closed to provide relief at busier airports.

Corrections Commissioner Says Tight Security May Cause Breaks

BALTIMORE (UPI) — A rash of breakouts from high-security prisons in Maryland could be partly a response to more restrictive security policies in the entire correctional system, the state corrections commissioner said.

"They (prisoners) see an overall tightening down and decide to take matters into their own hands," Jon P. Galley said Tuesday.

During the past four months, 17 inmates in medium and maximum-security facilities have escaped, including three convicted murderers. That compares with only five during the same period last year.

The number of "walkoffs," prisoners in minimum-security facilities who fail to return following authorized leaves, has fallen about 33 percent. During the past four months, 157 inmates have walked away from minimum-security prisons compared with 233 last year, prison officials said.

In March, corrections secretary Thomas W. Schmidt implemented guidelines designed, among other things, to limit walkoffs.

After the recent rash of escapes from high-security facilities, Schmidt demanded tighter security from prison wardens. One source reportedly told the Baltimore Sun that Schmidt recently told wardens if they couldn't do a better job, he would find somebody who would.

Cambridge Policeman Accused Of Shooting Suspect After Chase

CAMBRIDGE, Md. (UPI) — Cambridge police Tuesday released the name of the officer accused of shooting 19-year-old Tim Sampson following a high speed chase through the Eastern Shore town Saturday night.

Police officials, who for two days refused to release the name of the officer in question, said Pfc. Scott Mears has been placed on administrative leave with pay pending the outcome of the investigation.

The shooting incident has drawn criticism from members of the Cambridge black community. Monday night the Cambridge City Council listened to complaints that local police were withholding information about the shooting from the public.

Cambridge Police Chief Russell Morten said that after the Maryland State Police complete their investigation into Sampson's shooting the incident will be referred to the State's Attorney's office.

Sampson was listed in serious condition Tuesday at Peninsula General Hospital in Salisbury.

Frederick Co. Town Prepares To Host Ku Klux Klan Rally, Rock Concert

BRADDOCK HEIGHTS, Md. (UPI) — This normally quiet town in Frederick County will host a rock concert and a Ku Klux Klan rally on the same day next week, county officials said Tuesday.

Officials said the rock concert and the Klan rally have been set for Aug. 22 on sites near Braddock Heights, a town of about 1,600 people.

Bernard Esworthy Jr., manager of the Braddock Heights Ski-Way, Tuesday applied to Maryland State Police, asking permission to hold a rock concert on his secluded property.

Esworthy, who is required to post a $2,000 health bond and produce contracts for sanitation and security, said he expects a crowd of 3,000 people for a concert featuring the Edgar Winter group.

A smaller turnout is expected by the Klan, which recently received a permit from Frederick County officials for its Aug. 22 rally on a private lot behind the town's fire station.

BEL AIR, Md. (UPI) — Harford County Democrats unanimously recommended a 47-year-old deputy be named to replace Sheriff William J. Kunkel, who stepped down to become head of the Maryland Parole Commission.

The resolution Monday by the county's Democratic Central Committee asked that Gov. Harry Hughes name Sgt. Dominick J. Mele to the sheriff's post.

Mele, a former Baltimore city policeman, is a 16-year veteran of the sheriff's department.

Judges To Seek Uniform Sentencing

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Judges in four Maryland jurisdictions are participating in a federally funded experiment aimed at ending "patchwork quilt" sentencing procedures, the director of the state Judicial Commission said Tuesday.

Dr. Pat Nelson said the experiment provides guidelines for uniform sentences for specific crimes committed under similar circumstances.

"What this does is give the judges an extra tool in sentencing, but they still have a long way to go because the system has been so wide open," she said.

Ms. Nelson stressed the guidelines are purely advisory and that a judge can sentence within the range of them or go outside them as long as the sentence is within statutory limits.

Ten judges in circuit and district courts in Baltimore and the counties of Prince George's, Montgomery and Harford are participating in the program.

Nelson said many of the problems that result in widely disparate sentences for identical offenses stem from the fact that the jurisdictions of many courts overlap.

"It's like a patchwork quilt that everybody is trying to cope with," she said.

Ms. Nelson said inequities occur when a judge has total discretion and no knowledge about how other judges are sentencing for the same crime.

The project, which is funded by a $270,000 grant from the National Institute of Justice and $25,000 from the state, includes charts the judges use to compute the sentences.

With the aid of the charts, a judge weighs the seriousness of the offense against the offender's prior convictions for the same crime, overall criminal record and employment history.

The idea for the project began in 1979 when Maryland judges agreed at a conference that sentencing across the state for identical crimes differed significantly.

The chairman of the judicial advisory board overseeing the experiment, Baltimore Supreme Bench Judge Marshall Levin, said it was "irrational" to have disparate sentences for the same crimes committed under similar circumstances.

Legislative Re-Districting Task Force Agrees On Approach To Task

ANNAPOLIS (UPI) — A task force on legislative re-apportionment agreed Tuesday to divide Maryland into five geographic regions to provide a starting point for the drawing of new boundaries for the state's 47 legislative districts.

After the agreement was reached by the five-member task force, the prime sponsor of the plan, House Speaker Benjamin L. Cardin, D-Baltimore, said even the regional lines meant nothing at this time.

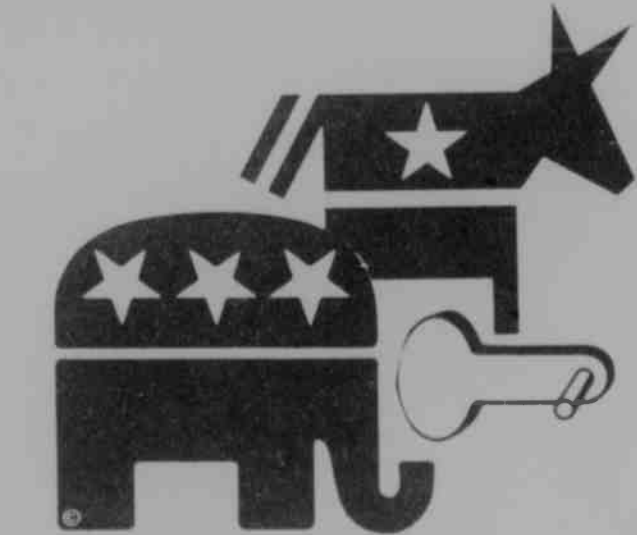

It really doesn't preclude anything. Everything is adjustable," he said. "There is nothing that has been decided."

The task force is expected to have a reapportionment plan ready to be recommended to the 1982 General Assembly when it convenes in January. Cardin said adopting the regional plan will prompt legislators, political party officials and others to begin work on the more politically sensitive individual legislative district plans.

These (regional) areas will adjust rather quickly and will come in with plans rather quickly," he predicted. Five regional public hearings have been scheduled to discuss the plan.

The regional plan breaks the state down as follows: Western Maryland, a region including Garrett, Allegany, Washington, Frederick and Carroll counties, but also the more suburban Montgomery and Howard counties.

Thirteen legislative districts would be carved out of the region, although the five western Maryland counties would draw their district lines more or less independently from the six in Montgomery and Howard counties.

Southern Maryland, another 13-district region including St. Mary's, Calvert and Charles counties, but also encompassing suburban Prince George's and Anne Arundel.

Cardin said adjustments would have to be made later for possible shared districts along the Montgomery-Prince George's county border.

Baltimore County, a region by itself with seven legislative districts, but with enough population to require at least one additional single-member district to be shared with a neighboring jurisdiction.

Baltimore, a region by itself with nine legislative districts, two less than the city currently has because of its drop in population over the last 10 years.

Eastern Shore, a region with five districts that includes the nine eastern shore counties plus Harford county.

"I don't like maps because you've got to draw lines on maps," Cardin said after the unanimous vote by the task force appointed by Gov. Harry Hughes and headed by State Treasurer William S. James. "Today, there is no reason for us to draw any lines."

As with each previous meeting of the task force, Tuesday's meeting was attended by dozens of General Assembly members, many worried about what the remapping exercise would do to their political future. Typically, each favored or opposed various regional plans because of how it would affect them.

"I'll get it in the end if Ben's (Cardin) plan is adopted," said Sen. John Garrity, D-Prince George's, who may get squeezed out of his seat by the reapportionment in Prince George's. They'll slice me up.

Prince George's County delegate Timothy Maloney quipped, "The only thing that's going to save Jack (Garrity) is to pick up a piece of the District of Columbia."

Legislator Calls For U. S. Intervention

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The federal courts should usurp the states' traditional role in administering justice and impose life sentences upon some hardened criminals, a member of the U.S. Senate's Judiciary Committee said Tuesday.

Sen. Arlen Specter, R-Pa., said the GOP's thrust to reduce the scope of federal government would have to take a back seat to the problem of reducing violent crime.

"Crime on the streets is of equal importance to national security on the world front," said Specter, a former Philadelphia district attorney.

"There has to be more active involvement of the federal government in violent crime generally," he said.

The chairman of the Subcommittee on Juvenile Justice said he would propose legislation in the fall to make a criminal's fourth felony arrest a federal offense — carrying a maximum sentence of life imprisonment — to be handled by the federal courts.

He said a tougher crime prevention program must also carry stronger rehabilitative efforts to weed young offenders out of the criminal process before they become hardened criminals.

"What we call the correctional system is a misnomer, because it doesn't correct."

While acknowledging the crime problem could not be solved inexpensively, Specter said the austere Reagan Administration intends to launch a large-scale assault on violent crime in the fall.

Specter said he found as a district attorney that a core of several thousand "hardened criminals" in major metropolitan areas were responsible for two-thirds of the robberies and murders committed. Those are the ones upon which stiffer sentencing must be imposed, he said.

There has been an unwillingness of state judges to impose necessary sentencing. The state courts do not tackle the crime problem," Specter said.

The senator said he thought federal judges have shown readiness to support stiffer sentences, federal prisons are better equipped to handle the increased prisoner load and taxpayers are willing to pay what's needed to have safe streets.

cozoner and an invaluable citizen of Albuquerque, as evidenced by her many accomplishments there and her involvement with numerous organizations. In 1976 she won first place for her public affairs radio spots in Albuquerque from the National Federation of Women in the International Year of Women. The ERA has since asked permission to use her material in lobbying efforts.

She also produced a series on women's issues with the Public Broadcast Systems entitled "A Woman's Scope," addressing the emergence of women's rights. She has won photography awards on the state level in New Mexico, and she is one of the founding members of the Albuquerque Chapter of the American Women in Radio and Television. In addition Jean has worked with numerous magazines and her photos and stories have been featured in various Sunday supplements. She also spent two years with the United States Army Special Services, producing and auditioning soldier talent.

During the past three years, which she terms very exciting, Jean's accomplishments and involvement in varied areas have skyrocketed. While living with a friend in south Holland about six months she delved deeper into free-lance writing and photography, originally for the purpose of having something to do. Ms. Jordan took many pictures of Europe and interviewed prominent citizens there.

Highlighting that time, she was hired as a public relations person and liaison with the BBK and general photographer, one of two women to be part of a marine archeology expedition to raise the John Paul Jones ship on the 200th anniversary of its destruction. The expedition was headed by Clyde Custer, author of "Raise the Titanic."

The group spent more than a month in a small town near Hull and Scarborough, England, and Jean began her unique career as a one-woman film crew. She laughingly recalls how she envisioned herself as a one-man band juggling a host of instruments, as she balanced herself on the boat, laden with heavy equipment and always trying to keep the camera lens free from the mist and the spray. Having nearly located the sunken ship the expedition was forced to be abandoned as its allocated time had run out. Jean was contracted with Time Magazine to send photos and a story if the ship, buried 176 feet down, was found.

In recent years Ms. Jordan worked in the area of cinematography, always a one-woman film crew, making 16-mm documentary films. The subjects have included vocational education, through which she once interviewed Debbie Martinez, a regular with the Garrett County Playhouse, and women in non-traditional roles. She damaged her shoulder by doing that type of work with heavy equipment, but she also achieved recognition. Her film on women in non-traditional roles, composed for the Commission on the Status of Women, won third place in a recent competition sponsored by the National Federation of Presswomen.

Ms. Jordan has excelled in the area of the media, having recently completed a series of television shows about problems encountered by the elderly. That program was comprised of five one-half-hour shows "on the biggest station in New Mexico," she smiled.

A pillar of ambition, she serves as an entertainment stringer for the Albuquerque Journal, doing previews of shows in that area, and she does theatre reviews for the New Mexico Independent, an "alternative" weekly paper. She is president of the Albuquerque Presswomen and writes "all types of things for various magazines. I will write about anything," she states. Jean is a member of the "Old Girls Network" in Albuquerque, through which she has obtained most of her recent employment with friends contacting friends.

Ms. Jordan just completed two months with The Barn Theatre, a dinner theatre, performing in the play "Leonardo" by George Tibbles. She also is employed in the area of public relations for that theatre, and in public relations for the Food and Drug Administration in Albuquerque.

She offers her time and talents freely, doing benefit shows in the summer at the small village of Ajijic in Mexico. The proceeds from her one-woman nightclub show go toward the care of children there. She recently directed a running show in a small mining town in New Mexico as a member of the Theatre Panel for the New Mexico Arts Commission, and she has directed the Gridiron Show, (a roast and political lampoon performed before area politicians), for the Albuquerque Press Club for three years.

Ms. Jordan came to Garrett County through her association with Gene Yell at the University of New Mexico. She stated that she was "surprised to find such a good cast here," and she describes last week's part as "an actress' dream," involving a variety of emotions and alternating between love and conflict. She seemed to particularly enjoy the fight scene.

A very self-sufficient and friendly person, Jean states she doesn't think there is any reason to stop growing. "It's wonderful to be a woman right now . . . there is nothing I wouldn't tackle, and I continually get stronger," she added. Ms. Jordan could certainly be an inspiration to many.

CRAIG PHILLIPS' WORKS DISPLAYED — A resident of Cranesville, WV, Phillips, 23, has been a photographer about eight years. Pictured above is one of a collection of his photographs currently on display at the Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland. It is a shot taken at the Smithsonian Air and Space Museum in Washington, D. C., in 1976. Phillips is employed as a photographer in Oakland, and he also does free lance work. He studied photography at Columbia University in Chicago, Illinois, and he describes himself as an "all-around picture snapper." Although he feels he has developed a particular, but undefinable style, Phillips prefers black and white traditional photography, or straight stuff. "A few years ago Phillips won third place in a photojournalism contest sponsored by West Virginia University, and his recent photo of a grebe, a type of diving bird photographed in Garrett County, is expected to be featured in a Maryland birdwatchers' magazine. A resident of the Garrett County area about nine years, Phillips attended Terra Alta High School in West Virginia. His collection displayed at the library includes photos taken in Chicago, Pittsburgh, Pa., Dayton, Ohio, Washington, D. C., West Virginia, and Oakland.

ABSTRACT. EXPERIMENTAL PHOTOGRAPHS EXHIBITED — Examples of experimental photography by Kevin Bass, 25, will be exhibited at the Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland through the month of August. This silhouette was taken in front of and below a window, with the sky serving as a background. A native of Cumberland, Bass lived in Louisville, Kentucky, about four years, then he and his wife moved to Garrett County about six weeks ago. He is employed with Foxtown Hickory Furniture Company, making bentwood hickory rocking chairs. A free lance photographer about six years, he has exhibited his works in Morgantown, WV and in Kentucky at the Center for Photographic Studies, both places where he attended school. Bass says he enjoys doing landscapes and working with infra red film making them appear as photographs of things that do not exist in the real world. Working mostly in black and white, Bass also experiments with double exposure and different methods of developing pictures. He has attended several experimental photography workshops. Most of the photos on display were taken in Kentucky and in the Savage River area.

PRESERVING NUTRIENTS IN FOODS

Much high-priced food is wasted and the nutrients are destroyed because of improper storage and preparation. To attain maximum nutrition, follow these helpful hints:

*Refrigerate fresh green vegetables promptly. Put them in moisture-proof bags or in the vegetable crisper.

*Ripen tomatoes at 60 to 70 degrees and out of the sun.

*Prevent withering of carrots, potatoes, and other root vegetables by keeping them cool and moist.

*Store fresh berries unwashed. They lose ascorbic acid quickly if hulled or bruised.

*Keep canned goods in a cool, dry place. Long storage and high temperatures cause loss of nutrients.

*Keep frozen foods at 0 degrees or lower. If your refrigerator will not hold this temperature, buy only the amount of frozen food you can use in a short time.

*Avoid thawing and refreezing of foods. You lose both nutrients and flavor when foods are allowed to thaw and refreeze.

*Keep milk cold, covered and away from strong light.

*Trim and peel as little as possible from fresh vegetables because outside leaves of green are high in vitamin A.

*Cook potatoes in skin to retain most of the ascorbic acid.

*Cook vegetables until just tender. Use a tightly covered pan and a small amount of water.

*Get the full nutritive value from meat by using meat drippings and juices, because they contain water-soluble B vitamins.

*Serve the soft bones found in canned fish. These bones add calcium.

Debt Committee Advises Governor On Capital Budget

Maryland's Capital Debt Affordability Committee is urging Governor Hughes and the General Assembly to include a contingent appropriation of $25 million in the Fiscal Year 1983 State budget to be used to fund capital construction projects without selling General Obligation Bonds and is recommending that bond authorizations to fund the Fiscal Year 1983 capital budget be limited to $185 million.

The Committee, which consists of State Treasurer William S. James (chairman), State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein, State Budget Secretary Louis Stettler, State Planning Secretary Constance Lader and Paul B. Meritt, is required to make recommendations concerning the State's debt each year. Its current report notes, "the argument for continued moderation in the levels of future debt authorizations is supported by high interest rates, the continuing high debt load and present taxpayer attitudes toward government spending."

In addition to its proposal to use up to $25 million in unanticipated surplus revenues at the end of Fiscal Year 1982 to provide current funding for capital projects, the Committee strongly called for the establishment of an "effective control on the total amount and time of offering of special authority debt."

Some State agencies and authorities, including the Community Development Administration of the Department of Economic and Community Development, the Maryland Transportation Authority, the Maryland Health and Higher Educational Facilities Authority and others issue revenue bonds, with repayment pledged from mortgage repayments, tolls and various fees.

The Committee conducted a study and determined that the debt represented by these various bonds has an effect on the marketability of the State's general obligation bonds and the State's creditworthiness.

In addition, the Committee, chaired by State Treasurer William S. James, will continue to study a policy of level principal repayment on bond issues, a procedure designed to save on interest costs and reduce future debt.

In its report, the Committee notes that the level and trend of Maryland's debt has stabilized since 1978, when the Committee began making its recommendations.

The Governor and General Assembly have included funds for pay as you go financing of some capital projects and have instituted a continuing review of bonds which have been authorized but never issued. Reducing these unnecessary debt authorizations is an important part of maintaining Maryland's Triple A General Obligation Bond rating," State Treasurer James and State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said in releasing the report.

Staff support to the Committee was provided by Dr. Robert Lader, Chief of the Bureau of Revenue Estimates, Frederick Lickteig, and Ms. Joan Shivers, of the Department of Budget and Fiscal Planning.

Census Bureau Slates Survey

Local representatives of the Bureau of the Census will conduct a survey of employment in Garrett County during the work week of August 17-21. John Kuntz, acting director of the Bureau's Regional Office in Philadelphia, announced recently.

The survey is conducted for the U.S. Department of Labor in a scientifically designed sample of approximately 71,000 households throughout the United States. Employment and unemployment statistics based on results of this survey are used to provide a continuing measure of the economic health of the nation, according to Kuntz.

Information supplied by individuals participating in the survey is kept strictly confidential by law and the results are used only to compile statistical totals. Kuntz said

Census Confirms Jump In Number Of State's Elderly

Recently released figures by the Bureau of the Census confirm a striking increase in numbers of Maryland's senior citizens. Those elderly people 65 years of age and older passed the 100,000 mark on July 1, according to an announcement by Dr. Matthew Tayback, State Director on Aging. In the decade 1970-1979, the state's elderly persons increased in number by 31% as contrasted with a 7% increase for the general population. In addition, during the same decade, those people 85 years of age and over grew in number by 66% compared with single digit growth overall.

"Numbers and statistics can sometimes be cold," Tayback said, "but not these. These numbers show a phenomenal demographic event happening here and throughout the country. This will affect all of us, especially in the long term." He explained that evidence of the phenomenon of aging in society is becoming more apparent every day in such examples as schools being converted to senior centers, growing numbers of nursing homes, retirement communities and greater efforts to care for thousands of frail and disabled elderly people.

There will be approximately 34 million people over 65 in 2000, today there are 24 million. These figures aren't meant to be alarmist. We have time now to prepare for this certain growth in numbers taking clearer shape every year. The 80s will be no different from the 70s. The growth in elderly population will continue," Tayback noted.

We Build Energy-Efficient Houses!

Energy-Efficient Residence

That's what they all say—every builder and manufacturer around. But when we say it, we mean something different. Pictured above is a research house at Mt. Airy, Maryland, built by the National Association of Home Builders Research Foundation (a subsidiary of the National Association of Home Builders) under a contract with the U.S. Department of HUD. Our Panelwrap system of movable window insulation was selected to be used in this house after NAHB Research Foundation engineers examined 17 systems in the U.S. and Canada. It is an improved version of the same pocket-panel system we have in our house on Pennington Street in Oakland that has helped us hold our electric heating bill for our first 12 months to $149.00.

Although we didn't build the house above, we can build you one with the same features right here on the mountain top. A house with walls that lose 67% less heat than 8" log cabin walls. Insulated windows that lose 92% less heat as double-pane glass. Proper site orientation to get passive solar heat gain. Zoned interiors so you won't have to heat all your rooms all the time. Careful caulking and weatherstripping to keep out the wind. Sub-slab insulation. Earth berming. And many other features.

Our houses are not for everyone. They are for people who want to save money in the years ahead when gas prices triple and oil and electricity costs double again. They are for people who discover, as their grandparents did, that coal heat is dirty. And people who see the cost of wood (including their investment in time, energy equipment, maintenance and worry over fire fires) as not so good a deal. Of course—we can save you money on any type of fuel you choose.

So drop us a line. You can choose one of our Shelter, Inc. plans or we can modify your plans to make them truly energy-efficient. We can build you a do-it-yourself package and do as much of the site work as you wish.

By Cindy Adams
NEW YORK — The psychics are out there psyching again. They predict that Dolly Parton will become an evangelistic preacher. Robert Redford will win a state office in Utah. Burt Reynolds and Sally Field will marry and have children. While denying that she's superstitious, Charlene Tilton admits she only cuts her hair during a full moon. Clark Gable's niece, Cynthia Fable, thinks that Erik Estrada is powerfully sexy looking and that he'll become even bigger than Uncle Clark. For the third year in a row, New Yorker Anne Meara commutes to L.A. as Veronica the Cook on CBS' "Archie Bunker's Place." Tom Selleck announces that all he wears to dinner are blue jeans and white sneakers. So far there have been no invites from Nancy Reagan. Little Lisa Marie Presley, big Elvis' little daughter, is taking singing lessons. The kid wants to be a big star. The newest pair are Penny Marshall and Steven Spielberg of "Jaws."

Pam Dawber: "Marry for money and you'll end up earning it." Larry Hagman.

SOAP OPERA WEEK

Beach party for stars of 'Texas' and 'AMC'

By Nancy M. Reichardt

NEW YORK — House mates Christopher Knight (Lyle Hobson on "Another World"), Phil Clark and Tom Wigan (Ryan Connor and Joel Foster on "Texas"), recently threw a party for all their castmates who have moved to the beaches of Long Island, N.Y. for the summer.

Especially showing off his culinary expertise by preparing the feast, which consisted of shish kebabs, marinated shrimp and steaks, was Chris Knight. Later, as the fog rolled onto the beach, the entire group retreated to a local discotheque where they danced well into the wee hours.

On an unhappy note, we report that Denny Albee (Peter Janssen on "One Life to Live") and his wife of five years, model-dancer Sheila, have parted amicably, however, and remain close friends.

Gone but not yet forgotten is Julia Barr from the role of Brooke English on "All My Children." As with many young actresses who create a soap role, Julia felt it was time to move on in her acting career. Taking over in the role of Brooke is Harriet Hall, who is remembered for her role of Andrea Moore on the defunct "Somerset" several years back.

Lisa Loring (Crickie Montgomery) of "As the World Turns" is finding out firsthand what confusion can develop when another actress goes by the same name as you do. In this case, the other actress is appearing in X-rated films showing across the country. So, to dispel any doubts her fans may have, we can tell you that Lisa definitely is not "the other Lisa Loring."

Dana Delany, who portrays young archeology student Hayley Wilson, also on "As the World Turns," was pleased with the role she had in the movie thriller "The Fan." If the film, which stars Lauren Bacall and James Garner, is still playing in your area, don't miss it.

READERS WRITE IN

I'm a fan of "Another World" and I'd like to know how old Beverly Penberthy is. She's been a favorite of mine for a long time. — I.R., Three Hills, Alberta, Can.

Beverly has been with the cast of "Another World" longer than anyone else. The show premiered back on May 1, 1964. Since it's not nice to tell a lady's exact age, however, we'll say she's over 35. Married to investment broker Donn Chickering, Beverly has three grown children from a previous marriage.

Simple and elegant: houses of the stars

By Ruth Thompson

A television producer once rhapsodized about having his house designed to focus attention on his collection. He wanted one choice item to hang from the ceiling and another to be displayed in a large glass case in his dining room. What did he collect? Costly vintage automobiles.

Is such flair for the dramatic and offbeat the rule among the deers of show folks?

On the contrary, judging by a series of recent conversations.

Jamie Farr, who is Klinger on CBS' "M*A*S*H," and whose zany comedy flair livens up sequences in Burt Reynolds' movie "The Cannonball Run," opts for serenity at home. With his white rail fence, he says, his home "looks like Kentucky."

The house is actually in secluded Bell Canyon, near Los Angeles, where a gatekeeper guards the enclave. "But now that my wife, Joy, has spent about $250,000 fixing the house the way we want it, we're going to move. We loved our visit to France, and we're building a French provincial-style house, but still in Bell Canyon. It's great, coyotes and deer walk unmolested past our windows."

In addition to its proposal to use up to $25 million in unanticipated surplus revenues at the end of Fiscal Year 1982 to provide current funding for capital projects, the Committee strongly called for the establishment of an "effective control on the total amount and time of offering of special authority debt."

Some State agencies and authorities, including the Community Development Administration of the Department of Economic and Community Development, the Maryland Transportation Authority, the Maryland Health and Higher Educational Facilities Authority and others issue revenue bonds, with repayment pledged from mortgage repayments, tolls and various fees.

The Committee conducted a study and determined that the debt represented by these various bonds has an effect on the marketability of the State's general obligation bonds and the State's creditworthiness.

In addition, the Committee, chaired by State Treasurer William S. James, will continue to study a policy of level principal repayment on bond issues, a procedure designed to save on interest costs and reduce future debt.

In its report, the Committee notes that the level and trend of Maryland's debt has stabilized since 1978, when the Committee began making its recommendations.

The Governor and General Assembly have included funds for pay as you go financing of some capital projects and have instituted a continuing review of bonds which have been authorized but never issued. Reducing these unnecessary debt authorizations is an important part of maintaining Maryland's Triple A General Obligation Bond rating," State Treasurer James and State Comptroller Louis I. Goldstein said in releasing the report.

Staff support to the Committee was provided by Dr. Robert Hader, Chief of the Bureau of Revenue Estimates, Frederick Lickteig, and Ms. Joan Shure, of the Department of Budget and Fiscal Planning.

Reading Club To End With Party

A puppet show will be presented by the library staff, and short film entitled "A Zoo's-Eye View" will be shown.

The Zoo Mania Summer Reading Club was a two-month program for school-aged children which offered activities involving animals.

Census Bureau Slates Survey

Local representatives of the Bureau of the Census will conduct a survey of employment in Garrett County during the work week of August 17-21. John Kuntz, acting director of the Bureau's Regional Office in Philadelphia, announced recently.

The survey is conducted for the U.S. Department of Labor in a scientifically designed sample of approximately 71,000 households throughout the United States. Employment and unemployment statistics based on results of this survey are used to provide a continuing measure of the economic health of the nation, according to Kuntz.

Information supplied by individuals participating in the survey is kept strictly confidential by law and the results are used only to compile statistical totals. Kuntz said

Census Confirms Jump In Number Of State's Elderly

Recently released figures by the Bureau of the Census confirm a striking increase in numbers of Maryland's senior citizens. Those elderly people 65 years of age and older passed the 100,000 mark on July 1, according to an announcement by Dr. Matthew Tayback, State Director on Aging. In the decade 1970-1979, the state's elderly persons increased in number by 31% as contrasted with a 1% increase for the general population. In addition, during the same decade, those people 85 years of age and over grew in number by 66% compared with single digit growth overall.

He explained that evidence of the phenomenon of aging in society is becoming more apparent every day in such examples as schools being converted to senior centers, growing numbers of nursing homes, retirement communities and greater efforts to care for thousands of frail and disabled elderly people.

"There will be approximately 34 million people over 65 in 2000; today there are 24 million. These figures aren't meant to be alarmist. We have time now to prepare for this certain growth in numbers taking clearer shape every year. The 80s will be no different from the 70s. The growth in elderly population will continue," Tayback noted.

Society's Tour Of Dam, Mill Is Booked Solid

The Garrett County Historical Society's tour of the Blooming Dam and West-vaco's Lake mill, announced in The Republican two weeks ago, is now filled to the capacity of the bus. No more reservations can be accepted, according to Mrs. Paul T. Calderwood, president.

The group will leave the Garrett Community College August 29, and those attending parking lot at 8:30 a.m. on should bring a picnic lunch.

We Build Energy-Efficient Houses!

Energy-Efficient Residence

That's what they all say—every builder and manufacturer around. But when we say it, we mean something different.

built by the National Association of Home Builders Research Foundation (a subsidiary of the National Association of Home Builders) under a contract with the U. S. Department of HUD.

Our Panel-drape system of movable window insulation was selected to be used in this house after NAHB Research Foundation engineers examined 17 systems in the U. S. and Canada. It's an improved version of the same pocket-panel system we have in our house on Pennington Street in Oakland that has helped us hold our electric heating bill for our first 12 months to $149.00.

Although we didn't build the house above, we can build you one with the same features right here on the mountain top. A house with walls that lose 67% less heat than 8" log cabin walls. Insulated windows that lose 92% less heat as double-pane glass. Proper site orientation to get passive solar heat gain. Zoned interiors so you won't have to heat all your rooms all the time. Careful caulking and weatherstripping to keep out the wind. Sub-slab insulation. Earth berming. And many other features.

Our houses are not for everyone. They are for people who want to save money in the years ahead when gas prices triple and oil and electricity costs double again. They are for people who discover, as their grandparents did, that coal heat is dirty.
And people who see the cost of wood (including their investment in time, energy, equipment, maintenance and worry over fire) as not so good a deal. Of course—we can save you money on any type of fuel you choose.

So drop us a line. You can choose one of our Shelter, Inc.
plans or we can modify your plans to make them truly energy-efficient. We can build you a do-it-yourself package and do as much of the site work as you wish.

CINDY SAYS

Parton a preacher? Redford a politician?

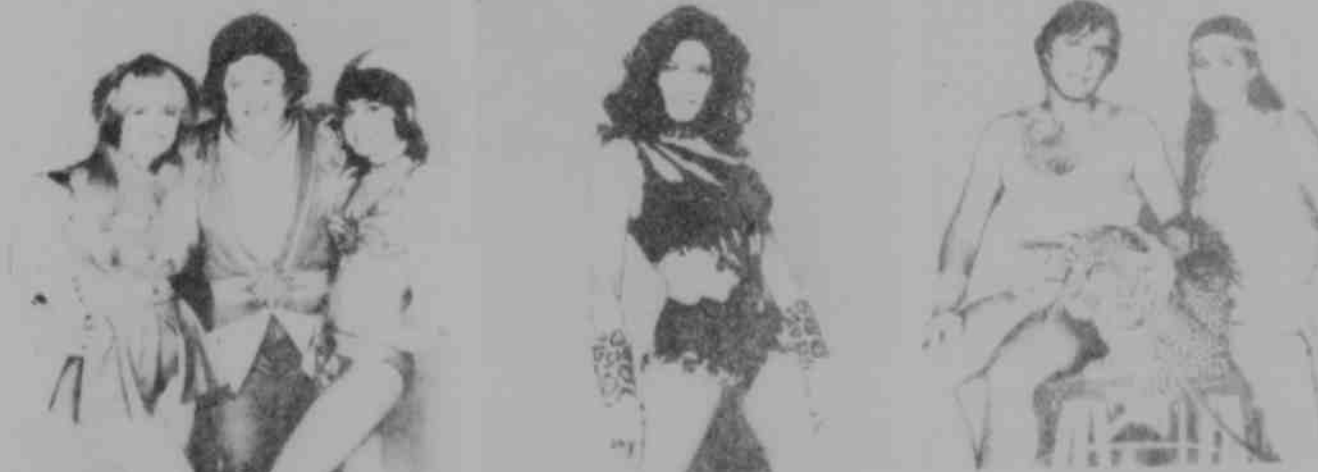

By Cindy Adams
NEW YORK — The psychics are out there psyching again. They predict that Dolly Parton will become an evangelistic preacher. Robert Redford will win a state office in Utah. Burt Reynolds and Sally Field will marry and have children. While denying that she's superstitious, Charlene Tilton admits she only cuts her hair during a full moon. Clark Gable's niece, Cynthia Gable, thinks that Erik Estrada is powerfully sexy looking and that he'll become even bigger than Uncle Clark. Jake LaMotta surfaced at a party of mine recently and introduced himself by saying, "Hi, I'm de Ragin Bull."

Ann Meara

For the third year in a row, New Yorker Ann Meara commutes to L.A. as Veronica the Cook on CBS' "Archie Bunker's Place." Tom Selleck announces that all he wears to dinner are blue jeans and white sneakers. So far there have been no invites from Nancy Reagan. Little Lisa Marie Presley, big Elvis' little daughter, is taking singing lessons. The kid wants to be a big star. The newest pair are Penny Marshall and Steven Spielberg of "Jaws."

Pam Dawber: "Marry for money and you'll end up earning it." — Larry Hagman.

STARRING ON "The Fifth Annual Circus of the Stars" are (top, l. to r.) Burt Reynolds and Rock Hudson; Lloyd Bridges, Michele Lee and Wayne Rogers; Valerie Perrine and Lloyd Bridges; Marjoe Gortner and Greta Banash; Linda Gray, Marty McDonough and Scott Baio; Susan Richardson, Marty Allen and Dana Plato; Barbi Benton, and Gil Gerard and Connie Sellecca, to be rebroadcast Thursday, Aug. 26 on CBS.

John Schneider is Bo, Catherine Bach is Daisy, Denver Pyle is Uncle Jesse, Ben Jones is Cooter, James Best is Roscoe, and Sorrell Booke is Boss Hogg. Write any or all of them in care of the show at The Burbank Studios, Burbank, CA 91506. They are on hiatus now, but will resume filming some time in September.

MISSION POSSIBLE — On "Mission Impossible," which of the guys was the blonde woman married to? Also, did Leonard Nimoy play Paris on the series? My husband doesn't think so. — Michelle Pruitt, High River, Alberta, Can.

Barbara Bain, who played Cinnamon, was married in real life to Martin Landau who played Reilly Hand. Nimoy, as Paris, replaced Landau when he left the series. There was another blonde woman on the show, Lynda Day George, who played Casey. Lynda is married to actor Chris George.

Leonard Nimoy

MARE QUESTION — Where can I write to Mare Winningham, please? — Sam Angel, Moses Lake, Wash. Network news

"Network," starring Faye Dunaway, William Holden, Peter Finch and Robert Duvall, will be rebroadcast Saturday, Aug. 22 on CBS.

Faye Dunaway and Peter Finch were awarded Oscars as best actress and best actor for their performances, and Beatrice Straight was named best supporting actress. Screenwriter Paddy Chayefsky also won an Oscar for "Network."

Sidney Lumet directed the funny, yet terrific, account of the power struggle in a failing television network, the United Broadcasting System, recently taken over by a giant conglomerate that is determined to make it a profitable enterprise.

D.C. problems

Lucie Arnaz goes to Washington. "Washington Mistress" stars Miss Arnaz, Richard Jordan, Tony Bill and E.G. Marshall in a motion picture for television now in production for later broadcast on CBS.

Miss Arnaz stars in the title role as a senator's aide who reluctantly falls in love with the adversary of her boss (Marshall). The charismatic lover is a married lawyer (Jordan) with children. She finds herself in a frustrating, compromising relationship.

Peter Levin is directing from the screenplay by Emmy Award-winning writer Audrey Davis Levin.

Ocean floor activity

A mile and a half beneath the Pacific Ocean's surface, where no sunlight penetrates, strange, exotic forms of sea life flourish.

Two scientists lead a multimillion dollar deep diving expedition northeast of the Galapagos Islands, where they find communities of marine creatures nourished by bacteria that convert chemicals into organic matter, in "Dive to the Edge of Creation," a National Geographic Special airing Wednesday, Aug. 19 on PBS. (Local times may vary, check listings.)

Geologist Dr. Robert Ballard and biologist Dr. J. Frederick Grassle each find an abundant array of deep-sea creatures, large worms with protruding red lips encased in plastic-like tubes, relatives of the Portuguese man-of-war, called dandelions, white worms, nicknamed spaghetti, that cling to bottom rocks, and other exotic species.

SOAP OPERA WEEK

Beach party for stars of 'Texas' and 'AMC'

By Nancy M. Reichardt

NEW YORK — Housemates Christopher Knight (Lough Hobson on "Another World"), Phil Clark and Tom Wiggins (Ryan Connor and Joel Foster on "Texas"), recently threw a party for all their castmates who have moved to the beaches of Long Island, N.Y. for the summer.

Especially showing off his culinary expertise by preparing the feast, which consisted of shish kebabs, marinated shrimp and steaks, was Chris Knight. Later, as the fog rolled onto the beach, the entire group retreated to a local discotheque where they danced well into the wee hours.

On an unhappy note, we report that Penny Albee (Peter Janssen on "One Life to Live") and his wife of five years, model dancer Sheila, have separated. The couple have parted amicably, however, and remain close friends.

Gone but not yet forgotten is Julia Barr from the role of Brooke English on "All My Children." As with many young actresses who create a soap role, Julia felt it was time to move on in her acting career. Taking over in the role of Brooke is Harriet Hall, who is remembered for her role of Andrea Moore on the defunct "Somerset" several years back. ***

Lisa Loring (Cricket Montgomery) of "As the World Turns" is finding out firsthand what confusion can develop when another actress goes by the same name as you do. In this case, the other actress is appearing in "X-rated" films showing across the country. So, to dispel any doubts her fans may have, we can tell you that Lisa definitely is not "the other" Lisa Loring.

Dana Delany who portrays young archeology student Havivie Wilson, also on "As the World Turns," was pleased with the role she had in the movie thriller "The Fan." If the film, which stars Lauren Bacall and James Garner, is still playing in your area, don't miss it.

READERS WRITE IN

I'm a fan of "Another World" and I'd like to know how old Beverly Penberthy is. She's been a favorite of mine for a long time. — I.R., Three Hills, Alberta, Can.

Beverly has been with the cast of "Another World" longer than anyone else. The show premiered back on May 4, 1964. Since it's not nice to tell a lady's exact age, however, we'll say she's over 35. Married to investment broker Donn Chickering, Beverly has three grown children from a previous marriage.

Simple and elegant: houses of the stars

By Ruth Thompson

A television producer once rhapsodized about having his house designed to focus attention on his collection. He wanted one choice item to hang from the ceiling and another to be displayed in a large glass case in his dining room. What did he collect? Costly vintage automobiles.

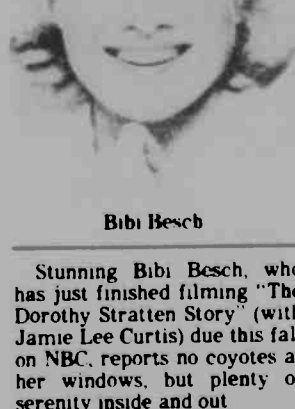

Is such flair for the dramatic and offbeat the rule among the decors of show folks?

On the contrary, judging by a series of recent conversations.

Jamie Farr who is Kluge on CBS' "M*A*S*H," and whose zany comedy flair livens up sequences in Burt Reynolds' movie "The Cannonball Run," opts for serenity at home. With his white rail fence, he says, his home "looks like Kentucky."

The house is actually in secluded Bell Canyon, near Los Angeles, where a gatekeeper guards the enclave. "But now that my wife, Joy, has spent about $250,000 fixing the house the way we want it, we're going to move. We loved our visit to France, and we're building a French provincial-style house, but still in Bell Canyon. It's great, coyotes and deer walk unmolested past our windows."

"But I'm keeping the architecture and the good hardwood floors." The red, white and green color scheme he's using was inspired by a tulip stained-glass window in the dining room. "And it works fine because I took along two couches from my old house that are covered in bottle green canvas."

Bibi Besch

Stunning Bibi Besch, who has just finished filming "The Dorothy Stratten Story" (with Jamie Lee Curtis) due this fall on NBC, reports no coyotes at her windows, but plenty of serenity inside and out.

Even the most "colorful" room is gentle in tone. It is the pink and gray that Bibi's 10-year-old daughter chose for herself.

The house itself is something of a treasure, 60 years old, well-kept and "just east of Beverly Hills, with a good, well-integrated school nearby."

There is a pool in back. For the interior, pale colors and hanging plants. Asked to describe it in one word, Bibi says "Neat. I don't like clutter." A friend suggests another description: "What Bibi's house is, is elegant."

Also proud of owning a new, old house (his was built in 1913) is Daniel J. Travanti who stars in "Hill Street Blues" as the tough, troubled and sexy police captain, Frank Furillo, in NBC's most critically acclaimed series of last season.

Dan says, "Even before I knew the series was renewed I decided on it, figuring I could carry it for a year. And I'm renting out my old house." Instead of a vacation this summer, he stayed close to supervise the workmen, and things are so chummy they're all on a first-name basis.

Dan says that the small 1,600-foot house, which is near Marina Del Rey, will be perfect for his bachelor life after some spatial changes.

"But I'm keeping the architecture and the good hardwood floors." The red, white and green color scheme he's using was inspired by a tulip stained-glass window in the dining room. "And it works fine because I took along two couches from my old house that are covered in bottle green canvas."

Fannie Flagg, who co-stars with Barbara Eden on "Harper Valley P.T.A." acquired some fine early American antiques when she bought a house in Scottsdale, Ariz., during the "New Dick Van Dyke Show," which was filmed at Dick's desert studio. When the show folded, Fannie packed up her furniture and has now re-settled it in a large, lovely house in Santa Barbara, Calif. An invariable conversation piece is a free-form coffee table that, in earlier times, was a factory bellows.

IN FOCUS

Karras stars in drama of a father and a son

Jimmy Butsicaris was 35 years old when Andre Reynolds came into his life. Andre, street-smart and trying to earn a living out of a shoe box, was 10.

The development of what was to become a father-son relationship is dramatized in Jimmy B. & Andre, a special movie presentation to be rebroadcast Wednesday, Aug. 19 on CBS.

Alex Karras, executive producer of the true-life drama, stars in the role of his old friend and business partner, Jimmy Butsicaris. Karras saw the relationship develop from the beginning when the kid set up shop shining shoes outside a restaurant called Lindell's, a Detroit hangout for local athletes that Butsicaris owned.

The film spotlights the period in the lives of Butsicaris and Andre when each needed a change. The fatherless Andre had problems at home and ventured into the streets to drum up work to help his family. Butsicaris, a widower with three grown daughters, was in transition -- successful, well-liked in the social world, but in need of something more in his life.

"Andre came to Lindell's with his shoeshining box, found out who the owner of the place was and got into his life," says Karras. "It worked out, eventually. Jimmy's a street kid too, and they were alike in many ways, especially in that they both had had some hard knocks."

"Only difference," interprets the real Jimmy Butsicaris, "was that I had a mom and a pop. The kid didn't. And he is black. His mother was on drugs. His war-hero father was dead. I saw the kid heading for jail. That was his future. But I had this nagging feeling -- he was different."

Andre had struck a chord with Butsicaris. There was something about the kid that reminded him of himself. "The kid just walked into Lindell's like he owned the place."

State Launches Restoration Of Waterfowl Project

The Department of Natural Resources' Wildlife Administration announced recently that Maryland's new Waterfowl Restoration Program will officially be launched this month with the release of the first shipment of some 14,000 eight-week old ducklings in selected areas offering suitable habitat.

To finance the program, the Maryland General Assembly set the cost of the Maryland Migratory Waterfowl Stamp at $3.00.

By the terms of the law, 50 percent of the revenues thus collected will be allocated to the propagation, purchase and distribution of hand-reared ducks, and 50 percent to waterfowl projects included in an approved program to create, develop, maintain, manage, preserve and enhance waterfowl habitat on public lands.

The law also encourages waterfowl habitat conservation on private lands whereby expenditures by private landowners for approved waterfowl projects will be considered a contribution to the State of Maryland.

Ronald F. Halla, Director of the Wildlife Administration, said during an interview that Maryland is "on the threshold of major improvements in this state's resident breeding waterfowl population, and that the maturation of the restoration program was largely due to the strong support of the Secretary of Natural Resources James B. Coulter.

The Waterfowl Restoration Program is one of the most progressive steps ever taken by any state to augment and alleviate the dwindling flights of ducks to this region," said Halla.

He also indicated that the creation and improvement of waterfowl habitat would increase both the wintering capacity and the nesting productivity of Maryland's once abundant waterfowl population.

Governor Hughes appointed a waterfowl committee to work with the Wildlife Administration and help develop a superior duck release program.

Researchers To Study Chinese Cancer Treatment

Diplomatic relations with China have begun a decade ago with ping-pong, but they continue today with the two nations trading secrets about the treatment of cancer.

Part of that trade agreement goes into effect this month as the University of Maryland and U. S. Department of Agriculture research scientists travel to China for six weeks to study that nation's herbal approach to cancer treatment.

The two researchers, Dr. James I. Revel of the University of Maryland's Agricultural Experiment Station and Dr. James A. Duke of USDA, will gather samples of those plants Chinese medical practitioners claim have reduced the incidence of cancer in their country for centuries.

"This is the first time the Western World has been allowed to do this sort of thing in China," said Dr. Revel, an associate professor of botany, researcher and leading plant taxonomist.

What the two plan to accomplish under the joint U. S.-Chinese government agreement is collect and classify select Chinese indigenous plants and submit them for analysis to the National Cancer Institute in Bethesda, MD.

We'll be returning with perhaps a kilo (2.2-3 lbs.) of these plants and have them tested," said Dr. Revel. "If we get anything positive, we'll go back and gather maybe 200 to 500 pounds of the same plant."

The Chinese, in return for allowing Western botanists to study their flora, are interested in developing a world market for wild Maryland ginseng, as well as commercial strains cultivated in Missouri and Wisconsin, said Dr. Revel. Ginseng is another plant commonly found in the Orient and highly touted as having medicinal properties.

Byron Reappointed Head Of Physical Fitness Commission

Rep. Beverly B. Byron (D-Md.) has been reappointed chairperson of the Maryland Commission on Physical Fitness for 1981-82.

Rep. Byron visited the Frederick County Courthouse August 3 to sign her reappointment certificate, following an announcement by Gov. Harry Hughes that he had once again selected the Sixth District representative to head the fitness-encouraging commission.

"I have been involved with physical fitness for a number of years and I am very pleased and honored to have been selected to once again serve as chairperson for this important commission," Rep. Byron said.

As chairperson, Rep. Byron is coordinator of all meetings and develops ideas regarding further exploration of physical fitness activities and ways to stimulate additional interest. She also assists in the education of how exercise, nutrition and rest are related to a person's physical well being.

"I feel it is vital for everyone to be involved in some regular physical fitness activity, and this position provides me with an avenue to call attention to this need."

I have recently introduced legislation which would officially proclaim Oct. 10 as National Jogging Day. NJDay has been celebrated for years and, last year, more than half a million people participated in walk-a-thons, bicycle and foot races and outings and picnics. I feel this resolution would call greater attention to NJDay and would encourage more persons to become involved with physical fitness," Rep. Byron said.

Former Resident Actively Involved In New Drug Law

A former Friendsville resident, Mrs. Joyce (Friend) Nalepka, recently received the Volunteer Activist Award of the Washington, D.C. metropolitan area for outstanding effort in the field of drug abuse prevention.

Mrs. Nalepka and a friend of hers, also the mother of school-aged children, teamed to secure passage of the "bong bill" that banned the manufacture and sale of drug paraphernalia in the state of Maryland. She was one of eleven winners chosen from more than 300 nominees on the basis of achievement, innovation, community need, and scope of activity.

In 1981, Joyce and her partner received the Jefferson Award from Baltimore's WBAL-TV for the "greatest public service by private individuals benefiting local communities" from the Allied Civic Group of Montgomery County and for "outstanding service to the civic development of Montgomery County." A resolution by the Senate of Maryland for "Outstanding contribution toward the betterment of Montgomery County and the state of Maryland" was also awarded to the women.

Born in Friendsville, Joyce attended Friendsville Elementary School for five years before moving to Hopwood, Pa. with her family. She graduated from North Union High School in 1954, and attended West Virginia University and Waynesburg College. She is the daughter of Randall W. Friend, who resides in Hopwood, and the late Yvonne (Hoye) Friend.

In September of 1979, Joyce saw a mounting problem of drug abuse among youth, recognized the allure of drug paraphernalia (much of it in toy form) calculated to hook young children on drugs, and became the catalyst of a county and state-wide movement against the manufacture and sale of drug paraphernalia.

She and her teammate bought many articles of paraphernalia and constructed a "bong show" present to county officials, civic groups, and church and civic groups across the county. They informed parents through-out Maryland through personal appearances on television and radio talk shows. They then originated the "bong bill" to outlaw manufacture and sale of all drug paraphernalia in Maryland. The bill was passed and signed by the governor in 1980.

Mrs. Nalepka continues her anti-drug abuse efforts as Executive Coordinator and founding member of the board of directors of the National Federation of Parents for Drug Free Youth. First Lady Nancy Reagan sent her personal representative to the Federation's recent annual conference in Atlanta, Georgia.

In 1980, Joyce met with Pennsylvania State Senator William Lincoln and provided him with information for introducing a similar bill in the Pennsylvania state legislature. Persons interested in further information about the National Federation of Parents for Drug Free Youth may contact Mrs. Nalepka at 301-481-7861 or by mail at 1806 Tilton Drive, Silver Spring, MD 20902.

PAUSE MEETINGS

As many as 50 meteors may be observed in an hour by a single observer during the pre-dawn hours for the next few days. The comet associated with the Perseid meteors is Comet 1862 III Swift-Tuttle which should return to the region of the Sun in September. Therefore, this meteor shower should be one of the more spectacular meteor showers.

What Does It Cost To Operate Your Room Air Conditioner?

Money-Saving Ways To Keep Cool While Reducing The Need To Operate Your Air Conditioner:

• Set the air conditioner control to keep your room temperature at 78° or higher. When leaving the room for a length of time, turn the unit off.

• In the Summer, you want low humidity. The kitchen and bath areas are moisture-makers, so keep them closed off from the rest of the house. The use of exhaust fans in these areas will help reduce moisture while cooking or bathing.

• Be sure to cover any pots on the stove to minimize the steam escaping into the kitchen.

• Weatherstrip windows and doors, then keep them closed as much as possible.

• Keep your draperies or blinds closed during the sunniest portion of the day.

• Wash or vacuum your air conditioner filter at least once a month.

LAND OPTION TECHNIQUE

When considering the purchase of a large parcel of land, it would be wise to think about a technique which has some degree of risk but tremendous profit potential. It is called the land option.

What is an option? It is simply a legal paper that gives you the right to purchase a given parcel of land for a given price during a specified period of time, but not the obligation to buy the land. The cost of the option is generally applied to the purchase price if you exercise the option. If you do not exercise it, the option money is forfeited.

Why is it a good technique to use? Because

GOH Votes To Hold Road Rally

The Garrett Organization for the Handicapped voted unanimously at a recent meeting to hold its fourth annual Autumn Glory Road Rally fund raising event on Sunday, October 11, beginning at Garrett Community College in McHenry.

The object of the Road Rally is to find one's way along a planned route to an unknown destination using given clues. This year's rally will use time and distance factors in determining the winners. Since 1981 is the International Year of Disabled Persons, many IYDP themes will be used throughout the event. As always, safety will be stressed and encouraged.

Attorney General's Docket

by Stephen H. Sachs
Attorney General
of Maryland

The energy crunch has inspired energy creativity. More and more people are trying to save energy by devising innovative ways to conserve fuel in their homes, their businesses and their cars. Unfortunately, the energy crunch also has inspired some energy chicanery. For example, consider the case of the cow magnets.

According to the Consumer Office in Syracuse, New York, a craze has developed in the Northwest area for using cow magnets in cars. The magnets are small devices fed to cows to prevent hay bales from traveling through their entire digestive tracts.

It seems a farmer claimed that putting a cow magnet in his car's gas line improved the mileage he got. He theorized that since placing magnets on either side of a water pipe helps soften the water, putting a magnet on a gas line helps vaporize the gas and improves mileage.

This appears to be a flimsy reed on which to build a booming market, but people are so anxious to curb their gas gussing that a run has developed on cow magnets. They've been snapped up rapidly in five Northwestern states and some merchants have gotten away with selling $3 magnets for $20 apiece.

The main problem is that automotive engineers say there is no evidence whatsoever to support the claim that a magnet improves gas mileage. People who put a magnet in their car's gas line and later detect improved mileage performance probably are making an extra effort to save gas by driving more carefully and are improving their mileage that way, with no help from the magnet. When they return to their old driving habits, their gas consumption most likely will return to its pre-magnet levels, according to some engineers.

As frequently happens, people come across a product touted as an energy-saver and often unwittingly go out of their way to give it a chance to work. In doing so, they aren't proving the value of the new gizmo, but the truth of an old adage: The wish is father to the thought.

Actually, only one new device — a gadget designed to cut off a car's air conditioning when the vehicle accelerates — has been tested thoroughly by the federal government and shown to be a gas-saver.

There are much simpler, and in many cases less expensive, ways of improving gas mileage. Keep your car well-tuned; keep your tires sufficiently inflated and keep the engine properly lubricated. In addition, observing the 55 mile-an-hour speed limit not only improves driving safety, but most cars get about 20 percent more miles per gallon at that speed than at 70 miles-per-hour. These methods for making the most of your gasoline may not be as exciting as cow magnets, but they are guaranteed to be effective.

Out in Denver, a new consumer protection unit called the Energy Saving Device Fraud Prevention Project has been launched with $200,000 from the Federal Department of Energy. It will monitor the advertising claims of any product purporting to conserve energy. The unit has no enforcement powers, but it is serving as a clearinghouse for information on the burgeoning market for energy saving devices and will funnel its findings to local law enforcement agencies.

This new unit can perform a valuable job protecting the public from well-meaning — but ineffectual — sellers of supposedly successful energy-savers, as well as the downright deceptive merchants who thrive in any market where wishful thinking or ignorance outweigh common sense. We look forward to receiving its reports and providing it with information on energy saving matters in Maryland when appropriate.

CCC Corn Sales Are Announced

The Commodity Credit Corporation accepted seven bids last week on a total of 221,814 bushels of corn offered from the 199 million bushels in CCC uncommitted inventory, according to Stuart C. Peterson, acting chairperson of the State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee. The average price received was $3.60 per bushel for corn grading Number 2.

Farmers and other interested persons were invited to purchase corn for unrestricted use from the CCC inventory as of July 27, said Peterson. CCC is accepting offers on a first-come, first-served basis. CCC will surrender to a buyer, in return for payment, ownership of grain to a specific warehouse. Since the buyer receives ownership of the grain in the warehouse, the buyer must pay the warehouseman to load the grain out. Peterson noted that the minimum quantity CCC will consider for acceptance is 1,000 bushels. The minimum sales price that CCC will consider will be the higher of the market price, or the formula price of 115 percent of the 1980 county loan rate plus 34 cents per bushel carrying charge. The minimum formula price for grain stored in Maryland will be $2.81 plus $3.40 carrying charges for a total minimum price of $3.35 per bushel. CCC has accepted 376 bids on a total of 33,377,742 bushels. The number of bids accepted clearly points out that CCC will not be selling from its inventories even at minimum price, until we are certain that the market will not be greatly disrupted, said Peterson.

Inquiries and offers to buy corn will be received during any business day between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. by the Kansas City ASCS Commodity Office, P.O. Box 8310, Kansas City, Missouri 64114. 816/926-6421.

Prices Rebound During July

Farm prices made their biggest jump of the year during July. Data collected by the Maryland-Delaware Crop Reporting Service showed the All-Farm Index rising to 242 percent of its 1967 base. That increase represents a five-point climb—two percent above June prices and a 14-point six percent increase over July 1980. Hogs and broilers led the increase off-setting declines for crop prices.

Livestock and livestock products continued to strengthen their positions as that index, at mid-July, stood at 233, up eight points—four percent—from the previous month and 10 points above the previous year. Hog and poultry prices posted the big gains as hog prices rose 20 percent to $40.70 and broilers and chicken prices rose 25 cents per pound to 52 cents and 11 cents per pound, respectively. Beef cattle prices increased slightly from mid-June and the price of milk held steady. Milk cows, calves and eggs prices all decreased from the month before. Except for hogs, milk, broilers and eggs, livestock prices were equal to or below a year earlier.

Crop prices averaged below a month earlier, dropping the All-Crops Index to its low point in 1981. At mid-July, the All-Crops Index was at 259 percent of its base, four points—two percent below the previous month. Prices for each crop were wheat, $3.11 per bushel, down $42; corn, $3.62 per bushel, down $103; oats, off nine cents at $2.20; barley five cents lower at $2.07; rye, down $1.00 per bushel to $3.14; soybeans, off two cents at $7.20 per bushel, and hay down $4.00 per ton, at $73.50. Except for wheat and barley, crop prices were above last July and the Index was up 20 points (eight percent).

July feed prices were mostly below the previous month. All feeds, however, showed increases from a year earlier with the range of increase extending from five to 23 percent.

PUBLIC NOTICES

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of my husband, father and son, Thomas Nevill Hinebaugh, who passed away 10 years ago on August 18, 1971. We do not need a special day to bring you to our minds. The days we do not think of you are very hard to find. You have left a beautiful memory and to us that memory will never grow old.

Sadly missed by wife, children, and parents.

IN MEMORIAM

Happy Birthday to you dad and mother, Arthur Resh (August 12). "Deep down in our hearts is a picture worth more than silver and gold. A picture of your mother and dad, whose memory will never grow old. Their life is a beautiful memory. Their death a silent grief. They sleep in God's beautiful garden in sunshine and perfect peace. "Those we hold most dear never truly leave us. They live on in the kindness they showed, the comfort they shared, and the love they brought into others' lives. We remember and think of them often and especially on their birthdays.

Sadly missed by 12 children and their families.

Treasurer Says Taxpayers Pay Wrong Amounts

Garrett County Treasurer Arzella Parsons reports that county taxpayers have misinterpreted a new law on county tax discounts and have been paying incorrect amounts on their tax bills.

Mrs. Parsons noted that instructions on the new law were stamped on the envelopes containing tax bills, but apparently taxpayers have not been reading them.

Taxpayers who paid taxes in July received a five percent discount on their taxes, but those paying in August received four percent and those paying in September will receive three percent, Parsons said.

Parsons explained some of the confusion was caused by the tax bills which could not be changed in time to have separate blocks showing the tax to be paid each month during the discounts. She said the July amount appeared in the July August block, the August amount in the September block, and the September amount above the September block.

Discounts allowed amounted to $102,793.07, while home owners' credits were $137,500.01.

The county also collected $109,000.00 from other sources.

To receive the August discount tax bills must be postmarked no later than August 15.

Parsons said she took in $2,338,423.87 in total collections during July, which was $1,222,579.91 more than July 1980.

Of the total, $2,079,749.97 was FY 1982 real estate taxes; $1,997.75 was ordinary business tax, and $106.22 was public utilities and railroad tax.

Three cars taxes collected were $8,000.00 while state tax amounted to $146,211.25.

The county took in $5,828.49 in interest.

The ad valorem tax on Sanitary District #1 for sewer amounted to $5,132.71, while the tax on Sanitary District #1 for water totaled $20,548.32.

Juvenile Charged In Vehicle Spree

A 16-year-old Oakland youth was charged by Maryland State Police following a bizarre series of events last Wednesday night.

The young man, according to police records, apparently stole a vehicle belonging to a fellow employee from the parking area of Will O' the Wisp restaurant, Deep Creek Lake.

The youth was first involved in an accident with Weldon Lane, St. Luke's Park, after he attempted to pass the Lane vehicle in a passing zone and on a curve. The Lane vehicle was struck during the illegal maneuver. The young driver failed to stop at the accident scene, and continued south on Rt. 220 toward Oakland. Several minutes later the young driver struck a vehicle occupied by John Franklin White, Oakland, and continued and struck a series of guardrails. He continued without stopping on a curve.

Maryland State Police responding later that day to a call concerning unauthorized use of a vehicle, connected the two incidents and charged the youth with failure to stop at the scene of an accident, passing in a no-passing zone, unauthorized use of a motor vehicle, operating as a learner's permit without an adult present, and failure to stop at the scene of property damage.

The BMW Corporation, Oakland, reported unauthorized use of a motor vehicle, also parked at the Will O' the Wisp restaurant, on the same day. Reports indicate that a 76 Ford station wagon had been removed from the garage, driven and wrecked, and returned to the garage.

Schools To Open

Board Of Education To Hold Down Prices Of Meals In County Schools

The Garrett County Board of Education will not have to raise prices for school meals to insure that its Food Service Program begins the school year with a balanced budget, the county assistant superintendent of administrative services reported during the board's meeting Thursday.

James Laps, assigned one responsibility will not have to raise prices, because the federal government of the federal school meal program only one-third the amount that had been proposed, but he emphasized the federal government must cut more of the school meal program in the future.

The board raised prices for school meals by ten cents in March and anticipated another ten cent hike before this school year which begins August 31.

Richard Burkhardt, county cafeteria manager, noted there will be a mandatory increase of 25 cents for student reduced lunches, a 25 cent increase in student reduced breakfasts, and a ten cent increase in student breakfasts.

Student lunch prices will remain at 40 cents for elementary school, 60 cents for middle school, and 70 cents for high school. Adult lunches will be $1.50.

The board approved the FY 1982 Food Service Budget Thursday and approved changing the Food Service track driver position from part time to full time. The driver would work with Food Service for the nine months of the school session and would work in maintenance during the three summer months.

Although the exact status of the 1981 Food Service Budget will not be known until an auditor's report comes in November, Burkhardt stated he believed the program ended the year with a balanced budget.

He indicated that decisions by the Board in March to increase meat prices and of food employees' working hours helped to balance the budget. Two other factors were that there was an increase in the number of participants in the free breakfast and lunch program, which generated money for the program, and the food stock did not need to be replenished during the last two and one-half months of school.

Laps noted the price of student meals in Garrett County were the lowest of any school district in the state. He added that the state average for student meals is 30 cents in continuation on Page Four

KISS Urged By Health Official

In Maryland automobile accidents kill and injure more children than any disease. Approximately 80 out of every 100 young children killed in car crashes would be alive today if they had been properly secured in a car safety seat. Yet only a small fraction of children in Maryland are adequately protected by a car safety seat when they travel, according to information received from Roxanne A. Reed, P.N.P., director of Child Health Services for the Garrett County Health Department.

To help protect children, the health department is participating in Project KISS — Kids in Safety Seats — in cooperation with the Health Education Center of the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene and the Maryland Department of Transportation.

Mrs. Reed stated that the Garrett County Health department has two missions in conducting Project KISS: to make sure that people are aware of the dangers which auto accidents pose to young children, and to help parents protect their children by getting car safety seats to the community on a loan-cost basis. She said that flimsy baby carriers are not adequate to protect children from the impact of a car crash.

Mrs. Reed said it isn't enough that parents obtain a car safety seat for their child; the seat must be used properly and in every single trip in the car. Because three out of four accidents occur during the first 10 minutes of a trip, the seat must be used properly and in every single trip in the car.

Gorman Water Estimated User Rates Announced

At a recent Garrett County Sanitary Commission meeting, Tom Jones, Garrett County Development Corporation Administrator, presented user cost estimates along with an operation and maintenance budget for the Gorman Water Project.

Jones stated that, at the best current estimate, there will be 58 initial connections to the system. Estimates indicate that a family using 1,000 gallons of water per month would pay $10.00 per month. An additional 2,000 gallons per month would be at a rate of $3.25 per thousand, and any additional allowance would be charged at increasingly lower rates. He stated that, based on 1,000 gallons, the average family will probably pay about $14 to $15 per month for service.

At that meeting the commission decided to bill customers on a quarterly basis, and a decision was made to set the front load assessment charge at 15 cents per foot. Owners of all property which will or could be served by the system property which the water line runs along will be charged the front load assessment. Residents in the areas considered for the abandoned phases II and III of the project will pay nothing.

Mt. Lake City Hall, Garage Are Burglarized

The Mt. Lake Park City Hall and Town Garage were broken into twice during the past week, causing damage to the building and resulting in theft of various items.

The garage was entered Wednesday night, August 12, when someone apparently forced open sliding doors with a pry tool and removed a lock. An 8-ton hydraulic jack, valued at about $80, was found missing from that structure.

City Hall was also entered by forcing plywood from an entrance by a basement window.

An office desk was ransacked and forced open, and the office appeared to have been searched, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Department. Missing from the City Hall was a Panasonic portable cassette alarm tape recorder taken from a desk drawer.

The second burglary occurred during Sunday night, when someone pulled the tin siding from the garage and bore out the insulation to make a small, carefree opening. Unknown subjects removed approximately 40 gallons of gasoline from two trucks inside the garage. Damage to the building is estimated at $50, and loss in gasoline is approximately $200.

The subjects also entered City Hall by the basement entrance. The basement entrance, once inside, they apparently broke open a locked door to gain entry to the Mt. Lake Park Tennis Club. The only item found missing from the club was a bottle of wine valued at about $10, belonging to a club member.

Baltimore Abandons Sludge Project

The City of Baltimore has abandoned plans for sludge application demonstration project at a strip mine site in Garrett County because of the county's opposition to the project.

In a letter to the Garrett County Commissioners, Mayor William D. Schaefer told the commissioners the proposal for the project was "based upon a belief that mutual benefits would flow to our respective jurisdictions."

Baltimore officials announced Friday they had decided not to pursue the project in Garrett County even though the state health department and State Land Reclamation Committee had issued permits. The health department permit, which has been expected for a month, was issued Wednesday.

The city had contracted with Modern Earthline Companies, a Philadelphia-based land reclamation firm, to dispose of the city's sludge at its Back River Treatment Plant. The city is constructing an incinerator to burn the sludge, but it will not be completed for at least three years and the city officials say they must dispose of the sludge that is piling up.

County officials and citizens opposed the sludge project because they feared the effects of the heavy metals in the sludge.

Schaefer indicated that one stipulation in the contract with Modern Earthline had not been fulfilled. He wrote, "An important prerequisite to proceeding with the demonstration project was that there be community awareness, community acceptance, and community cooperation. Based upon actions taken by you in your capacity as the Local Board of Health on July 17, 1981, and the strong opposition voiced in your County, it is evident that this prerequisite has not been satisfied."

The commissioners had rejected the application for the project based on their authority as the county Board of Health. The legality of their action was questioned but the issue was never settled.

Turney Denies Allegations In Tax Suit Against Commissioners

Jack R. Turney, representing the Board of Garrett County Commissioners, yesterday filed a formal response to a suit filed July 17 on behalf of Mt. Lake Park and Loch Lynn claiming the ad valorem tax imposed this fiscal year is illegal. Turney's response denies allegations that the commissioners did not follow proper legal proceedings in adopting and authorizing the ad valorem tax, which amounts to $5.80 per $100 assessable value to retire the debt of sewer and water service provided by the Garrett County Sanitary Commission.

Attached to the response, which is filed in Garrett County Circuit Court, Equity Case No. 80-1, are the minutes of two public meetings specifically mentioned in the suit.

The commissioners met in special session November 21, 1980, for the purpose of holding a public hearing on a resolution adopted October 29, 1980, authorizing the issuance and sale of $200,000 Garrett County Sanitary Bonds for the Mt. Lake Park Rehabilitation Project. During that hearing, Commissioner Ernest J. Gregg, Jr., advised that the Sanitary District will impose an ad valorem tax to pay the principal and interest on the bond. The town claims that hearing "attempted to comply" with the Annotated Code of Maryland with respect to the imposition of ad valorem taxes, but that it did not meet legal requirements. This allegation was denied in Turney's response.

Turney also denied the petitioners' charge that no sanitary districts were properly adopted and no levy was properly made, in addition to denying that no resolution was properly adopted authorizing an ad valorem tax for any sewer or water district for Mt. Lake Park or Loch Lynn.

In response to a claim that resolutions required for a valid bond issue and for the imposition of the tax were not properly adopted, Turney stated that the resolutions were properly adopted and the tax was properly imposed.

STATE OF MARYLAND
PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION

IN THE MATTER OF THE PROPOSED
COGENERATION AND SMALL POWER PRODUCTION RATE SCHEDULES OF THE POTOMAC EDISON COMPANY.

BEFORE THE
OF MARYLAND

CASE NO. 7559

HEARING EXAMINER'S NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

Hearing in the above-captioned matter is hereby set in Room L-1, O'Connor Building, 201 West Preston Street, Baltimore, Maryland, on Tuesday, September 1, 1981, beginning at 10:00 a.m. The hearing is open to the public.

As the caption indicates, The Potomac Edison Company has proposed that qualifying cogeneration and small power production facilities be allowed to connect to Potomac Edison's electric system, and that certain rates, and terms and conditions of service, be applied to such qualifying facilities.

Generally speaking, cogeneration facilities are facilities which produce electric energy and steam or other forms of useful energy for industrial, commercial, heating, or cooling purposes. Also speaking generally, small power production facilities are defined as facilities which produce electric energy by the use of biomass, waste or renewable resources (such as wind, water, and solar energy).

Copies of the Company's proposal may be reviewed at the Commission's offices on the 14th floor, the American Building, 231 East Baltimore Street, Baltimore, Maryland, or at one of the following Potomac Edison offices: Downsville Pike, Hagerstown, Maryland; 421 East Patrick Street, Frederick, Maryland; 700 Fourth Street, Cumberland, Maryland; and 471 North Third Street, Oakland, Maryland.

Petitions to intervene in this proceeding shall be filed with the Commission on or before the date of the hearing.

The Potomac Edison Company is directed to publish this Hearing Examiner's Notice of Public Hearing, in a display advertisement, at least one time in a newspaper in general circulation in each county in which the Company renders electric service, during the week beginning August 16, 1981.

A Turning Point . . .

Although not a majority of Garrett Countians routinely utilize the services of airlines, there is probably not a single one of us who hasn't formulated some definite opinions about the current air traffic controllers' strike. This is probably because we realize this issue has further reaching consequences than just temporary flight cancellations. Many look upon it as a turning point in government-union relationships, a turning point which is far overdue.

We support President Reagan all the way on this issue and admire him for taking this strong stand against a union. It is particularly noteworthy because President Reagan himself has been a union man and pulled tremendous union support in his bid for the presidency. One might have predicted that he would give in to their demands.

The president's greatest effort right now is to restore some stability to the nation's economy. He realizes that one of the things he must do in order to achieve that goal is to put a halt to union control and outrageous union demands. The game has gone on long enough, or at least it's high time some of the unions lost a few rounds. There is undoubtedly a need for unions in our nation and not all of them abuse their position in society. But those who do should be dissolved.

As for the air traffic controllers, they are making nearly $40,000 a year now, and they want a $10,000 pay raise, plus a 32-hour work week. It's true, there is a reasonably high stress factor associated with their work. But with every job there are certain risks and varying degrees of stress. There are numerous other persons in the world of employment, many here in Garrett County, who work under extremely stressful conditions, for far less than $40,000 a year. The controllers also knew what the conditions were before they made the decision to go into that line of work.

Perhaps most importantly, the controllers blatantly violated the oath which all of them took upon their employment. It was crystal clear in that oath that if they went on strike, their employment would be terminated. If the government, specifically the president, were to back down, what would that say about the government's view of the value of an oath?

Regardless of the amount of money which will have to be spent in order to train new controllers, regardless of the fact that there are many good men now out of work, and regardless of the number of cancelled flights, we believe the president must remain firm on this issue. From all indications, that's precisely what he is going to do.

Kept Promises

by Carol Kapel

Time was when a man's word sealed a bargain; his handshake caused monumental change in thinking, and served as a source of power, destined to move conscience, the perfect interpreter of life.

A true test of character at any time has been found in the word of one who makes a promise, takes a vow, or otherwise commits himself to doing for others as a volunteer.

Webster - New World dictionary describes a volunteer as one who enters into service for others, often for a charitable or social agency, with no promise of compensation.

The true spirit of volunteerism is not to just have one's name on the records, but to be there when needed. The infamous phrase, "Let George do it," might well have been born following the excitement of an initial meeting.

It does no one good to make promises of time, resources, and indications of loyalty if all the while, excuses are subconsciously being formulated for missing a meeting, or failing to respond as a leader. Remembering that people are depending on you while forgetting the responsibility an oath of membership carries defeats all purpose.

Perhaps true motivation should be explored in depth prior to accepting the faith and trust of others, often less fortunate. Help is needed to erase momentary devotion and replace it with dependable, freely-given willingness.

As school, club, and church organizations begin their annual fall solicitations of members and interested friends, one might consider the worth of a promise. It may not be wise to promise more than what can be performed, but prudent to perform what's been promised.

idents happen within 25 miles of home, a child needs to be in a safety seat on even the shortest trip," she said.

Parents thinking that they can safely hold their children during accidents, particularly infants, is a mistake, according to Mrs. Reed. "When travelling only 30 mph, a sudden stop or collision will exert 300 pounds of force, which would jar a ten-pound infant out of your arms. In addition, if you are not using a safety belt, your body would crush the child with the force of over a ton," she said.

Studies have also shown that children in safety seats are better behaved than children who are allowed to roam freely in the car. "A better behaved child will be less of a distraction to the driver," stated Mrs. Reed.

The Garrett County Health Department has both infant and child car seats available for rent. Persons who are expecting a baby or have a young child and are not using a car safety seat are urged to contact the health department for more information. The phone number is 334-8111 and, for Grantsville residents, 855-5630.

ing the ad valorem taxes. At the November meeting Dick Nace, then Sanitary District Administrator, estimated the ad valorem tax for water at $62 to $63 cents per $100 assessable base. The tax for water is $64 and the tax for sewer is $16.

The suit, filed by the mayors of the two towns and prepared by attorney Robert E. Watson, calls for a temporary restraining order for Circuit Court Judge Fred A. Thayer to enjoin Arzella Parsons, County Treasurer and Tax Collector, from collecting any taxes under the "ad valorem and improperly adopted ad valorem tax," pending a show cause hearing. A hearing date will be set at a later time.

Town, Commission Agree Upon Operating Costs For Trout Run

A meeting was held Friday between officials of the Garrett County Sanitary Commission and Mayor Russell B. Alexander of the town of Mt. Lake Park, accompanied by attorney Robert E. Watson. The subject of the meeting was discussion of obligations of Mt. Lake Park to pay for operating expenses of the Trout Run Facility, and bills totaling $52,000 which were sent to the town by the commission a few weeks ago, and which the town claimed it did not owe.

It was agreed that the town of Mt. Lake Park, having paid $26,000, owes no monies to the Sanitary Commission for fiscal year 1979-80. The total operating expenses for the Trout Run Facility that year, according to the commission's accounting analysis, was $19,434. Mt. Lake Park was responsible for 72.4 percent of that amount, or a total of $14,070. The town was, therefore, entitled to a credit of $11,930.

That amount was to be credited to the town's expense for 1980-81 relative to the Trout Run Facility. According to both parties, some confusion between the town and the Sanitary Commission resulted in no contract or agreement being executed for year 1980-81. The town therefore paid nothing more toward the operation of the facility during that year, its only contribution being the $11,930 credit carried over from the previous year.

Recognizing that the commission incurred some cost in carrying the amount between the actual expenditures for that year and the $11,930 credit, the town and the commission have agreed to a negotiated settlement of $930 for carrying charges.

The accounting analysis for the Trout Run Facility for fiscal year 1980-81 showed actual operating expenses of $2,513 for the first six months. The commission has projected an operating expense outlay of $24,850 for the second half of the fiscal year, making a total projected expenditure for the year of $33,434.74, pending the audit which will show actual expenses.

The commission has projected Mt. Lake Park's share of that amount, at the 72.4 percent rate, at $24,140.87, leaving the town with a balance due to the commission for the year 1980-81 of $12,211. The negotiated carrying charge has been added, bringing the town's balance due to $13,141. It was noted at the meeting that this amount is approximately half the amount billed the town under the old agreement.

Upon execution of an agreement based on this figure, which was approved at a sanitary commission meeting last night, the town will pay the amount owed for its share of the operation of the facility for that year.

Both parties agreed that an additional agreement will be drawn to cover fiscal year 1981-82, under which the town will pay an estimated direct operating expense for the facility. This agreement will be self-renewing. At the end of the fiscal year, after actual expenditures are determined through accounting, the town will either be credited with a refund toward the expenditures of the following year, or will be assessed additional charges based upon the actual expenditures.

Broken Into, Items Stolen

Various items valued at approximately $950 were stolen from the summer residence of Karen Ann Friend, Friendsville, when the trailer, located on Mill Run Road, was broken into sometime between August 5 and 12.

Entry was gained by cutting a screen and forcing open a window. Taken from the dwelling were a stereo, valued at about $300; a White Tail compound bow, valued at $170.50; two regular bows, valued at approximately $80 each; binoculars, valued at about $250, and a B.B. gun, valued at about $189.98.

The Garrett County Sheriff's Department is continuing an investigation of that incident, in addition to other burglaries and thefts reported to the department last week.

The department heard two reports of food stamps apparently stolen from mail boxes. In both cases the stamps were not received, however Social Services confirmed that they had been mailed.

Ruby Ann Baker, Mt. Lake Park, was to receive $138 in food stamps during the period of August 8 through 10. She told police that nothing had ever been previously missing from her mail box. Edmund J. Bittinger, Oakland, was to receive $70 in food stamps on August 6, but never received them.

In a separate case, Tammy Sue Tressler, Loch Lynn, reported the theft of a six-month-old purebred collie from the rear of Tressler's Gas Station, Mt. Lake Park, sometime during the night of August 11. The dog and chain were found missing from a shed located there.

The animal, which is valued at about $75, is described as sable and white, with a black spot on the tip of its tail and white from the neck to the chest area.

Mary Asmar, Oakland, reported a theft of a 26-inch-high wooden owl from her driveway on Stockslager Road on the evening of August 10. Ms. Asmar makes the owls and sells them for $45 each.

Two incidents of vandalism occurred in the Oakland area, both involving the breaking of glass in vehicles.

George E. Thayer, Jr., Mt. Lake Park, reported that two side windows were broken out of his 1973 Matador while it was parked overnight on August 12 in the Mid-Towns parking lot. Nothing was reported missing from the vehicle. The estimated loss in damages is $40.

Patricia Ann Welch, Oakland, reported that someone used a B.B. gun to damage a window glass on the side of her school bus while it was parked at Par-Matt Lanes sometime between August 7 and 15. Vandals also bent the fog lights on the front of the bus.

In other business, the department arrested three persons last week.

Eugene Shaffer, 30, Star Route, Oakland, was arrested August 11 and charged with assault and battery. He was released the same day when he posted $100 bond.

Robert R. Rhodes, 44, Deer Park, was incarcerated August 11 and charged with destruction of property. He was released the same day on his own recognizance.

Gary Ferguson, 21, Deer Park, was arrested Saturday and charged with driving while intoxicated. He was released the next day on his own recognizance.

Second Impression Fair Days

by Harry Fox

Think it over. What reasonable human being would passively walk into a cage of steel bars covered with wire mesh, sit down and wait for the mechanical giant to hurtle into the air, turning rapidly as its occupants are tossed about like so many wisps of straw? What's more, who would pay for the privilege of enduring such physical abuse?

They do by the hundreds. They're not job candidates for a new NASA program. They're kids and adults of every description. They shriek with delight as the contraptions begin to move. The moment one machine returns to the earth they dash off in search of another test of endurance.

The midway at the fairgrounds, full of humanity, is a sampler of the species' tendency to rise to the heights and sink into the depths of the human experience. Such a cross section—the generous and the greedy, the happy and the sad, the successful and the hapless failure come to have fun, to forget, or just to exist.

Some call it home. Life on the road leaves marks to betray the practiced artist of the games of chance, the booths filled with lurid prizes. The wagon has given way to the air-conditioned motor home, but such amenities can do little to soften the etched hands and the feet calloused by hours of pacing behind the lines.

They must to crowds who want what crowds always want, as the caesars knew. Bread and circuses. Hopefully no one thinks about the long lines at the unemployment office while standing in line at the ticket booths.

Thank God there is a softer side. Bright eyes sparkle at the lights, and little hands break away from outstretched arms to race toward the enticing fantasy.

Afterwards, the world outside seems unreal. Or too real. It is, after all, just once a year. One night to walk for hours and wait impatiently for the next event. One time to revel in achievements, to know the satisfaction of trying. One time to win a prize that's worth less than the gas it took to drive here. A time of infinite value to a young person discovering that work pays off. One chance to meet some special adults who give hours of hard, demanding work to youth, with little fanfare and even less pay.

The county fair is one chance to see another side of the world that has become too familiar and routine. It is worth the time it takes to make it happen. It is worth the time it takes to go.

Even the rides can be fun.

Juveniles Caught After Vandalism In Loch Lynn

A resident of Loch Lynn apprehended a juvenile late Wednesday night, August 12, following considerable destruction of property near his home.

The Garrett County Sheriff's Department received a call from Curtis Glatfelter about 11 p.m., advising the department that someone was breaking glass in two trucks parked near his residence.

A 14-year-old Loch Lynn boy was apprehended at the B & O railroad crossing by Dale Glatfelter, who flagged down the officer upon his arrival. The boy was taken into custody and later released to his parents.

Police found the windshields of a dump truck and a tractor-trailer broken out, along with mirrors, headlights, turn signal and side glass. The windshield wipers were bent on both vehicles which were located near the H-P Warehouse, and debris was spread on the ground. The vehicles are owned by Orrie Construction Company, Inc., LaVale.

A second suspect, a 17-year-old Loch Lynn resident, was questioned the same day and both suspects eventually admitted to the destruction. Police found a steel fireplace poker with particles of glass embedded in one end at the scene.

Price Of Meals

elementary schools and 85 cents in middle and secondary schools.

Although school meals will be well-balanced, in compliance with federal regulations, Board President Herbert Harman said there would be more soup and sandwich meals to keep down prices.

In other business Thursday, Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, county superintendent of public schools, reported that the Board ended fiscal year 1981 with a $4,000 deficit.

Ryscavage, who said he was chagrined about the deficit, explained there were four expenditures the Board had in FY 1981 which were not budgeted.

Two of the items, a $51,000 roofing job at Southern High School and a mandated $25,000 new accrued liability payment into a retirement program, were worked into the budget.

The other two items, a $12,000 deficit in the college reimbursement fund because of a state-mandated course in special education and a $27,000 deficit in the substitute teacher fund, were unplanned.

Ryscavage said there were areas in the budgets with unused funds which could be transferred to the areas with deficits, but to be in compliance with state law the Board would have to seek the approval of the Garrett County Commissioners.

Ryscavage praised the Board's bookkeeping office, which earned $100,000 in interest for the Board with its money management practices.

The Board also approved the FY 1982 transportation budget of $1,410,838.

Albert Ringer, assistant superintendent of curriculum and instruction, reported on the revision of the curriculum at the two county high schools and on a revised policy for the released time program for high school students with severe handicaps.

Discussion followed concerning Board dissatisfaction with the cooperative education program which allows students to take the required classes for graduation and then work the remainder of the school day under school supervision.

Some Board members expressed the view that too many students were taking advantage of the program by taking jobs which were not coordinated with their classes.

Board member Mary Farley noted the increase in students participating in the program and said, "The program we have in the county right now is entirely too lax."

Dr. Ryscavage, who said the program was beneficial to some of the students, said his staff would prepare a report on the program for a future Board meeting.

The initial charge for hook-up with the system is $100. The commission made a motion at that meeting to amend a previous motion regarding hook-up fees after the system is completed. The additional tap charge after completion of the project will be $300, or the actual cost incurred by the commission for making the connection, whichever is greater. One official noted that connection after the project completion could cost up to $1,000.

Jones also informed the commission that workers are proceeding well with laying line for Gorman Water, and the commission should be able to activate the downtown portion of the system by mid-September.

In other business, the commission passed a resolution for renewal of two notes for work related to the Kitzmiller Water System in the amount of $10,000 borrowed jointly from First National Bank and Garrett National Bank. The renewal was necessary due to a delay in the awarding of a HUD

CAPTION WITH THE POLICE

The Board also approved the FY 1982 transportation budget of $1,410,838.

Albert Ringer, assistant superintendent of curriculum and instruction, reported on the revision of the curriculum at the two county high schools and on a revised policy for the released time program for high school students with severe handicaps.

Discussion followed concerning Board dissatisfaction with the cooperative education program which allows students to take the required classes for graduation and then work the remainder of the school day under school supervision.

Some Board members expressed the view that too many students were taking advantage of the program by taking jobs which were not coordinated with their classes.

Board member Mary Farley noted the increase in students participating in the program and said, "The program we have in the county right now is entirely too lax."

Dr. Ryscavage, who said the program was beneficial to some of the students, said his staff would prepare a report on the program for a future Board meeting.

In other business Thursday, Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, county superintendent of public schools, reported that the Board ended fiscal year 1981 with a $4,000 deficit.

Ryscavage, who said he was chagrined about the deficit, explained there were four expenditures the Board had in FY 1981 which were not budgeted.

Two of the items, a $51,000 roofing job at Southern High School and a mandated $25,000 new accrued liability payment into a retirement program, were worked into the budget.

The other two items, a $12,000 deficit in the college reimbursement fund because of a state-mandated course in special education and a $27,000 deficit in the substitute teacher fund, were unplanned.

Ryscavage said there were areas in the budgets with unused funds which could be transferred to the areas with deficits, but to be in compliance with state law the Board would have to seek the approval of the Garrett County Commissioners.

Ryscavage praised the Board's bookkeeping office, which earned $100,000 in interest for the Board with its money management practices.

Refugee Family Moves To Illinois

The Dieu family, Vietnamese refugees who came to Garrett County June 1980, departed for Champagne, Illinois Tuesday at 7:30 a.m.

The family, which lived in a home owned by John and Lena Yoder in Gortner, will join 300 Vietnamese families in a settlement in Illinois.

Sponsored by United Methodist and Amish churches in southern Garrett County, the family has worked in the past year to become self-sufficient in a new country.

Dorothy Morris Oakland, who has worked with the refugee family, says she believes the family has met the goal of becoming self-sufficient. "We are sad to see them go," she said, "but we feel our goal has been met, which was to give them a good start." When the churches considered sponsoring a family, in the latter part of 1979, they emphasized the families may not remain in Garrett County.

The family learned to use the stores and businesses in Oakland and became financially independent by September, their fourth month in the United States. The only financial help the family has requested since then was aid in their move.

Mr. Dieu left his job as a jeweler in Abingdon, Va., to move to Illinois. He had hoped to move closer to his job, but he could not find a landlord willing to rent a house to his family of nine children.

He does not have a job waiting in Illinois, but a group called the Vietnamese Benevolence Association helped him find a home.

The family left Tuesday morning in an Amish Van driven by Norman Yoder, pulling a 12-foot trailer behind them.

The Dieu family is the first of the three refugee families in the county to leave, although the refugee family in Grantsville, is planning to move to California. Two members of the refugee family in Accident have also moved to California.

Mrs. Morris noted the cooperation between the Amish and the United Methodist churches in helping the family adjust to American society. Members of the two congregations helped the family with transportation, shopping, schooling, gardening, and other needs.

Morris also mentioned assistance by physicians and dentists in Oakland as well as by the House of Hope.

"There was so much love given right out of this community. I could not begin to measure it," she said. "There was no case of mistreatment of the family anywhere."

Mr. Dieu's brother, Chi, traveled with the family to Illinois, but he plans to return to Oakland where he has an apartment.

Mr. and Mrs. Dieu took one American citizen with them who will live in their home—their eight-month-old son, Curtis, who was named for the Rev. Curtis Saville, former pastor of St. Paul's United Methodist Church.

Mr. Dieu said he and his family were sad to leave Oakland. "Before we came here, we had nothing," he said. "Our sponsors and people of Oakland helped us very much."

He left this message to his sponsors and to the town of Oakland: "Sponsors, United Methodist Churches, Town of Oakland, and Amish Churches, I thank you very much for helping my family from last year up to now."

Mt. Lake Park Man Faces Charges Of Vehicle Violations

Maryland State Police have arrested a Mt. Lake Park man, John Jason Thomas, on several charges stemming from an incident on August 11 at the VFW Lodge 10077, Deer Park.

Reports indicate that Thomas was arrested for driving while intoxicated, driving a vehicle without the owner's consent, and reckless driving when he entered a Chevrolet Custom belonging to Elmer Lloyd Baker, accelerated forward, and drove through the front of the social club building.

Thomas has been further charged by the VFW and the vehicle owner with destruction of property.

Man Sentenced For Driving With Revoked License

Garrett County Circuit Court Judge Fred A. Thayer sentenced a Mt. Lake Park man to 90 days in jail for driving while his operator's license was revoked.

Paul Douglas Thayer, 26, Tasker Trailer Court, was incarcerated last week following an appeal on his case from District Court.

According to the report, Thayer had been charged with exceeding the speed limit, failure to wear a helmet, failure to observe stop sign laws, and failure to reduce speed on numerous occasions since 1973.

More Local Students Enroll At Garrett

Five more local students have enrolled at Garrett Community College for the Fall 1981 semester, according to William P. Ewing, Director of Admissions.

Paul Cornish, a former football stand-out at Southern High School and a resident of Deep Creek Lake, will be majoring in business administration. Cornish set numerous records while leading the Rams to consecutive regional titles.

Tracy Harvey, Deer Park, and Jacky Gnezy, Oakland, will also be majoring in business administration this fall.

Walter Wachter, McHenry, will be studying coal mining technology, and Barbara Rostovsky, Mt. Lake Park, will be enrolling in the engineering transfer curriculum.

GCC Announces Appointment Of Business, Industrial Instructors

Britten Leo Martin

Robert I. Tranham, Dean of Garrett Community College, has announced the appointment of two more instructors at the college, whose employment will become effective September 1. They are Britten Leo Martin, Mt. Lake Park, and Charles Coddington, McHenry.

Martin, a native of Mt. Lake Park, who has taught business courses at the college as an adjunct instructor for the past four years, has been appointed instructor of business.

He holds a bachelor of science degree in business administration from West Virginia University and a master of science in management from Frostburg State College. He has also studied computer programming at the IBM Educational Center and the Univac Educational Center and electronic data processing at the U.S. Army Finance School.

After his graduation from college, Martin held various management and staff positions with the U.S. Army, including that of managing the Data Processing Center at Fort Belvoir, Va. He worked for several years as a systems analyst at the R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Company and is known to local residents as the former owner and proprietor of Martin's Store in Mt. Lake Park.

Charles Coddington

An active member of the community, Martin has served on the Mt. Lake Park Town Council for the past four years. He has also coached Little League football and baseball and has been scoutmaster of a Boy Scout troop.

Martin lives on G Street with his wife, Frankye, and two children.

Coddington, also a native Garrett Countyman, will join the faculty of GCC as instructor of industrial technology.

Coddington attended Garrett Community College for one year before transferring to California State College in Pennsylvania, where he received a bachelor of science degree in industrial arts and a master of education degree. Subsequently, he earned a Ph.D. in vocational education at the University of Maryland.

He has worked as a youth counselor and vocational curriculum consultant in Ohio, and as administrative supervisory intern with the Division of Vocational Education in Frederick County. His teaching experience includes two years as instructor of industrial arts, one at Southern Middle School, and one at Northern Middle School. He also served two years in the Submarine Service of the U.S. Navy where he was an electronics specialist.

Coddington is a member of Epsilon Iota Tau, International Honorary Professional Fraternity for Education in Technology, Phi Delta Kappa, National Education Association, American Industrial Arts Association, and the Maryland Vocational Association.

He lives in McHenry with his wife, Nancy and son.

Chlorine Ban For Treatment Plants

Poses Problems

A bill passed this year banning the use of chlorine as a method of treating wastewaters discharged into state-designated natural trout waters and their tributaries could cause some problems for owners of sewage treatment facilities in Garrett County, small or large.

House Bill 570, Prohibition on Discharge of Chlorinated Water, became effective July 1, requiring approximately 35 sewage treatment plants in the state to be fitted with alternative methods of disinfection, such as ultraviolet light, ozone, biocide or biocide compounds.

Most natural trout streams in Maryland are in Garrett, Allegany and Frederick counties.

The law states that any local subdivision owning or operating an existing treatment system which is required to convert from the use of chlorination to another system should apply by September 30 to the Environmental Protection Agency for economic assistance in conversion. If application is made, conversion costs not funded by EPA may be covered with state funds, as provided in the budget. If a subdivision fails to apply by the set date, conversion costs not ordinarily met by EPA and the state shall be the responsibility of the subdivision. The bill also states that the act is contingent on the availability of matching federal funds.

The new law was discussed at a recent meeting of the Garrett County Sanitary Commission, where concern was expressed as to whether funding assistance will be available. Conversion is costly, and this law will affect all facilities in Garrett County, not only those controlled by the Sanitary Commission, that discharge into trout streams, excluding only a portion of the Potomac and Casselman Rivers, according to Wendell Beitzel, Sanitary District Administrator.

The bill, which was endorsed by the Maryland Department of Natural Resources and the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, was pushed by Trout, Unlimited, having full support of that and other organizations. Beitzel stated he is fairly certain this law will be enforced, as those groups will bring pressure on the state to enforce the bill.

Beitzel also indicated that some of the alternative methods of disinfection have not been proved effective and could be more of a health hazard if they are not as effective as chlorine. He noted that chlorine is a common compound, most widely used for disinfection of treatment wastewater. The method has been used for centuries, he added, beginning as an influencing factor in wiping out widespread disease.

Beitzel is currently composing an application to EPA to convert the Trout Run Facility, including a request for funding assistance in upgrading the lagoon.

Maryland players captured five of ten events at the second annual Alpine Lake Tennis Tournament in Terra Alta, W. Va., July 31-Aug. 2.

Oakland's Fred Pratt maintained a blistering serve while relying on his partner, Randy Chapman, to ignite a last minute flourish of overhead winners to hold off the stubborn team of Earle Brown and Dave DeGraff, both of Mt. Lake Park, 5-7, 6-2, 7-5 and win the advanced men's doubles event. Earlier, Chapman had won the advanced men's singles category by downing Pratt 6-3, 5-7, 6-1.

Bill Bailey, of Frederick, teamed up with Jim Layten, a resident of Jacksonville, Fla., to net the men's intermediate doubles crown by defeating Bob Teets and Larry Catsons, 6-7, 6-2, 6-2. Layten also took the men's intermediate singles event with a 6-4, 6-3 win over Morgantown's Mike Woydak.

Kathie Smith and Barbara Hornyak, both of Mt. Lake Park, joined forces in the women's intermediate doubles category and coasted to an easy victory over Oakland's Ellen Ruhl and her partner, Cathy Teets, Terra Alta, in straight sets, 6-1, 6-3.

Denise Helbig, another Oakland entrant, added the fifth Maryland win when she copped the intermediate women's singles trophy with a 6-4, 6-4 victory over Cathy Teets.

Other winners included: Beginner men's singles, Bob Stewart; advanced women's singles, Norma Simbra; advanced women's doubles, Norma Simbra and Shirley Robinson; and intermediate mixed doubles, Bob and Cathy Teets, all West Virginia players.

The tournament drew players from Elkins, Masontown, Kingwood, Frederick and the Washington, D.C. area, and was sponsored by Alpine Lake. It was directed by Bob and Cathy Teets.

CRIME SOLVERS
The U.S. Department of Justice, FBI, Baltimore office, recently released a Crime Resistance Alert program designed to identify those crimes to which citizens are most vulnerable and to encourage citizens to join the fight against crime. The program does not encourage citizens to take personal action against crimes, but to provide law enforcement officers with the benefit of their knowledge.
Special agent Edward D. Hegarty states: "Our experience in investigating and prosecuting criminals for violation of Federal laws demonstrates that with full cooperation between citizens, law enforcement agencies, and the media, much can be done to combat crime and reduce its impact on society."
The bureau feels that knowledge is crime's number one enemy, and the best way to fight is to gain education concerning a few basic safety principles. The agency suggests that all visitors are positively identified before permitting them to enter a home. Locking doors on a home and an automobile discourages illegal entry, and engraving valuables has proven to be a detriment to theft.
Especially stressed by the FBI is not to ignore crime by not reporting it immediately. Officials claim that citizens who do not report criminal activity are allowing the crime to take place and allowing the criminal to get away with the illegal act.
Many neighborhoods, including Garrett County, have

RESIDENTIAL HOME AS INVESTMENT

In the past, any real estate investor who eyed the purchase of income-producing property would forsake the single-family home and aim for the apartment house. The reason being that the cash flow is always larger with multi-family dwellings in relation to the amount of dollars invested.

But this view is changing today and the single-family home is growing more and more popular as an investment property, especially for the beginning investor. For one thing, there are a lot more of them on the market than apartment houses. They are easier to get into and out of so the investment money is somewhat more liquid.

In some ways, it can be compared with the investment of raw land in that the main profit is made when the property is sold. If the residential homes are selected carefully in a steady growth area, the appreciation can be very lucrative. Holding costs can be covered by rental income. Also there is an excellent tax shelter offered by deducting depreciation from your income which can allow you to reduce the taxes on other income.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone one of our offices:

Prisons: Mineral County Facility Violates W. Va. State Laws

CHARLESTON, W.V. (UPI) — Mineral County jail officials have failed to separate minors sufficiently from dangerous adults, a Juvenile Justice Committee has said.

"It isn't constructed, organized or staffed to provide adequate juvenile detention in conformity with the law," the panel told the West Virginia Supreme Court.

The committee said juveniles must walk past the maximum security cells for dangerous inmates. Juveniles to be released to parents are detained in small, windowless rooms near the control center.

Doors are kept open, but adults brought there for booking have to pass in front of the juvenile detention rooms.

The panel said the jailing of a 17-year-old in transit for transfer to the Industrial School for Boys was the only case of a juvenile jailed in compliance from Jan. 1, 1980 to March 13, 1981.

The committee observed with dismay the relatively large number of runaway youths detained in the jail, it said. "Many of these youths were 14 years of age and one, detained as a runaway for two days, was 12. Mineral County authorities must avoid these illegal jailing practices."

The report quoted the former sheriff as terming groundless the claim by a juvenile girl that she was sexually harassed repeatedly by a deputy. But a matron has been placed on duty in the jail when females are detained.

Committee members also said: Adequate privacy is needed in the toilet area because a juvenile toilet is nearly in direct view of a door. — Two clean sheets rather than one should be provided each week.

Meals must become nutritionally adequate. Soup and sandwiches are served frequently and few fresh vegetables or fruit are provided.

Officials should be on guard about isolating juveniles in cells. Most juveniles in the jail are housed alone in large cells.

Visitation hours are unduly restrictive. — Provisions for physical exercise must be made.

Cumberland Firefighters' Strike Continues; 6 Remain On Job

CUMBERLAND, Md. (UPI) — All but six of the city's 61 firefighters remained off the job today in the second day of a strike centering on the city's refusal to pay medical benefits.

Meanwhile, 110 workers from the city streets, water and recreation departments refused to cross the firefighters' picket lines and remained off the job. Forty others went to work. Members of Local 1715 of the International Association of Firefighters union voted

Klan Leader, Charged In Fire Claims Rights Were Violated

BALTIMORE (UPI) — A self-proclaimed Ku Klux Klan leader accused of plotting to firebomb the office of the NAACP claimed arresting officers did not allow him to talk to an attorney before he made statements to them, court records show.

But a federal judge Monday refused to exclude as evidence statements Richard B. Savina, 28, made to federal agents when he was arrested in May for allegedly attempting to firebomb the building.

Savina also contended the agents did not properly advise him of his rights.

A Baltimore County detective and federal agents testified Monday they did not hear Savina request an attorney before he made the statements. U.S. District Court Judge Frank A. Kaufman said he believed the agents, calling their testimony "totally credible."

"I frankly do not find the defendant's testimony credible," Kaufman said. Savina is being tested to determine his mental competency. His lawyers are not using insanity as a defense, but they have suggested he may be suffering from a "mental defect."

At the request of prosecutors, a psychiatrist has examined Savina and Kaufman said Monday he will review the findings this week.

Savina is charged with possessing and manufacturing a "destructive device" and attempting to firebomb the Catonsville home of James Pennington, president of the Baltimore County branch of the NAACP. Pennington's house also serves as the chapter's headquarters.

The maximum penalty for the charges is 20 years in prison.

Juvenile Services Report Shows Referrals Increased In 1980

BALTIMORE (UPI) — A Juvenile Services Administration report Tuesday revealed the agency handled almost 6 percent more referrals during fiscal 1980 than it did the previous year.

The administration handles investigation, probation, detention, protective supervision and other programs for juveniles.

In fiscal 1980, the agency processed 46,845 referrals, an increase of 2,700 from fiscal 1979. The report said the increase reversed a downward trend since the peak year of 1976 when 58,044 referrals were processed.

But Terry Lied, research statistician for the administra-

44-9 in favor of the strike, which began Monday night. John Yost, the union's vice-president, said the union decided to strike because the city refused to continue paying medical benefits after the firefighters' old contract with the city expired June 30.

"It was a take-or-leave situation," Yost said. "We worked without benefits off and on for approximately six weeks."

City officials confirmed that insurance and other fringe benefits were cut off but could not say precisely on what date. An Allegheny County deputy sheriff reported "some dumpster fires" but no major blazes since the firefighters' strike began.

The fire department currently consists of six people — Fire Chief Russell L. Livengood, the assistant chief, two captains and two lieutenants.

Savina is now in custody in lieu of $25,000 bail.

At the request of prosecutors, a psychiatrist has examined Savina and Kaufman said Monday he will review the findings this week.

Savina is charged with possessing and manufacturing a "destructive device" and attempting to firebomb the Catonsville home of James Pennington, president of the Baltimore County branch of the NAACP. Pennington's house also serves as the chapter's headquarters.

The maximum penalty for the charges is 20 years in prison.

House Of Corrections Inmates Protest Food

JESSUP, Md. (UPI) — Inmates at the Maryland House of Correction are staging sit-down strikes to protest the quality of their food, the president of the guard's union said Tuesday.

Between 50 and 75 inmates sat down on the floor in the dining hall during dinner Monday. That is the second sit-down protest in six weeks, said Ed Davis, president of American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, Local 1678.

The objectionable item on the menu Monday was macaroni mixed with ground beef.

"It sort of looked like regurgitation," Davis explained.

He said he did not know if the casserole was as offensive to the taste buds as it was to the eye.

"I'm not sure if it was bad. I just know it was not too eye appealing. I guess the inmates thought if it looks bad, it must be bad," he said.

The prisoners kept up their peaceful demonstration for about an hour before the staff substituted hot dogs for "that macaroni and beef mess," Davis said.

Guards also are unhappy about the fare served in the dining hall.

We have to eat there, too. They don't give us an hour to run out to Mickey D's (McDonald's fast-food restaurant)," Davis said.

Davis said while the inmates' dissatisfaction over the meals so far has been dramatized peacefully, it could mushroom into a more serious problem.

There are between 400 and 500 prisoners in that dining hall. There is great potential for a confrontation," he said.

Sent To Hagerstown Nursing Shortage Causes Patients To Be Turned Away At Burn Center

BALTIMORE (UPI) — A nursing shortage has forced Baltimore's only center for victims of serious burns to turn away 23 patients would-be patients and direct them to a Western Maryland burn center, hospital officials said.

James Schuelen, a physician's assistant, said the burn center began its refusal to accept new patients July 21. The latest person turned away — a 22-year-old Bel Air man who was severely burned Monday afternoon on a construction job near Baltimore — was taken to Washington County Hospital Center in Hagerstown.

It's a damned shame that people have to go from Baltimore to Washington (Hospital Center) to be treated," Schuelen said. He noted that family visits are important to the morale of burn victims and that they are made difficult because of the distance involved.

The Baltimore Sun quoted unidentified burn center nurses as saying they felt frustrated because of the shortage and a lack of pay.

If you like what you're doing, it helps," one nurse told the newspaper. "If you're grossly overworked and grossly underpaid, you like it a little less. We're all overloaded now because we're short of staff."

The statement said the military exercise "is continuing as planned."

The attack comes at a time of painfully strained relations between Washington and the government of Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy. The Reagan administration has repeatedly charged is a ringleader in world terrorism.

Newsweek magazine, in its latest issue, said Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger, on orders from President Reagan, authorized the U.S. 6th Fleet to conduct maneuvers off the Libyan coast in an area declared to be Libyan territory.

The United States does not recognize Khadafy's claim over the gulf and Newsweek said the maneuvers were ordered to test the reaction of the Libyan leader.

The initial U.S. comment on the attack did not specify where it occurred.

The Newsweek report said 3,200 square miles of the gulf had been included in the firing range for the U.S. exercises and that U.S. pilots were instructed to not fire at anything but practice targets unless fired upon first.

The Reagan administration earlier this year expelled Libya's entire diplomatic delegation to the United States in response to what U.S. officials called Khadafy's support for international terrorism. In doing so, the administration stopped just one step short of an all-out break in diplomatic relations with the Tripoli government.

The U.S. government is protesting through diplomatic channels this unprovoked attack, which occurred in international air space over 60 nautical miles from nearest land," the Pentagon said.

The SU-22 is one of the Sukhoi series of Soviet-built fighters — an updated version of the plane used by Syria during the 1973 war in the Middle East.

Defense Department spokesman (Mdr. Charles Klee said there were no American casualties in the exchange. There was no immediate report on the status of the crews of the Libyan jets, nor was there any immediate comment from the Libyan government.

U.S. officials stressed the "unprovoked" nature of the attack in their terse initial reaction to news of the dogfight over the Mediterranean.

"The U.S. government is protesting through diplomatic channels this unprovoked attack, which occurred in international air space over 60 nautical miles from nearest land," the Pentagon said.

Taylor responded by telling the defendants to "render unto Caesar what is Caesar's."

He placed the defendants on unsupervised probation before judgment for three years.

The judge warned he would fine each defendant $50 a day for each school day their children missed last year if they were not in attendance in September.

The Offers, who took their five children, then aged 7 to 15, out of school last December, could be fined $28,950, prosecutor Duane L. Doherty III said. However, one of their children, Barnabas, has since turned 16 and is not required by law to attend school.

Offer explained he did not want his children in schools where he said "homosexuality is taught" in sex education classes and some students use drugs.

The minister took his Bible to the witness stand and testified "God's word" prompted him to take his children out of county schools.

Offer asked Judge George M. Taylor, "What if my children get hooked on drugs?"

Offer told the judge to "leave me and God alone. I never thought I would be brought on a charge as a criminal for obeying the word of God."

Camp Dawson To Host Jump Fest

The fourth annual Harold C. Pierce Memorial Leap Fest will be held at Camp Dawson, Kingwood, W. Va., on Saturday and Sunday, September 5 and 6.

Sponsored by the West Virginia National Guard's Special Forces Section, Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment, the "leap fest" consists of airborne parachute teams making jumps from altitudes of approximately 1500 feet and landing as close as possible to a five-meter X of colorful orange panels. Each jumper will then be required to touch a 20-centimeter disc about the size of a frisbee in the middle of the X.

According to Master Sergeant David W. Wilson, members of airborne units in four states, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island and West Virginia have been invited to participate in the leap fest, as well as members of the Canadian Airborne Regiment, Petawawa, Ontario. Last year 30 members of the Canadian Airborne Regiment participated and earned their American Jumpwings.

The public is invited to attend.

Grantsville Chief Releases News On Investigations

Grantsville Police Chief Frank Wilkins recently released information concerning a 21-year-old female believed connected with several thefts from a local store in the Grantsville area. The woman was questioned and released pending further investigation.

In addition, two juveniles are being sought in connection with $400 worth of stolen goods from the same establishment.

Charges are also pending in connection with the breaking and entering of an automobile at D & D Auto Body Shop. Merchandise was stolen, but information is being withheld pending further questioning of several youths believed involved.

A breaking and entering of a private home, as well as the theft of change from a vending machine in the Grantsville Park are additions to the juvenile crime spree, which began several months ago. Numerous arrests have been made, and Wilkins anticipates several more in the next few days.

Chief Wilkins urges residents to remember that prompt attention must be given to his department when youngsters are being observed in the act of delinquent pursuits, particularly after 11 p.m. Wilkins noted that 90 percent of those crimes which occur in the Grantsville area happen after midnight. A special request to lower the age limit and the curfew hour from 18 and 11 p.m. to 16 and 10 p.m. is being offered by Wilkins as a possible solution to a portion of the current crime wave.

Dentists Offering Free Examination For Oral Cancer

An Oakland dentist office has announced that it will give free oral cancer screening examinations on Wednesday, August 26.

Interested persons may call the office of Dr. David Sheets and his associates, Dr. David Niesslein and Dr. Kenneth Rothschild, at 334-1111 to make appointments.

According to Dr. Sheets, oral cancer is responsible for approximately 6,000 deaths annually. The five-year rate for oral cancer is less than one third for all cases, one of the lowest survival rates of any form of cancer. However, he said, oral cancer possesses the potential for a high survival rate if diagnosed early enough. The number of victims surviving five years is doubled if treatment is initiated when the lesion is less than two centimeters in diameter, Sheets concluded.

676,105 Columbia Gas customers are on the Budget Payment Plan. It's no surprise.

These figures, based on your gas usage, show where your account stands every month.

This is your monthly Budget Payment amount. To join the Plan, pay this amount in August.

Even when your "Present Account Balance" is higher, you'll pay only the Budget Payment amount shown here.

More and more people are keeping a lid on winter heating bills with Columbia's Budget Payment Plan. They pay a predictable amount for gas every month. No extremes. And no heating bill surprises when the temperature takes a dive.

Here's how it works. In August, Columbia Gas calculates what you will probably pay for natural gas during the next 12 months based on your previous usage. That cost is then averaged out so you pay a manageable amount each month.

To get on the Budget Payment Plan, simply pay the amount indicated as "MONTHLY BUDGET" on your August bill. Nothing further is needed. There's no service charge for this convenience. And next July, you will be billed your budget amount plus or minus any difference between your total annual budget and the actual amount used during the year.

The Columbia Gas Budget Payment Plan can make at least one part of your family budget predictable every month of the year. And August is the time to get on the plan. And while you're thinking about lower heating bills, ask for our "Everyday Energy-Saver's Guide." It's free at any Columbia Gas office, and offers hundreds of tips on conserving energy.

THIS IS AN EXAMPLE OF THE BUDGET PAYMENT PLAN. YOUR BILL WILL BE DIFFERENT. YOUR AMOUNT MAY VARY.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

YOU CAN DO IT!

August 23, 1981

Background Scripture: Deuteronomy 30:11-20

Devotional Reading: Nehemiah 9:26-31

"It's too late for me to change my life!"

"Things are too messed up to straighten out!"

"I've always been this way and I always will be!"

"There's no way I can start over!"

These are just a few of the things that people tell me when I challenge them to put their lives in order. So many people conclude that there is a point at which a life is no longer worthy or possible of redemption.

I can understand those feelings, for there are times when the challenge to "clean up our act" seems totally beyond our meager capacities. We feel doomed to stay exactly where we are: at the bottom of the pit!

The Choice Is Ours

But one of the enduring themes of the Bible is that it is never too late, never too difficult, never impossible, unless we choose to make it so. As Moses sums up his third discourse to the people of Israel, he makes it clear that their destiny depends upon their own choices: "See, I have set before you this day life and good, death and evil" (Deuteronomy 30:15). As someone has put it, there are no hopeless situations, just people who have grown hopeless about them. If we choose to regard life without hope, it will be without hope. It has not been decided for us by someone else. It is our choice: "therefore choose life, that you and your descendants may live" (30:19).

Moses makes clear, not only that we can choose life, but that we are constantly making choices—good and bad—and there are consequences that follow those choices. If we choose not to follow God's commandments, there is an eventual price to be paid. "But if you heart turns away, and you will not hear, but are drawn away to worship other gods and serve them, I declare to you this day, that you shall perish" (30:17, 18). So, we are not helpless victims of life; we shape our lives by the choices we make.

Very Near

Neither is the good life in God's will so far beyond our grasp. "For this commandment which I command you this day is not too hard for you, neither is it far off. It is not in heaven, that you should say, 'Who will go up for us to heaven, and bring it to us, that we may hear it and do it?' " (30:11, 12). Of course, it is not easy, but neither is it beyond our grasp, if we really want it. One doesn't have to have a high I.Q. nor rise from a higher culture to grasp that which we must do. No, "the word is very near you. It is in your mouth and in your heart, so that you can do it" (30:14).

When we look at our own lives, it is easy to conclude that new life is beyond our grasp. But when we behold in us the power of God's redeeming love, we need to remember that: WE CAN DO IT!

WE ARE STILL STUDYING PHARMACY

When a pharmacist graduates from his college of pharmacy, most of them take a year or more to know where to go. But he can safely be trusted to compound and dispense drugs and prescriptions. At that time he is an expert on the storage, use, safe damage and the incompatibilities of every medicine.

The next day, an entirely new drug discovery may be released. To keep up to date with these frequent new products we carefully read our drug journals, medical publications and pharmaceutical supplier literature. Often a physician will phone us to find out if we have a new product in our prescription laboratory. The odds are we do, or we can get it the same day.

Named Recipient Of Doctoral Fellowship At West Virginia U

Melinda E. James, Bruceton Mills, W. Va., has been named one of four recipients of the Arlen G. and Louise Stone Swiger Doctoral Fellowships to be awarded by the West Virginia University Foundation. Mrs. James intends to use the award to complete work on a doctor of philosophy degree in medical biochemistry.

Her primary area of study involves the variation of enzyme control mechanisms caused by aging.

The competitive academic award directly pays all tuition and fees, as well as a monthly stipend.

Mrs. James is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Murphy, Crellin, and the granddaughter of Mrs. Mildred Roy, Hutton. She is a 1971 graduate of Southern High School and a graduate of West Virginia University.

Almanac

Today is Wednesday, Aug. 19, the 231st day of 1981 with 134 to follow.

The moon is moving toward its last quarter.

The morning star is Mars. The evening stars are Mercury, Venus, Jupiter and Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Leo.

American elder statesman Bernard Baruch was born Aug. 19, 1870.

On this date in history:

In 1915, two Americans were killed when a German U-boat torpedoed the British liner "Arabic" in the Atlantic Ocean.

In 1955, floods hit the north-eastern states and killed 200 people and destroyed or damaged 20,000 homes.

In 1960, U-2 spy-plane pilot Francis Gary Powers was convicted in a Moscow court and sentenced to 30 years in prison. He was released 18 months later and exchanged for Soviet spy Rudolf Abel. Powers died in a helicopter crash Aug. 19, 1977.

In 1977, what may have been the most powerful earthquake in recent years occurred between Australia and Indonesia. Buildings rattled as far away as Perth, Australia, 1,000 miles to the south.

A thought for the day: American statesman Bernard Baruch said, "America has never forgotten, and will never forget, the nobler things that brought her into being and that light her path."

PHOTOGRAPHS OF MEXICO are among the works displayed by Guy Hinebaugh at the Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland this month. In the winter of 1976 Hinebaugh lived and traveled with the people there about four months, compiling a series of candid shots. Raised at Deep Creek Lake, Hinebaugh has been a photographer about 10 years. He lived eight years in Aspen, Colorado, where he did most of his photography work and for sale, primarily to ski publications and other magazines. His free-lance work has dealt mostly with the area of sports, particularly snow skiing. He studied the art of photography through books and training periodicals, and was employed as a photographer with several newspapers. His pictures are illustrative or editorial, always done for a purpose, he said. A former ski instructor, Hinebaugh currently owns the T-Shirt Shack at Deep Creek Lake, selling t-shirts with original designs, some derived from photographs. In the winter months he manages Rudy's Ski Shop. Continuing with his photography, Hinebaugh periodically sends his works to an agent in New York City to be used occasionally in publications. He enjoys environmental photography by designing a picture in his mind and going out and creating it.

Crime Prevention Tips Outlines By Grantsville Chief

Grantsville Police Chief Frank Wilkins has issued a plea to residents of the Grantsville and surrounding areas to contact his office at once if they observe any unusual activity, in light of the recent wave of juvenile crime in and around town. Wilkins emphasizes the importance of being notified during or immediately following the commission of vandalism, theft, etc., enabling his department to move quickly while possible clues are still available. "It is vitally important that a minimum of time is lost following the commission of a crime," Wilkins said. "Don't go in, don't touch anything," he continued. "In contacting my office at once, the chances of merchandise recovery and culprit apprehension are much greater, and I need the cooperation of local citizens." Wilkins stated.

Because of a crime increase of more than 13 percent in Garrett County last year, Wilkins plans a special event regarding a community crime watch program in the near future. The program will include information on theft and vandalism prevention, drug abuse, driving while intoxicated, and general law enforcement respect. Dates for the upcoming sessions will be announced.

Cancer Society Slates Annual Horse-A-Thon

The Garrett County Unit of the American Cancer Society will hold its fifth annual Horse-A-Thon on September 13, at 11 a.m. at Nichols Horse Farm on the Cranesville Road.

Trophies will be presented to the oldest and the youngest riders; the rider with the most money collected; the rider with the most money collected representing a business; and a hard luck trophy. An entry fee will be charged to a rider without a sponsor.

Registration will be from 10 a.m. to 11 a.m. The ride will begin at 11 a.m. and end at approximately 2 p.m.

There will be free refreshments for the riders at the end of the trail.

Anyone interested in participating in the Horse-A-Thon and in getting sponsors should contact Marlene Flinn at 334-4914 or Bill Nemith at 334-8386.

New Members Being Sought For EAM Group

Despite the success of ongoing medical and scientific research in controlling seizures, the experiences of epilepsy can still unnerve persons with the disorder, their families, and their communities in a whirlpool of negative feelings, according to the Epilepsy Foundation of America.

Because anyone, at any time, may experience an injury or disease of the brain or central nervous system that may lead to epilepsy, a group of interested Garrett County citizens formed an in-pat group to serve the Epilepsy Association of Western Maryland.

The group has met on several occasions, has held several fund-raising events, and sends county representatives as board members to the EAM meetings as often as possible.

An appeal is now being made for new members to join in providing information to area school and church groups, as well as civic and charitable organizations to help spread accurate knowledge about the disorder, and most of all, dispelling myths about epilepsy that shroud those whose lives are touched by this most misunderstood of physical disorders.

The next meeting of the joint information/self-help group will be Thursday, September 10, at 7 p.m. in St. Peter's School. Hector Gomez, social worker for the Epilepsy Association for Western Maryland, invites interested persons to attend.

TV celebrates its golden age of drama

By Debra Morgenstern Katz

We were in a different era then. We were just discovering the medium," says Sonny Fox, executive producer of "The Golden Age of Television." "There were not that many TV sets around, so you could make mistakes and not find your career in ruins."

That is one reason why, Fox says, the years from 1948 to 1960 became the golden age of television, when young directors, writers and actors who later became great directors, writers and actors came together to perform live drama on television.

The original presentations of dramas like "Bang the Drum Slowly" with Paul Newman, "No Time for Sergeants" with Andy Griffith, "The Days of Wine and Roses" with Cliff Robertson, and "A Doll's House" with Julie Harris, Jason Robards and Eileen Heckart, were only shown once but remain classic performances today.

Eight of those live dramas will be rebroadcast when "The Golden Age of Television" airs on public television stations throughout the country. The series was produced by Sonny Fox Productions in association with KCET, Los Angeles. David J. Eagle was the producer. It is being distributed by Interregional Program Service.

The first drama, "Marty," written by Paddy Chayefsky for television in 1953, begins airing the week of Aug. 23. (Local times may vary, check listings.)

The idea for the series was Fox's. "We keep showing British drama on television. Why not great American drama?" Fox looked at many of the dramas that were performed then — although "finding the bloody kites" proved more difficult than he had imagined and many needed extensive cleaning and doctoring — and chose those he felt would still have an impact.

"These shows were not to be disregarded. They are still valid today as drama," says Fox. "They will still hold an audience, they still have impact. These are not curiosity pieces."

Television then was different from television now, Fox says. For one thing, economics. Once the amount of money involved escalated, the amount of risk-taking decreased. And the people involved were different, too. "TV in the '50s was rooted in New York, so the actors and writers were coming off the Broadway stage. In those early days, the writer stayed with his production. He made the changes in the script. It was an off-shoot of the drama world."

"There were no story conferences, no meetings, no developmental deals. Things were treated with loving care. That's not done anymore."

In the late '50s and '60s the industry moved to California and came under the sway of the people in the movie industry. In film, the writer became divorced from the project. He delivered the script and left.

Fox says he doesn't want to overstate the greatness of television in those days — "there was a lot of bad stuff, then, too" — but it was a sort of Camelot for TV.

Today, when he speaks to actors, writers and directors who were a part of it then, they react similarly: "The eyes glisten, the excitement creeps up in their voices and they all have the same thing to say — 'It was the most exciting time.'"

Home views, theater roles and Hong Kong

By Nancy M. Reichardt

NEW YORK — Because of the popularity of daytime personalities, Cosmopolitan Living magazine will be soon taking its readers into the homes of several soap-opera stars. One of those included in the article is Susan Lucci, who portrays villainess Erica Cudaby on "All My Children."

Robert Desiderio (Steve Piermont on "One Life to Live") has been busy working on his role for the upcoming TV film, "Princess and the Cabbie." The CBS TV movie stars Valerie Bertinelli of "One Day at a Time" fame.

Trodding the theater-boards nightly is Tom Aldredge who portrays Matt Pierce on "Ryan's Hope." Tom has a featured role in the Liz Taylor Broadway play, "The Little Foxes."

Sherry Mathis

"Search for Tomorrow" will be celebrating its 30th anniversary September 3 and to kick it off, CBS TV is taking several cast members to Hong Kong for location filming. Appearing in the scenes, which will air through October, are Rod Arrants and Sherry Mathis (Liza and Travis Sentell), Marcia McCabe (Sunny McClure), Marcus Smythe (Dane Taylor), Maureen Anderman (Sylvie) and Shawn Stevens (Zach).

Other "SFT" news includes the addition of Cindy Gibb in the role of Suzi Wyatt. The show also has a new head writer, Don Chastin, who, you may remember, portrayed Max Taper a few months back working with Mr. Chastin are Ralph and Eugenia Ellis who once wrote "As the World Turns."

As the World Turns, which has had at least three changes in head writers in the past six months, now has K.C. Collier at the writing helm. Ms. Collier has written for films and nighttime television, but this is her first soap-opera writing venture.

Everyone was delighted to see Emmy-winner Jane Elliot (ex-Tracy Quartermaine on "General Hospital") pop up on "Guiding Light." Since "GL" head writer, Doug Marland, was writing wonderful things for Jane when she was on "GL," it's a sure bet that her "GL" character, Carrie Todd, will be a winner, too.

Soon to exit "GL" (perhaps by the time you read this column) is Ted Leplat as Andy Norris. Also opting to leave the show was Stephen Yates as Ben McFarren. While Stephen goes on to other acting chores, a new actor will be chosen to portray Ben.

Andress in Elvis' car; Hirsch was real cabbie

By Cindy Adams

NEW YORK — Ursula Andress bought Elvis' '57 convertible and put 15 thou into it to jazz it up. Judd Hirsch, from "Taxi," says he was a real cabbie back in the days when he couldn't even spring for a bus. Diane Keaton's nickname for Woody Allen is Max. I don't know why. Gene Hackman has been putting the razz on his newest epic "Superman." He didn't like it. Edie Adams has a pistachio farm in Bakersfield, Calif. Jim Nabors grows macadamias in Hawaii and Raymond Burr's devoted to the care and feeding of his exons in Fiji. So, what's the conclusion? They're nuts.

Natalie Wood is heavily into bubble gum. Snaps, crackles and pops it in public. Loretta Lynn: OK, so blood is thicker than water but then so is toothpaste. Morey Amsterdam: "I'm optimistic about the future of this country. I have a lot of confidence in Nancy Reagan." Carol Burnett: "We're economizing. Instead of spending all our money on a two week vacation we're spending it all on a one week vacation."

John Travolta, eager to avoid the Elvis Presley life-style trap, immersed himself in philosophy and literature. Sort of a born-again intellect. Macho he-man Christopher Reeve was a boy soprano. Omar Sharif, who describes his brown eyes as "warm and tender," isn't using them to woo women nowadays. He focuses them on books. Lover Sharif reads a book a night. ## Celebrities join to battle drug problem

By Ruth Thompson

"Peer pressure" is indicted by psychologists as a major villain luring the young to experiment with drugs.

Can "celebrity pressure" counter peer pressure? Two New York court decisions say it's well worth trying. So do a number of celebrities — athletes as well as entertainers — the majority of whom never made "the drug mistake" in the first place. They hope that by banding together in the "Alternative-to-Drugs" campaign running on NBC the week of Sept. 20, many youngsters will be turned off from the image of drugs as chic and will be inspired instead to "Get High on Yourself."

The price of the public effort by NBC is said to run close to $3 million because of production costs and the revenues lost by commercials that have been canceled to make room for prime-time promotions at the start of every evening program that week. The promotions will be headed by one or more stars and some 8- to 18-year-old youngsters who participate in musical messages.

Launching the week-long campaign is a star-studded special produced by long-time Paramount executive Robert Evans. This is the "good deed" that was ordered by the judge who convicted Evans of cocaine possession.

At a recent press conference, he sounded elated at the judge's mandate to use his professional skills to alert children and young people to the horrors of drug abuse.

Evans said that his young son, who previewed the special, was favorably impressed — and it was his son's first favorable reaction to his career. The boy, it seems, was downright displeased by such major Evans movies as "Chinatown" and "Love Story."

Also pleased by the special — and credited by Evans as being a driving force behind it — is Cathy Lee Crosby. A leader in the fight to educate youngsters about the dangers of drug abuse, Ms. Crosby is a sterling example of what health and energy can mean.

She juggles her drug-fighting cause while keeping up a career that includes co-hosting ABC's "That's Incredible" and taking on a starring role in forthcoming NBC mini-series "World War III."

Some of the athletes participating in NBC's September campaign are Muhammad Ali, Tracy Austin, Dorothy Hamill, Julius Dr. J. Erving and Bruce Jenner. Participating actors include Kristi McNichol, Victoria Principal, John Schneider, Harvey Villchaz and Henry Winkler.

Also taking part are two celebrity parents: Carol Burnett, whose daughter has had a drug problem, and Paul Newman, whose late son's death may have been drug-related.

John Phillips, who founded the old "Mamas and Papas" singing group was struggling to rehabilitate himself from drugs when he was convicted of not just possession but of dealing in drugs. In recognition of Phillips' efforts at rehabilitation, the sentencing judge urged him to conduct a private campaign in schools.

Phillips, in addition to urging kids not to get started on drugs in the first place, offers hope to those already in the grip of drugs that they, too, can free themselves.

Joining him is his daughter Mackenzie, whose television career plummeted because of drugs. She was an original cast member, as Bonnie Franklin's elder daughter, on CBS' "One Day at a Time."

ASK ME ABOUT TV

By Val Carew

HIGH-LEE PUZZLING — I was watching the "Mike Douglas Show" and I saw Lee Patterson from the new soap "Texas." They said he had been on "Another World" but I thought I recognized him from something else. But from where else could I have recognized his face? — Ann U. Gainesville, Fla.

If you were a big TV viewer from 1960 to 1962, you would have seen Lee as one of the stars of the series "Surfside Six." His co-stars were Van Williams, Troy Donahue and Diana McBain.

where he played a hired killer. But my husband does not believe they are the same fellow — Stacey Ames, Trenton, N.J.

First of all, his name is Merlin and yes, he is indeed the same fellow. A former pro-football star turned sportscaster turned very good actor, Merlin will have his own series next fall. It's called "Father Murphy" and it will be on NBC, created by Michael Landon for the former regular on "Little House on the Prairie."

Arthur Godfrey

ARTHUR — Where could I write to Arthur Godfrey? G.L. Sauter, Hutchinson, Minn.

Godfrey is more or less retired, but a letter sent to him in care of his agent, William Morris, 1350 Avenue of the Americas, New York, NY 10019, should reach him.

SPORTY TYPE — Please settle a dispute between my husband and me. I think Merle Olsen, the sportscaster, also acts on shows like "Little House on the Prairie" and on a segment of "Walking Tall."

Charles Haid

HAID IN CLOUDS — I have been a fan of Charles Haid ever since I saw him in "Kate McShane." Now he is on "Hill Street Blues," which is a terrific show. Where can I write to him? — Shelley P. Burns, Augusta, Ga.

Write Haid, who will be delighted with your memory (not too many people recall "Kate McShane") at MTM Productions, 4024 Radford Avenue, Studio City, CA 91604.

(Do you have a question about TV? Write Val Carew at 200 Park Avenue, Room 602, New York, NY 10166.)

FRIDAY

A college professor (John Lawlor) offers paternal insight to his own son (guest star David Lander) in "Who Is a Father?" a comedy to air Friday, Aug. 21 on NBC.

WILLIAM HOLDEN, (l.) who plays the head of a television network news division and Robert Duval, who plays a corporate hatchet man, are locked in a deadly power struggle in "Network," a satirical drama and winner of four Academy Awards, to be rebroadcast Tuesday, Aug. 23 on CBS.

Elizabeth Montgomery: legendary Belle Starr

The real Belle Starr is so clouded by legend and fiction that you can come up with several versions of her life, depending on which story of the Old West you study," said Elizabeth Montgomery, who stars as the so-called bandit queen in the title role of "Belle Starr," to be rebroadcast on "The CBS Wednesday Night Movies," Wednesday, Aug. 26 on CBS.

One thing we do know for sure is that she was an exceptional and amazing woman, if not a good one, and an important figure in the history of the West," says Miss Montgomery.

No such ambiguity is possible when speaking about Miss Montgomery's life. As the daughter of famous parents, her life has been well documented from birth. Her father, Robert Montgomery, is remembered for his acting in such film classics as "Night Must Fall," "Lady in the Lake" and "Here Comes Mr. Jordan." He also made his mark as a director and later as a producer of the television repertory theater, "Robert Montgomery Presents," from 1934 to 1957. To add further to his credentials, he was President Dwight D. Eisenhower's media adviser for years. Her mother, too, was noted for her acting. She was on the stage as Elizabeth Allen.

Elizabeth Montgomery

Miss Montgomery says she became determined to follow in her parents' footsteps when she was 4 and has not wavered from this early goal. She graduated from the American Academy of Dramatic Arts in New York, and appeared with her father on television in 1951. For the next 13 years she acted in one Broadway play after another, made several feature films, and was on some 250 television programs.

Then, in 1964, came "Bewitched" — and stardom in her own right. The series lasted eight seasons on television, leaving her in the financial position to do only what she really chose from then on. Among the television roles she has chosen since then have been leads in "The Victim," "The Legend of Lizzie Borden," "Dark Victory," "A Killing Affair," "Mrs. Sundance" and the CBS presentation of "Act of Violence."

Many of her roles have been emotionally and physically demanding, as is her role in "Belle Starr." Those demands have kept her in top physical condition, which she thinks is essential.

"An actor has to have stamina," she says. To this end, she plays tennis, swims, bikes and is careful with her diet. And she loves horses, another personal trait that shows up in her choice of roles, including "Belle Starr." The legendary Belle Starr, by the way, led a very dangerous life.

"Picture Belle Starr playing the piano at local dances with a gun strapped to her side," says Miss Montgomery, "and you get an idea of how rough country life must have been in the West in those days."

Assessment Answers & Tax Talk

LAST CALL/TAX CREDIT DEADLINE — SEPTEMBER 1

by James Barley
This is the last opportunity this year to remind homeowners that they have but a very short time to file their application for a property tax credit. The final filing date—September 1—is fast approaching.

Even if it is not possible to fill out an application completely, the tax credit people advise that it is best to send the application in with as much information as possible. In this way, the owner will meet the legal deadline for filing. The tax credits office will promptly process the application and notify the owner of any missing information which can be mailed in later. Some owners, it is known, hesitate because they do not have a readily available copy of their income tax form, one of the documents that would normally accompany the application. But this can be obtained and sent later.

Often called the "circuit breaker," the plan allows a credit toward property taxes when they exceed a specified percentage of one's income. For example, if a family's household income were $10,000, the property tax limit would be $310. Any amount of property tax over this would be offset by the tax credit up to a maximum credit of $900. The two basic qualifications are that one must own his home and it must be the primary residence where one lives at least six months of the year. There is no age restriction.

Homeowners' property tax credits averaged $320 last year. That amounts to a fair portion of the average property tax bill. Another important fact is that those who file an application by September 1, and whose tax bill is still unpaid, will get a revised bill which allows an additional thirty-day grace period during which no interest or penalties will be applied. The additional thirty-day grace period is measured from the date the owner receives notification of eligibility or non-eligibility for a tax credit. Owners who file by September 1, can expect to receive their tax credit approximately eight to nine weeks later.

No one entitled to a homeowner's tax credit should miss getting one through failure to file, and with virtually all living costs on the rise, no one entitled to a tax credit can afford to miss one! A quick call to either of these numbers will result in an application form being mailed to the caller that same day. In the Baltimore area, the

We Build Energy-Efficient Houses!

Energy-Efficient Residence

That's what they all say—every builder and manufacturer around. But when we say it, we mean something different. Pictured above is a research house at Mt. Airy, Maryland, built by the National Association of Home Builders Research Foundation (a subsidiary of the National Association of Home Builders) under a contract with the U. S. Department of HUD. Our Paneledrapes system of movable window insulation was selected to be used in this house after NAHB Research Foundation engineers examined 17 systems in the U. S. and Canada. It's an improved version of the same pocket-panel system we have in our house on Pennington Street in Oakland that has helped us hold our electric heating bill for our first 12 months to $149.00.

Although we didn't build the house above, we can build you one with the same features right here on the mountain top. A house with walls that lose 67% less heat than 8" log cabin walls. Insulated windows that lose 92% less heat as double-pane glass. Proper site orientation to get passive solar heat gain. Zoned interiors so you won't have to heat all your rooms all the time. Careful caulking and weatherstripping to keep out the wind. Sub-slab insulation. Earth berming. And many other features.

Our houses are not for everyone. They are for people who want to save money in the years ahead when gas prices triple and oil and electricity costs double again. They are for people who discover, as their grandparents did, that coal heat is dirty. And people who see the cost of wood (including their investment in time, energy, equipment, maintenance and worry over fire fires) as not so good a deal. Of course—we can save you money on any type of fuel you choose.

So drop us a line. You can choose one of our Shelter, Inc. plans or we can modify your plans to make them truly energy efficient. We can build you a do-it-yourself package and do as much of the site work as you wish.

Reapportionment, Redistricting Meetings Stated

State Treasurer William S. James, acting in his capacity as chairman of the Governor's Advisory Committee on Reapportionment and Redistricting, announced last week that the task force will hold a series of regional meetings to allow the public and public officials in the individual regions an opportunity to discuss and comment upon reapportionment and redistricting issues in those regions.

The State Constitution mandates that the Governor develop and submit a plan reapportioning the membership of the General Assembly at its next session," chairman James said. "The Governor has chosen to open up the process in order to obtain maximum citizen participation."

"What we are seeking to do with our regional meetings," chairman James continued, "is to follow the Constitutional mandate and the wishes of the Governor in the hope that all interested parties will enlighten the Task Force as to their concerns regarding redistricting and reapportionment."

"And," he concluded, "we especially hope that citizens will take this unique opportunity to participate in a matter that is vital to the electoral process."

The western regional meeting will be held Thursday, Aug. 27, at 7:30 p.m. in the Conference Room of Winchester Hall, 12 E. Church Street, Frederick.

PLAYER'S Profile

THIS WEEK Russell Arthur

by Kathy Bailey

Russell Arthur, 44, from New York City, has joined the Garrett County Playhouse for its final three productions to direct and share his vast experience in nearly every area of the theatre.

Having been a dancer about 23 years, Arthur has spent his entire life feverishly pursuing work as a dancer, singer, actor and, more recently, director. His stage experience has taken him all over the country and he has performed with at least four Broadway musicals. He was a singer/dancer in over 55 musical comedy productions with summer stock and dinner theatres, and he currently directs his own variety shows in various parts of the United States.

Arthur began his career as a ballet dancer in high school, saying that he would do anything to avoid participating in sports. He was then offered a chance to go into ballroom dancing at a modern dance club, and he later studied ballet for four years in his native California, while working during the day at Disneyland. There he met many helpful people in the theatre.

Following his ballet study, Arthur went to New York City, where he now considers himself a native, having maintained it as a home base throughout his many travels. Upon his arrival Arthur commented that he was "very lucky" to get with a show right off the bat, touring with "Can Can" about 10 weeks.

After his arrival in New York, Arthur began working with musical comedies, having received inspiration through the work of Agnes de Mille, choreographer of the original "Oklahoma." He stated that he was moved by her work and wanted to dance in the style she created. In 1964 he had the opportunity to work with her, and she was very much a part of his life until 1966, as they continued to work in the same productions.

In his experience with shows, Arthur stated it "was very common" to do 10 shows in 10 weeks. He worked 40 to 45 weeks out of the year, auditioning and rehearsing all the time, continually fighting fierce competition.

He has toured with several "bus and truck" companies, recreating successful Broadway shows in small towns throughout the country, hauling with them scenery, complete orchestras and everything needed for the production, and doing an incredible amount of one-night stands. Arthur noted, in his tour with "George M.," that company did 135 cities in six months. That kind of existence was incredible, he said, because the bus, alone with its other 50 people, "literally becomes your house."

Arthur stated that he always takes a vacation at the end of an intense tour, usually traveling to Europe and bringing something back into the theatre when he returns, often in the area of authenticity in foreign affairs.

He has learned how to deal with the business, he said, as does every professional performer in New York. "It is not just talent that is needed, one needs the ability to be very adaptable and make numerous sacrifices and not regret it," he said. "I will never have a family with a white house and picket fence, and I don't want it." He compared a commitment to show business as "almost like committing yourself to a convent."

"Performers in New York spend most of their income on all types of classes, resumes and photographs, needing a broad spectrum of abilities because you are required to do everything, even sing," Arthur noted. "It takes a tremendous amount of discipline," he said, particularly when he primarily works as his own agent, knocking on doors that he is almost sure will not be answered. Arthur recalled perhaps his most harrowing experience, following a two-hour audition in which he clearly appeared the best performer. The part was given to someone else "because he fit the costume." Money is always a factor, he added, and shows are becoming more and more expensive to produce.

On Broadway Arthur has performed in "Beg, Borrow or Steal" with Betty Garrett, who now appears on situation comedy television shows; "110 in the Shade," a play based on "The Rainmaker," a revival entitled "Music Land," and "I Remember Mama," starring Liv Ullmann. In that last appearance on Broadway he served as a swing dancer, covering every male role in the production and jumping in each night wherever needed. He also understudied an acting part in that, stating that type of work is very challenging and much more interesting, keeping up enthusiasm as "you're always doing something different." Arthur also toured with the national road-company of "Showboat," and many other Broadway hits.

In addition to all that, Arthur has juggled various stages in his career, governed by age. Because of his young appearance and his height, he played children into his 30s, when he determined he was too old to play those parts, sending him back to square one. His successful career as a dancer, like others, is also controlled in part by age.

"There is nothing natural about ballet," he states. "You work in filthy conditions and empty rooms and it hurts... and it never stops hurting. Most male ballet dancers become severely arthritic," he added, just another one of those sacrifices.

In the past four years Arthur has delved deeper into the area of directing, beginning now to use the full extent of his experience, loving the theatre "more than ever" and never ceasing to learn "from the older people in this business."

"Directing makes my own performances better," Arthur noted, "and my experience in acting helps me (as a director) understand what the actors are feeling." He laughingly described his role of director as part artist, part psychiatrist and part football coach.

During the winter months Arthur directs throughout the country as part of the Jerome Cargill company, based in New York City. The Vaudeville-type shows are created by Arthur for hospital auxiliaries and junior leagues as fundraising events, with each show clearing anywhere from $30,000 to $50,000. The shows are geared to the performers and everything is the director's doing, including choreography and conducting the orchestra. He carries with him 29 trunks full of costumes, enough to outfit about 200 performers. Working 14-hour days, he takes non-professionals and uses all his theatre skills to train them and develop a professional show. In this work Arthur says he likes the idea that what he is doing translates into something nice for someone, and he is finally able to stay in a place for one month and to meet some people.

Arthur came to Garrett County to share his talents through the suggestion of his friend, Milburn Mehlich, playwright, director and actor with the Garrett County Playhouse for many years. Arthur commented that the audiences here are "extraordinary and absolutely attentive. I love to listen to the laughter... it is very satisfying and rewarding."

Arthur stated that he would someday like to do a television series, concentrating on character acting. He seems positive about his goals, commenting that, at the age of 18 he set out to be a dancer on Broadway, and he was. The brightness of his eyes and his smile portray his eagerness to tackle something new at any moment. "I keep all my options open, and I will probably be one of those people who work until they simply drop," he grinned. "I believe you really can't fail... something will happen."

Arthur noted that "Friendships in the theatre are very intense, but you eventually have to leave... you have to adjust to closing night. I will miss these people," he added, as the company members face this week's close of the season, to return to their other activities in other parts of the country.

The Garrett County Playhouse

by Theo Varnell

The Garrett County Playhouse opens its final production of the 1981 season tonight. "The Kingfisher," by William Douglas Home, played Broadway and a successful road tour recently starring Rex Harrison, Claudette Colbert and George Rose. The Playhouse production, directed by Russell Arthur, will feature Jean Jordan, Chris von Eckartsberg, and Milburn Mehlich.

To reach the Playhouse from Rt. 219, persons should take the Glendale Bridge Road (at Alpine Village), cross the bridge and bear right. At the first intersection, approximately one mile beyond the bridge, turn right onto the Beckman's Peninsula Road (the first intersection past the bridge). The Playhouse drive is just at the bottom of the short hill.

For information and reservations persons may call Englander's, Gregg's, or Proudfoot's pharmacies in Oakland. All seats are general admission but theatre-goers are urged to make reservations, which will be honored until 8:20 on performance nights.

All performances begin at 8:30 p.m. The boxoffice will be open at 7:30 on performance

The Maryland State Board of Education addressed the group through a correspondence regarding the need for someone to accompany parentless special education children in the schools' admission, review and dismissal process. The GOH membership agreed to have a representative from the state speak about that topic at its September meeting. Suggestions were made to invite members of Visiting Friends and the local Ministerial Association to that meeting as contacts for volunteers to assist in this matter.

It was noted that approximately 50 persons attended the GOH picnic held last month at Deep Creek Lake State Park. Entertainment was provided by Smith & Roberts, refreshments were available and games and activities were led by Dorothy Leuba, president. It was noted that Mr. Bob's hair styling salon will kick back 12 percent of its income from style haircuts to the Appalachian Center during the month of August.

In other business, the group agreed to purchase first day cancellation LYDP stamps for all paid members of GOH. The group's next meeting will be held Thursday, September 3.

PRINTS BY LOCAL PHOTOGRAPHER DISPLAYED — Photographs by Barry Glottelty, 21, Bittinger, are included in a photography exhibit at the Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland. The exhibit will run through the month of August, featuring works by six photographers. Pictured above is one of Glottelty's photos, taken in Westminster. A graduate of Northern High School and the University of Maryland, majoring in agronomy, Glottelty has been a photographer about seven years, having done some freelance work. He has attended three special photography programs sponsored by the Maryland Center for the Arts, and served for a time as a major local photographer for 4-H club events in Garrett County. His works have been exhibited at the Garrett County Fair and the Maryland Center for the Arts, and one of his photos appeared at the Maryland State Fair in 1976, included in a national exhibit sponsored by Eastman Kodak. Glottelty works a lot with black and white film, and is partial to still life, nature and candid shots. According to his sister, Carol Bass, he has taken photographs all over the state. Glottelty is currently working for a sculptor in Chicago, Illinois, building outdoor sculptures. He is planning a western trip, after which time he plans to return to Garrett County and enter into employment related to agronomy and soil conservation, while continuing with freelance photography.

Number Of Drunk Driving Arrests At All-Time High

Maryland State Police have arrested 6,375 intoxicated drivers during the first seven months of this year. This record setting figure exceeds the total number of DWI arrests made by Troopers during any previous year. Last year, a total of 6,202 drunk drivers were arrested by the State Police.

This is the third month in a row that State troopers have reported a dramatic increase in DWI arrests. A total of 1,062 drunk drivers were arrested by troopers during July, which is a 105 percent increase when compared to the same month last year.

On May 1, Governor Harry Hughes and State Police Superintendent Thomas S. Smith announced the most comprehensive effort ever undertaken in Maryland to identify and remove drunk drivers from the highway.

This crackdown is supported in part by a $500,000 federal highway safety grant that pays troopers overtime to patrol roads which have been identified as having a high number of alcohol related accidents. Troopers also received additional training in ways to spot drunk drivers and are using a special detection guide that was developed by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

According to Lt. Col. Johnny G. Lough, Chief of the State Police Field Operations Bureau, "Our troopers are doing a spectacular job. At the rate we are going, I believe that we will lock up more than 10,000 drunk drivers during 1981."

Lough said that persons who are arrested for drunk driving will probably be handcuffed and placed in a patrol car, have their car towed and impounded (driver pays the costs), be taken to a State Police Barrack for a breath test (refusal means automatic suspension of license), be placed in a cell, and will have to appear before a District Court Commissioner for a bail review.

State Police regional totals for drunk driving arrests during July were: 250, Washington Metro Troop (Prince George's and Montgomery Counties); 204, Baltimore Metro Troop (Anne Arundel and Baltimore Counties); 169, Eastern Troop (Eastern Shore); 155, Central Troop (Howard, Frederick and Carroll Counties); 113, North-east Troop (Harford and Cecil Counties); 109, Southern Troop (St. Mary's, Charles and Calvert Counties); and 82, Western Troop (Washington, Allegany and Garrett Counties).

Specialists Predict Record Corn Yield, Despite Dry Weather

In spite of a hot, dry two-week period in the middle of the month, July rainfall averaged near normal to above normal except in parts of Maryland's Eastern Shore. Temperatures in July averaged near normal despite the long period of above normal temperatures in mid-month.

Hot, dry weather has reduced prospects, but Maryland farmers are still expected to harvest a record corn crop this year. Based on August 1 conditions, the Maryland-Delaware Crop Reporting Service forecasts total production at 63.4 million bushels, eight percent above the previous record 1979 crop and 38 percent more than the 1980 drought reduced crop. Soybean production in Maryland is forecast at 10.4 million bushels, 12 percent more than last year and 14 percent below the record production of 12.2 million set in 1978. Yields are expected to average five bushels better than last year, but three bushels below the record yield of 32 in 1978.

Barley from Maryland farms yielded a record high average of 30 bushels per acre. This high yield and 75,000 acres harvested results in overall production of 4,125,000 bushels, the highest production since 1976. However, the output this year is 13 percent more than last year's 3,640,000 bushels.

Rye production, at 240,000 bushels, is up 11 percent from last year. The average yield, at 30 bushels per acre, ties record yields harvested in 1976 and 1978.

Sweet potato production, at 202,000 hundredweight, is four percent above the record low production of 195,000 hundredweight produced in 1980. The acreage, at 1,300 acres, is unchanged from last year.

Commercial apple production is expected to total 75 million pounds, 17 percent less than the 1980 crop. Peach output is forecast at 17 million pounds, 11 percent below last year.

TO ALL INTERESTED AGENCIES, GROUPS AND PERSONS:

On or about September 12, 1981, the above named City will request the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) to release Federal funds under Title of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 (PL 93-383) for the following project:

An Environmental Review Record respecting the within project has been made by the above named City which documents the environmental review of the project and more fully sets forth the reasons why this decision has been made by the public examination and copying, upon request.

Kitzmillier will undertake the project described above with Block Grant funds from the U. S. The legal effect of the certification is that upon its approval, Kitzmillier may use the Block Grant funds and HUD will have satisfied its responsibilities under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969. HUD will accept an objection to its approval of the release of funds and acceptance of the certification only if it is on one of the following bases: (a) That the certification was not in fact executed by the chief executive officer or other officer of applicant approved by HUD; or (b) That applicant's environmental review record for the project indicates omission of a required decision, finding, or step applicable to the project in the environmental review process. Objections must be prepared and submitted in accordance with the required procedure (24 CFR Part 58), and may be addressed to HUD at: Department of Housing and Urban Development, Baltimore Area Office, Mercantile Bank and Trust Building, 2 Hopkins Plaza, Baltimore, Maryland 21201.

Looking At Antiques

With The Country Boy

by Dove Bowman

AMERICAN TOYS

One of the fields that has experienced a fast growth recently is that of toy collecting.

Although they cannot be truly called antiques, they still hold a fascination for many.

Most children played with imported or homemade toys until well after the Civil War.

It is interesting to note that some of the most sought after toys were not made until the 1930's and the 1940's.

Toys come in all shapes, sizes and different construction.

There are wood toys, tin toys, iron toys and even china and pottery toys.

Prices range from a few dollars for the most common to thousands of dollars for the rare ones.

Toy collecting is one area where there is something for everyone. There are dolls for the ladies; cars, trucks, and tanks for the men; and marbles, sleds, and skates for the children.

There are still bargains to be found and many places that toys can be purchased. You will find that as in other areas of collecting, it just takes time and patience.

We are always interested in buying good antiques—one piece or a houseful.

Edgar H. Harman Named Chairman Of Health Agency

Edgar H. Harman, director of the environmental health section of the Garrett County Health Department, was named the new chairman of the governing body of the Health Systems Agency of Western Maryland at the annual luncheon held in Hagerstown August 19.

Harman succeeds Dr. Peter G. Collins, retired administrator of the Washington County Board of Education.

Appointed to the governing body in May 1979, he has since served on the HSA special health services and management committee. Last year he served as vice chairman.

Harman, an Accident resident, is also a member of the Maryland Conference of Environmental Health Directors and the Maryland Association of Sanitarians.

The Health Systems Agency of Western Maryland is comprised of volunteers who are both directly involved with health care or are from the private sector.

The main tasks of the agency, which covers Frederick, Washington, Allegany and Garrett Counties, are to improve the health of its residents, prevent duplication of services, act as a watchdog agency to minimize increased health care costs, and develop effective health education methods and programs.

The agency is one of 200 such organizations created under the National Health Planning and Resources Development Act.

Men Jailed On Drug Theft Charge

Two men from Pittsburgh, Pa., are lodged in the Garrett County Jail, facing charges of breaking and entering, theft, malicious destruction of property, unlawful possession and distribution of controlled drug substances, and racketeering (a form of vagabondage), thanks to the quick thinking of a Grantsville resident.

The men were observed breaking the glass in the front door of Beachy's Pharmacy, Grantsville, by a nearby neighbor, and police were summoned.

Albert Philip Lawrence, 30, and Michael Lee Langston, 28, were captured by Maryland State Police Officer Carl Skidmore on Rt. 48, near 2186 following the break-in which occurred approximately 4 to 4:30 a.m. Monday. Taken from the drug store was a quantity of pills, valued at approximately $100. A search warrant for the vehicle disclosed a quantity of drugs believed stolen from a pharmacy in Frederick, including pills and drug paraphernalia.

Damage to the entrance of the Grantsville establishment is estimated at $300.

A MOST JOYOUS OCCASION was celebrated Saturday by John Yommer, Accident, who observed his 10th birthday on August 20. Mr. Yommer, believed to be the oldest Garrett County resident, lived in Jennings until January of this year. According to those who know him, he's a colorful individual, filled with stories of the past, and a "delightful example of youthful thinking." See story on page 5.

Oakland Police Cracking Down On Young Vandals

The Oakland Police Department is launching a campaign against destruction by area juveniles to property of the B&O Railroad.

Officer Ron Bechly stated that he arrested two juveniles Thursday night after they allegedly threw rocks or similar objects at a caboose of a train passing through Oakland.

A captain with the Chesapeake System Police Department out of Cumberland has worked with Bechly to compile a list of the names of 16 juvenile suspects believed to be involved with numerous incidents of vandalism to the railroad.

Bechly said the department has received an average of three calls per week in the past three months involving incidents of objects being placed on the tracks, objects thrown at trains and attempts to derail trains. He noted that in one instance someone inserted a piece of steel in a switch, breaking it, and a train traveling through that area at normal speed would have derailed. The train that passed through at that time, however, was traveling at a slow rate of speed.

This week Bechly and Captain Klier are hoping to get all of the suspects and their parents together at the Oakland Police Station to explain the charges that can be filed against the juveniles and the potentially harmful consequences of the actions described. Bechly added that charges are pending against some of the juveniles expected to appear at the lecture. He stressed that the department is concerned for the safety of the juveniles lingering near the railroad tracks.

In a report to the elected officials, Tim Dugan, county planning director noted HCD has taken action which could lead to foreclosures on the owner of the complex, Oakland Associates, a Baltimore firm. In a letter to Morton Sarubin, general partner of the firm, HUD listed two alternatives which were to either restore the units or to demolish the complex to HUD in lieu of foreclosure. If the firm chooses neither alternative, HUD will foreclose.

Fund Drive For Hospital Project Kicked Off Today

The public relations committee of the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Board of Governors announced this week that nearly 25,000 brochures and letters will be mailed out to residents of Garrett County and surrounding West Virginia communities today to kick off the fund raising drive for the building and renovation project of the hospital known as Project G. The drive, which has a goal of $250,000, was a condition and part of the approval for Project G by the various health regulatory agencies. The remainder of the funding for the project has been provided by an ARC grant of $2.5 million and general obligation bond sales.

All segments of the Garrett County community are being asked to participate in the fund drive, including individual citizens, business, service and civic clubs, youth clubs, hospital employees, doctors and dentists.

All segments of the Garrett County community are being asked to participate in the fund drive, including individual citizens, businesses, service and civic clubs. A self-addressed, stamped envelope is included with the letters and persons may make tax deductible donations either as a one-time donation or a pledge which may be paid out either monthly or annually over an extended period of time (up to five years). Contributors will have the opportunity to donate to the general fund or to one of the specialty areas indicated on the mailer.

The committee members stated that all attempts were made to remove duplications from the mailing list, but stated that some persons may still receive more than one letter, for which they apologize. Likewise, they said, those persons who do not receive a brochure and letter and desire one may call 334-2019 and request one. Service and civic clubs or businesses desiring more information or presentations about the fund drive or Project G may also call 334-2019 to make arrangements.

A large "G" will be erected on the front lawn of the hospital which will indicate on a timely basis how much money has been collected toward the $250,000 goal.

Project G, which involves the addition of approximately 40,000 new square feet of space mostly for support departments, is now about 50% completed and plans are to have the building ready for occupancy by the end of March or beginning of April, 1982. Renovation to the old building will begin immediately and is expected to be completed within three to five months.

Mrs. Joyce D. Bushoff, chairman of the public relations committee, stated that Garrett County and surrounding West Virginia residents has shown great support for the hospital project, particularly through public hearings and a referendum vote taken in May of 1980. Our hopes are that the fund drive will receive just as much support," Mrs. Bushoff said.

Other members of the committee are Mrs. Esther E. Yoder, Donald M. Simcox and Dr. George B. Stoltzfus.

Trailer Destroyed By Fire Saturday

Hot cigarette ashes accidentally dropped into a house chair is believed to have been the cause of a fire which destroyed a trailer located on Broad Ford Road near Oakland Saturday afternoon.

Oakland and Deer Park fire fighters, along with the Southern Rescue Squad, were called to the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Kreyenbuhl at 3:04 p.m. and, upon their arrival, discovered the trailer fully involved in the dining room area.

Robert H. Shimer, fire investigator for Garrett and Allegany counties, stated that Mrs. Kreyenbuhl, who notified Garrett Central Alarm of the fire, was almost trapped by the blaze after she reportedly went to the rear of the trailer 15 minutes prior to the time she discovered the fire. Upon returning to the living room/kitchen area, she found the room almost fully involved, but proceeded through the room to a door leading to the outside. She then used her husband of the fire, who was out in the yard approximately 100 feet from the trailer.

Shimer determined that the fire started in the area of a stuffed lounge chair and believed it was the result of dropped cigarette ashes.

The trailer was declared a total loss and Shimer said the couple lost nearly all of their possessions. The Kreyenbuhls stated they had some insurance on the unit and planned to stay with one of their children in the Oakland area.

Firefighters estimated the fire was about 3:30 p.m. There were no injuries.

County Roads Contract Deadline Draws Near, Talks Continue

Representatives for Garrett County and for the American Federation of State, Municipal and County Employees, the union for the Garrett County waste department employees, have scheduled a meeting this Thursday in an attempt to end negotiations before the county contract extension runs out on midnight of August 31.

In a meeting with the county commissioners Tuesday, representatives of the union stated that if negotiations have not ended before the deadline, another federal mediator might be called in to help the two parties reach a settlement.

The representatives met with the commissioners yesterday to ask questions about the county budget and to make recommendations on how to improve the county's fiscal situation.

One item the representatives questioned was a $700,000 fund balance which the county audit showed to have been carried over to FY1981 at the end of FY1980. Though the commissioners could not provide an exact answer, they said possible reasons were that they also carried over a $400,000 accounts payable and had other expenses and deficits that were not apparent in the audit.

The representatives also stated that the budget provided for the public did not adequately show county expenditures and revenues. The commissioners replied that although the budget complies with Maryland public law, they are investigating ways to provide a more detailed budget.

Bear Cub Shot Following Confrontation Near Friendsville

By Kathy Bailey

A bear cub, which the DNR estimated to weigh about 150 pounds, was shot in the head after it confronted a Friendsville man and entered a house on the Square Pike road off Route 42 near Friendsville on Saturday night.

The series of events happened between 7:30 and 10:30 p.m., beginning when Emerson "Pete" Frazier, 36, walked down to his barn to turn off some lights that were left on. Going through a gate and approaching the barn Frazier said he heard a growl, turned and saw the bear about 10 paces from him, standing on its hind legs.

Having just recovered from surgery, Frazier said he was afraid to run, and opted to remain still and call for help. In what seemed like an hour or two," Frazier stated, he remained there about 10 minutes. In the meantime the bear had put its front paws up against a tree in the barnyard, did not advance and did not retreat, but simply stared at Frazier.

Frazier's German Shepherd was on the other side of the bear, barking but keeping its distance.

Frazier's son-in-law, Buhl Neratka, 23, eventually left the Frazier home, heard the man yelling and spotted the bear. He stated that the only gun available at the time was a double barrel 12-gauge shotgun and he grabbed it and ran down to the gate. Neratka shot the cub in the nose and left side of its head with bird shot, and it dropped to the ground.

Credit Is Due

Within the past two weeks, two of the three Vietnamese families which established residence in Garrett County last year have moved away. They have left not because of economic troubles, unemployment, displeasure with the area, nor harassment by county natives. Their moving is one of progress, to places where more of their own people are already established. There they will be somewhat more comfortable and able to contribute more to society, a society which they know has offered them not only freedom, but life itself.

There was great sadness associated with their leaving, for not only did it mean the loss of productive citizens to the county, but also it meant the physical separation of many good, close friends. While those friendships will never be broken, it's entirely possible that the refugees and their Garrett County hosts will never again see each other.

Much credit should go to the citizens of this county who worked so many long, difficult hours to assist these fellow human beings at a time when their need was so great. They have already received their reward, however, in the form of enrichment and gratification in having been a part of the effort.

Credit is also due to the people of Garrett County in general. To our knowledge there was not a single incident of aggression or even harsh words against the Vietnamese people. The younger members of the families were readily accepted by their peers in school and the adults were treated with respect and courtesy. Even those who are prejudiced against these people seemed to be able to stifle those feelings and give the refugees a chance. When the Vietnamese proved that they would not be welfare cases and/or criminals, they were accepted. Hopefully more refugee families will be welcomed into the county, because the need for more homes is as great as ever.

Probably nobody in Garrett County understands better the meaning and value of freedom than these Vietnamese. They have literally stared death in the face. Because of their tremendous appreciation of that freedom and towards this nation, it is only natural that they will do all they can to support this nation.

Cafeteria Capers

by Carol Kapel

It seems the Buckingham/schoolboard/cafeteria food saga has picked up momentum once again with the opening of the new school term and the memories of last year's tator tots.

Parents are once more actively questioning the competency of the food services director as well as the school board's apparent determination to remain firm in the face of public opposition to B. Kingham.

The petition bearing 1100 signatures is being ignored. For each parent who signed in protest of the food quality, the price, the quantity, and the competency of Buckingham's decisions, another one waits with pen in hand. I, for one, am not satisfied. I question any system which allows an over-abundance of accumulated detritus on a child's plate near the end of a school year. Several starches per meal, food served contrary to the announced menu, a mid-year raise in prices, and a food service system full of disgruntled employees would not seem to satisfy the public need.

If Mr. Buckingham's methods and procedures are in order, then let the charges be answered in plain, unadulterated English to the satisfaction of the public. Thus far, this has not happened.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor

Last May, Del. DeCorsey Bolden presented the Board of Education with a petition. Over 1100 parents signed that petition. As of now we have had no results. We parents want to know why.

The school cafeterias in this county need help. That petition clearly stated our intentions to put the cafeterias back into the hands of the school managers and rid this county of Mr. Buckingham. In the past three years, he has overruled the school board's decision to make a mess of the system.

We parents want some firm, positive action, now.

Sincerely,
Irate Parents

Dear Editor

Next week we will be back in school, cracking the books. My mom sure is glad because I'll be out from under her feet for awhile anyway. She's not too happy I've grown and it means she has to buy me all new clothes this year.

I want to park my lunch, because I'm tired of tator-tots and the same ole things. Mom said if the board got smart and fired Mr. Buckingham we might get some decent meals again and she won't have to pack lunches for us kids. Mr. Editor could you help get us kids better meals?

When you read this letter let me know if you can help us kids. Don't put my name in the paper because if you do I might be in big trouble at school.

Your Friend

Dear Editor

The Attorney General's Task Force on Violent Crime has recommended four common-sense steps to strengthen the nation's gun law and make it more difficult for the criminal and the crazed to acquire handguns. The Task Force has urged the President to stop the importation of Saturday Night Specials, require that handgun buyers be checked out to make sure they don't have a criminal record before they pick up their handgun; put behind bars anyone who uses a gun in the commission of a crime; and have handgun owners report the theft or loss of their weapons.

This is President Reagan, himself nearly killed with a Saturday Night Special, an opportunity to lead this Congress in an effort to stop handgun violence in America. If passed, these handgun control measures would save lives and help make America safe once again.

Write the President today and urge him to adopt the Task Force's recommendations. You can use this address: President Ronald Reagan, The White House, Washington, D.C. 20500. Do it today. Every letter counts.

Sincerely,

Pete Shields

Bradley Manor

Dugan noted that HUD also conducted an inspection of the complex last week, but results of the inspection would not be available for several weeks.

Dugan also listed options open to the owner and to HUD as well as proposed local policies for consideration by the officials for adoption.

Delegate DeCorsey Bolden (R-Allegany, Garrett) said he could not support the policies proposed by Dugan. "I would certainly withhold support until after all options have been exhausted," he said.

Bolden particularly disagreed with the proposed goal of continued availability of 100 privately-owned housing units, on the present site, fully occupied by lower-income families and fully complying with HUD property standards. Other policies proposed included the replacement of the current ownership at the complex with a locally-based private owner, to pursue a thorough inspection of the units to determine extent of repairs needed, and to maintain rental subsidy for all 100 units.

Diana Wawzinski, county housing coordinator, noted that parts of the housing complex would not need extensive repairs such as the streets, sewerage system, water system, and underground electrical lines.

Wawzinski also emphasized the responsibility the officials and HUD have to work with the Bradley Manor residents to insure that they have housing.

Pam Nelson, assistant to Duane Vowler, noted that 80 percent of the tenants are life-long residents of Garrett County, and most of the others lived in the county for several years before moving to the complex.

Although some attending the meeting commented that little was accomplished, Smokey Stanton, president of the Oakland Town Council, said the group seemed to agree on three principles: that housing in the county is inadequate; that Bradley Manor should be privately operated and that it should have a local landlord.

Vintage Truck

Is Object Of

Weekend Theft

A 1964 Chevrolet truck, owned by Lyle K. Rexrode, Mt. Lake Park, and valued at approximately $2,300, was stolen from a lot in Deer Park sometime over the weekend. The only keys to the vehicle were in the possession of the owner, who last saw the truck on Saturday about 5:30 p.m.

Rexrode told members of the Garrett County Sheriff's Department that a number of people had stopped to look at the vehicle during that time. The truck is dark green in color.

The department has been looking into several area thefts, breaking and enterances and incidents of vandalism reported last week.

Ronald N. Williams, Westernport, told police that his summer cabin located on Chadderton School Road was entered sometime between August 16 and 21, and items have been found missing from the dwelling. Taken were an 8-track wood-grain tape player and two foot-high speakers, all valued at approximately $100, and a Johnson seven-horsepower outboard motor, white in color, valued between $600 and $1,000. Police said there was no sign of forced entry.

In a separate case, Shaffer Ford Sales, Inc., Route 219, Oakland, reported that a hood was stolen from a vehicle parked in the establishment's used car lot during the night of August 19. The hood was taken from a 1974 Chevrolet Nova when unknown persons unbolted four bolts and removed it from the hinges. The hood is brown in color and its replacement value is estimated at $187.25.

A 1977 Ford truck belonging to Joseph W. Fike, Oakland, was stolen from the parking lot at Joe's Place late Thursday night and was recovered Friday morning at 6 a.m. by the Oakland City Police, abandoned in the middle of Omar Drive, Oakland. Police said no one was around the vehicle and it showed no sign of damage. The keys, which were previously on the sun visor, were not found. The vehicle was returned to its owner.

In a separate case, Southern Middle School, Broad Ford, reported that someone threw a beer bottle through a 28-square-inch window, valued at approxi-

Commission Adopts Deep Creek Sanitary District Boundaries

The Garrett County Sanitary Commission passed a resolution at its August 18 meeting to adopt the proposed boundaries for the Deep Creek Lake Sanitary District. A map of the district is available for review at the Sanitary District office at the county courthouse.

In other business, the commission moved to bill the town of Loch Lynn for 23.5 percent of operation and maintenance costs of the Trout Run Sewage Treatment Facility, based on a previous agreement, payment and credit, for the town's use of the facility for fiscal year 1980-81.

The bill amounts to $2,903, to be combined with a credit of $4,933 from the previous payment for fiscal year 1979-80. That payment was in the amount of $9,500, however 23.5 percent of the actual cost of operating and maintaining the system that year was $4,567, leaving the remaining credit.

The projected cost of operating the system for 1980-81 is $33,343.74, and 23.5 percent of that amount is $7,836. Adding the credit, the balance due to the commission is $2,903, subject to audit which will show actual operating expenses.

If operating expenses exceed the amount projected, the town will be billed for 23.5 percent of the overruns. If expenses are less than projected, the town will receive a credit toward payment for the following year.

Wendell Beitzel, Sanitary District Administrator, advised the town that a new agreement may be negotiated at its request, and a new agreement will be drawn up for fiscal year 1981-82.

In other business, the commission made a motion to inform the town of Oakland that it would like to renegotiate rather than renew the terms of a lease for the Broadford Recreation Area Sewerage Facilities prior to the contract's expiration date this December.

The agreement was executed in December 1976, requiring that the commission pay the town $80 per year to use the recreation area pump station in pumping sewage from Broad Ford Elementary and Southern Middle Schools to the Trout Run Treatment Facility. The agreement also states that the sanitary district will accept and treat all sewage from the recreation area without cost to the town.

According to local officials, the agreement came about when the schools needed sewer service which the commission could not provide while Oakland owned a section of service line between the schools and the Trout Run Facility. A line was constructed by the commission extending to the Broadford Recreation Area line and pump station, from which point a line runs to the treatment plant.

Beitzel stated that the commission is now operating and maintaining the Broadford Facility without source of funds, while putting revenue into it. The commission's only source of funds in that area is from the Garrett County Board of Education in a plan set up to pay off the indebtedness of installing a line from the facility to the school, coupled with a portion of treatment costs, he said. It was noted at the meeting that a permanent dwelling is now located at the Broadford Recreation Area for the area's caretaker.

Beitzel announced that the Step III application to the Environmental Protection Agency for construction funds for the Deep Creek Sewerage Project was submitted Friday, August 14. He said that when the commission receives notification that the funds are approved the project will go out to bid. The commission hopes to be notified within the next two months, putting the project out to bid in the winter and making it ready for construction in the spring.

Beitzel added that the application submitted is just for the basic system, as the expanded system was added into the plan at a later date, and the project will be bid in segments.

came to work on the morning of August 13. Someone had apparently entered the kitchen area of the building, as soft drinks and candy bars were found missing from the refrigerator, amounting to an estimated loss value of $1.50. No damage was evident.

In other business, the department arrested two persons last week.

James Ryland, Unontown, Pa., was arrested Friday and charged with public intoxication. He was released the same day on his own recognizance.

Leroy Stewart, 46, Deer Park, was arrested Sunday and charged with driving while intoxicated. He was released the same day on his own recognizance.

Second Impression Numbers Game

by Harry Fox

Don't look now, but Garrett County just lost another round. In the continuing eastward march of the 6th Congressional District boundary line, the 1980 census population shift within the state has dictated another adjustment in the congressional delegation of Maryland.

The people doing it are members of the gubernatorial task force on redistricting. Gov. Hughes has asked them to develop a plan to be submitted to the General Assembly as part of the proposed state district plan.

The task is not an easy one. Essentially it involves devising a formula for carving up Maryland's congressional seats to result in equal representation for all the state's citizens. The more populated areas should have more representatives.

The problem comes when the thinly populated western regions of the state compete for congressional representation with the heavyweights: Montgomery and Prince George's Counties, and the suburban areas of Anne Arundel and Baltimore Counties. Oddly enough, Garrett County and Baltimore City find themselves in similar predicaments, since the once massive population of the city has declined in the last decades. Fewer people mean that district boundaries must grow.

This situation reaches extremes in the case of our 6th District, which stretches from the outskirts of Baltimore to the mountains of Garrett County, resulting in a district nearly 20% too large for effective congressional representation. That is the finding of the task force.

There does not seem to be an immediate solution to this numbers game. Equal representation, a fundamental part of our political system, requires fair distribution of our congressional delegation. But representative government also implies a reasonable level of contact between the electorate and its spokesperson—the representative.

Rep. Beverly Byron, the present 6th District congresswoman, has done an exemplary job of keeping in touch with the far reaches of her territory. We cannot, however, always count on such a responsive voice in Washington.

The solution, for the present, seems to lie in our hands. An active electorate, interested in politics and ready to become involved, can do much to overcome the fickle hand dealt to western Maryland in the present numbers game. Let's get busy.

John Yommer: Vividly Alive At 103

BROTHERS SHARING a birthday party is nothing unusual, but these particular brothers have seen more than the average candle displays. Dan Yommer, left, is 95 years "young," and his brother, John, is an unbelievable 103. John celebrated his birthday on Thursday, August 20, and was guest of honor at a party given by Elaine Beachy, Accident, with whom he resides.

by Carol Kapel

It seemed like an ordinary assignment. Interview a 103-year-old gentleman from Jennings whose resided in Garrett County throughout his entire life. I knew his name, John Yommer. I knew he now lives in a private home, and is lovingly cared for by Mrs. Elaine Beachy, a former nursing home employee, whose life seems devoted to the elderly. I knew he had a 95-year-old brother named Dan, whom he had physically taken care of, in addition to his own home, for the past 11 years. Dan is a deaf mute. John is a remarkable individual.

As I entered the room, I was greeted by two pairs of curious eyes, and toothless grins that melted any fear or apprehension gained on the drive to the interview. I'd made a mental list of questions to ask this man who had lived for more than a century, but, after meeting him, found myself straying from the list to follow his exceptional wit and recall of the past.

I asked how he managed to celebrate 103 birthdays, which certainly isn't common, and he replied, "I guess I just kept on going. I walked nearly everywhere I went, because I couldn't afford a horse. Of course, I had no car. Neither did anyone else. It wasn't invented yet."

John's parents were born in Germany and maintained many German customs in the home. He was taught German prayers, which he still remembers and can recite, and related many times over the importance of daily prayer and a Christian lifestyle. John belongs to the Zion Lutheran Church in Jennings, and attended faithfully until January, when walking became a bit too difficult. He still takes an active part in religious services which are brought to his bedside several times each month by Menno Beachy, an Amish Bible teacher, who visits faithfully with John and his roommates. A German Bible was kept in his childhood home and his parents received a German newspaper which they interpreted for the children.

As a youngster he recalls being able to attend school only about two months of the year, for various reasons, but mostly because the community had no money for a teacher. His parents were responsible for the majority of his teaching and obviously instilled the religious beliefs he so strongly professes. Table grace ranks as a number one rule of any home, according to John, and he practices that belief before each meal.

John was married more than 80 years ago, to the former Abby Beachy, and recalls taking her for a sleigh ride as a first date. They were married in Oakland and spent their one-night honeymoon in the Giesseman Hotel. He thinks the owners intentionally failed to charge him for the room as a wedding gift. The couple had one child, a daughter, who died when she was two years old.

Sawmills in the area provided John with his livelihood for the most part, and he recalled doing some surveying as a young man. For the last 11 years, following the death of his wife, John kept his home and cared for his brother, Dan, until January of this year. Mrs. Beachy remarked that the home was clean and well cared for, considering the fact that the man was 102 years old at the time. His heartwarming desire to protect his sibling was obvious. They communicated in sign language and John carefully consulted his brother before answering many of the questions. He repeatedly asked that the interview include Dan's memories as well as his own, indicating the deep devotion the men feel for each other. Dan disappeared for several years, during which time John had no positive contact with him. "He was a drifter," the elderly gentleman recalled. "We worried about him, because he can't hear and he can't talk. But he made it back home." Dan claims to have traveled through 42 states during that period in his life. He attended a school for the deaf in Frederick for a time and learned the sign language meals each day, and requests his favorite foods on a regular basis. A major decision is whether or not he wants chicken or pork and cabbage. He loves root beer, and favors apple pie.

His surprise birthday party netted him many gifts, among them, several $5 bills, which delight him. "A fellow ought to have several birthdays a year if it means a $5 bill," he related.

His observation of the most major event in his lifetime was direct and to the point. "Education is, by far, the greatest discovery of my day. Young people should go to school and continue to learn as long as they can."

This man, on his way to 104 years, is a delight. "You come back and see me, little girl" were his parting words. I certainly will.

Unknown Assailant Attacks Babysitter At Bradley Manor

A 17-year-old Oakland girl escaped serious injury when she was attacked by an unknown assailant while babysitting for a neighbor at Bradley Manor Sunday night.

Oakland City Police report that the screen door was unlocked at the time of the incident, about 8:30 p.m. The babysitter and a two-year-old boy were in the kitchen of the dwelling when an unidentified man attacked her from behind, attempting to cut her with a razor blade. During the struggle the girl was knocked unconscious, apparently from the assailant's fist striking her on the side of the head, police said.

The babysitter told police that when she regained consciousness the little boy was lying next to her crying and holding his head. He also suffered from a blow to the head, apparently by the fist of the assailant.

Both were taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital where they were treated and released. Police said in the struggle the girl was unable to get a good look at the man who attacked her. An investigation is continuing by Sgt. Roger Lewis.

In other business, David Liller, 20, of Crellin, was arrested by Officer Ron Beachy on Thursday night when he reportedly walked out in front of a work train at the Second Street railroad crossing in downtown Oakland.

Police said the train was moving slowly and Liller was knocked down off the tracks but unhurt, with the exception of some scratches. He was taken to the Garrett County Jail and charged with public intoxication. Liller was released Friday when he posted $75 bond.

In a separate case the First National Bank of Oakland reported a theft of auto parts from a repossessed 1974 Chevrolet, which was parked in the bank parking lot over the weekend. The grill was removed from the vehicle, having a replacement value of approximately $150. An investigation is continuing by Cpl. Denver Welch.

Chilly Nights Show Signs Of An Early Fall

Low temperatures last week a warning in the mid-40's, and continuing chilly nights show signs of an early fall.

We Build Energy-Efficient Houses!

Energy-Efficient Residence

That's what they all say—every builder and manufacturer around. But when we say it, we mean something different.

Pictured above is a research house at Mt. Airy, Maryland, built by the National Association of Home Builders Research Foundation (a subsidiary of the National Association of Home Builders) under a contract with the U. S. Department of HUD.

Our Paneledrap system of movable window insulation was selected to be used in this house after NAHB Research Foundation engineers examined 17 systems in the U. S. and Canada. It's an improved version of the same pocket-panel system we have in our house on Pennington Street in Oakland that has helped us hold our electric heating bill for our first 12 months to $149.00.

Although we didn't build the house above, we can build you one with the same features right here on the mountain top. A house with walls that lose 67% less heat than 8" log cabin walls. Insulated windows that lose 92% less heat as double-pane glass. Proper site orientation to get passive solar heat gain. Zoned interiors so you won't have to heat all your rooms all the time. Careful caulking and weatherstripping to keep out the wind. Sub-slab insulation. Earth berming. And many other features.

Our houses are not for everyone. They are for people who want to save money in the years ahead when gas prices triple and oil and electricity costs double again. They are for people who discover, as their grandparents did, that coal heat is dirty. And people who see the cost of wood (including their investment in time, energy, equipment, maintenance and worry over fire fires) as not so good a deal. Of course—we can save you money on any type of fuel you choose.

So drop us a line. You can choose one of our Shelter, Inc. plans or we can modify your plans to make them truly energy efficient. We can build you a do-it-yourself package and do as much of the site work as you wish.

Bloomington Sewer Management Study Introduced To The Public

Nearly 30 residents of Bloomington attended a public information meeting on the Bloomington Wastewater (Sewer) Management Study held Thursday at the Bloomington Fire Hall. The purpose of the meeting was to allow public participation and to answer questions regarding a proposed sewer facility in the Bloomington area, according to Wendell Beitzel, Garrett County Sanitary District Administrator.

Other officials present were Linda Siney and Mehdy Mejd, Grant Supervisors with the Maryland Environmental Health Administration, Baltimore; Edgar Harman, Director of Environmental Health, Garrett County Health Department; Howard B. Sole, Project Planner with Cerrone & Vaughn, Consulting Engineers, Wheeling, W. Va.; John Eash, Project Engineer with Cerrone & Vaughn; Harry M. Fienlyr, Sanitary Commission Chairman, and Randy Rodheaver, commission member.

The need for sewerage service was originally initiated by citizen petition and a feasibility study was done more than 10 years ago for a joint plant for Kitzmiller and Bloomington, however the plan went nowhere, according to county officials. Citizens of Bloomington continued to express a need for water and sewerage to the county government, and the sanitary commission was apparently directed to become involved about 1976, at which time it applied for funds to do a facilities plan and feasibility study. The county commissioners then filed an application for Bloomington to be named on a priority list for funding the facilities plan in late 1978. A grant was awarded by the Environmental Protection Agency for the study in May, 1979, received in June of that year.

Sole, who conducted the public information presentation, stated that the Garrett County Health Department was employed in September, 1979, to do a community survey and determine whether a need was evident, and Cerrone & Vaughn was contacted in October, 1980, and awarded the job of the wastewater management study. That firm began the study in April of this year, and it is expected to be completed in December. Thursday's meeting was the first of three public sessions to be held before the final plan is submitted to EPA in December. All sessions required under the Basic Public Participation Plan, Beitzel stated that if the project goes beyond Step I, the planning stage, there will be less public meetings as they are not required. "Now is the time to determine the need and method of treatment, and public participation is a crucial part of the Step I process," he noted.

Sole explained that the area being studied extends from the town of Bloomington down to the Savage River, and up along Route 135 to Chestnut Grove Road, extending along the ridge above the town. The engineers are looking at two separate collection service areas, the town itself and the extension up the mountain.

To date the study has looked at population of the area and projected population, as federal regulations require that facilities be planned for a 20-year period and designed with the capability of handling projected flows; a local economy overview; that area's land use, and a needs survey.

Under the needs survey the area's septic systems were examined, along with water quality analysis. Representatives from the Department of Agriculture Soil Studies evaluated the area's soils with reference to on-site disposal, rating all area soils as "severe" for septic tank disposal systems. Sole noted. In addition, the firm reviewed the Health Department community survey which indicated that, from a total of 73 percent surveyed, 63 percent of those septic disposal systems were experiencing failures. The survey also stated that "a very unhealthy condition exists in the town, and an alternative method should be developed."

Water quality analysis in the town was performed under sub-contract through Cerrone & Vaughn, and officials took samples of area waters to measure bacteria counts. A count of 200 is considered acceptable for public recreation water (for drinking water), and in two points the count ranged from 50,000 to 65,000, with other counts ranging from less than 200 to about 380. Sole commented that the high figures, recorded from water lying in a ditch, could be partly due to no dilution factor there.

The findings of the needs survey corresponded with the Health Department's determination that there is a need for sewerage service in the area, Sole stated. The firm is looking at gravity, grinder pump and vacuum pump systems, in addition to examining the possibility of up-radiating on-site systems.

In the area of treatment systems the firm is considering four alternatives: the first having a Bloomington service area with its own plant; second, Route 135 extending into Bloomington for treatment at Bloomington's plant; third, a Bloomington service area with treatment at the Upper Potomac Plant; and fourth, Route 135 to Bloomington to the Upper Potomac Plant, located below Westvaco in Allegany County. Sole informed those present at the meeting that costs and effectiveness of the alternatives will be shown at the next public meeting, scheduled for October 20 at the fire hall at 7:30 p.m.

A public discussion followed Sole's presentation, at which time one citizen noted that no one from the ridge mountain area was present, and he suggested that future advertisements of the public meetings should specify the areas included in the study.

One woman raised a question of similarities between this project and the one in Mt. Lake Park. Beitzel described the differences between the two, and he noted that the sanitary commission was there to assist the town if it wanted the system, "not to shove a system down their throats." Another resident asked whether the citizens of the town will be afforded the right to vote whether they want the system. Beitzel explained that all comments at the December public hearing will be recorded and sent along with the final plan to EPA, noting that would be the time to express any comments regarding the system.

Residents present expressed concern over the number of retired persons living on Social Security in the area who may not be able to afford an $18 to $20 service charge each month, figures which were cited at the meeting as "very rough estimates" of average monthly user charges, based on a completely new sanitary sewer system and wastewater treatment facility. Beitzel agreed that throughout the public participation process the town may find its residents can not afford a system. Sole noted that the plan, to be presented in draft form at the December hearing, will provide the residents with estimated user costs. One resident noted that the town is currently trying to collect money for a water system.

Another question raised was whether all residents in the specified service area will be required to hook up to the system. Beitzel stated there is usually an ordinance drawn up during initiation of construction to require a mandatory hook-up for the purpose of keeping user costs down and assuring revenue for installation, operation and maintenance of the system.

Copies of all the information collected by Cerrone & Vaughn are located with the community of Bloomington and the Garrett County Sanitary District office in Oakland to provide residents with a more detailed review of the study. Persons having any questions should contact Howard B. Sole, Planner, Cerrone & Vaughn, Inc., 401 Main Street, Wheeling, W. Va. 26003, phone (304) 232-5550, or Wendell Beitzel at 334-8530. "Where The Community Comes Together"

Southern Class Of 1956 Meets

The 1956 graduating class of Southern High School observed its 25th year reunion on August 8, at the American Legion in Oakland.

A moment of silence was held for four classmates: Sam Maxey, Connie Savage, Jim Wright, and Webster Tasker who are deceased, as the Rev. Samuel Moore led the prayer before the buffet style dinner. A welcome greeting was given by Milford Beckman, chairman of the reunion committee.

The color scheme of the decorations were red, white, and silver, with each classmate receiving a red or white candle as a memento. A class picture was taken and a 25th year reunion yearbook distributed.

Prizes were presented to the following: traveling the farthest, George Cullers, Hastings, Michigan; married the longest, John Reiner; shortest married, Milford Beckman; most children, Clara (Sister) Friend; youngest child, Delores (Vetter) McCarty; oldest child, Clara (Sister) Friend; most grandchildren, Lena (Glaze) Dever; man with longest beard, Monte Wilson; man with least hair, Bob Speicher; lady with grayest hair, Beverly (Winters) Sowers; man with grayest hair, Bill Moore; man with school colors, Kenneth Lane; lady with school colors, Delores (Vetter) McCarty; lady with most rings, Norma Roderick; lady with class ring, Ruth (Broadwater) Hayes; lady with largest earrings, Annis (Friend) Colaw; lady with longest finger nails, Lillian (Ayers) Ahern; man with white shoes, Milford Beckman; last person to arrive, Fred Dilgard.

Door prizes were presented to the following: Carolyn (Johnson) Wilson, John Reiner, Clara (Sister) Friend, Fred Colaw, Ruby (Skotnicki) Courcy, Harold Harsh, and Janet (Waybright) DeWitt. Gifts were also presented to Charlie Grubb, Ada (Jackson) Green, and Elaine (Gneky) Roth for helping organize each class reunion activity since graduation. Milford Beckman was retained as president.

Fellowship and dancing concluded the evening with music provided by the Art Shaffer Band of Cumberland. There were 67 members of the class in attendance.

Weekly Fatalities Total Fourteen

Weekly fatalities are on the increase again as 14 persons lost their lives on Maryland highways for the week ending August 23, according to information supplied by law enforcement agencies throughout the state of Maryland. Of these fatalities, seven were drivers, four were passengers, two were pedestrians and one was a bicyclist.

Alcohol was a contributing factor in four of the deaths, speed in seven and driver error was present in 12. Of the five motorcycle accidents which killed six persons, three were attributed to excessive speed on the part of the motorcyclist, while two accidents were caused by other drivers striking the motorcyclist.

Persons killed through August 23 total 503, compared to 477 for the same period last year.

Miller, left, chairman of the task force which brought the Fan family to America, bids farewell to his friend as the journey begins. Late word was received that the bus arrived safely early Tuesday morning, and the family has begun its new life in California.

Grantsville Vietnamese Family Relocates in Northern California

The second Vietnamese family to leave Garrett County departed Saturday morning for San Francisco, Cal., and a future in an area mostly inhabited by persons of Chinese descent.

The Fan family, a group of 16 South Vietnamese who fled in November, 1978, and spent 18 months in a Malaysian refugee camp, arrived in Garrett County through the assistance of nine Mennonite churches in northern Garrett County and southern Somerset, Pa., in July of last year.

The course of events in the lives of the family members is an eventful one, according to Mrs. Esther Yoder, Grantsville, one of the principal organizers of the group effort to relocate the refugees.

The goal of each family, as well as the sponsoring group, was to educate each member in the use of the language, and to assist their desire to become financially self-sufficient. According to Mrs. Yoder, "The Fan family made tremendous strides in communication, as well as social adjustments over the past year. When they arrived, their vocabulary, for the most part, consisted of 'please' and 'thank you' in English. Since then, they have learned, with help from members of the congregations, to shop, to travel from place to place, to attend classes and church services, etc., completely on their own."

The children enrolled in the county school were able, upon leaving, to read on a fourth grade level, and the boys were working with mathematics on an eighth grade level at the close of this school year.

The trip will be made on a nationwide travel bus, and their possessions will consist of no more than 100 pounds per adult member. Their lifestyle has always called for leaving tangible things behind, and their natural instincts allow them to make do with what they have or can acquire upon their arrival in their new home area. "The main concern is their desire to preserve the customs and culture of their native country here in the United States, and to increase their employment possibilities," Mrs. Yoder said. "While living here," she continued, "all the employable members were working, and expect to continue to do so in California." Mrs. Yoder also noted that one of the young men who could speak only three English words upon his arrival has preceded the family to California, applied for admittance to a vocational-technical training school, and was able to pass the entry test, further emphasizing the visible strides made in exchange for vaianit effort. The local CETA office was responsible for teaching the English language to all incoming refugees.

While living in Garrett County, the employable members of the family were engaged in various occupations. One member worked at the golf course at The Wisp; one worked at the garment factory in Grantsville; and one became a proficient furniture maker while employed at the Castlewood Furniture Company, Grantsville.

In a parting gesture, the family prepared a Chinese meal and distributed portions to each friend in the Grants-ville community as a farewell gift. The church congregation, in exchange, presented the group with a monetary gift to assist their initial expenses for traveling and beginning their new lifestyle.

SALE Commercial Grade Carpet WHAT HAS "TV" TO DO WITH CARPETING?

I would say "Plenty." With a television set in your home, the carpeting in that area of course, gets plenty of traffic wear. Truly more than other places in your home. Scuffed spots and signs of wear will occur in front of the chairs or sofas used for watching TV, as well as in front of the set.

To help offset this condition of so much carpet wear, I would like to suggest to our readers, that first, you use a heavyweight cushion under your carpet. Then consider using lightweight, easy-to-wash scatter rugs to protect the area where the scuffing will be heaviest as mentioned above.

Don't worry that the scatter rug will hurt the pile of the carpet underneath. Instead, the scatter will protect the carpet.

GINSENG HUNTER FINDS A BEAUTY — Mike Hinebaugh Deer Park, has been hunting valuable ginseng for 20 years or more, spending every day of the season, from August 20 through December, searching the woods of Garrett County for profit. On Friday, the second day of the season, Hinebaugh came upon this plant, pictured above. The ginseng root contains a substance used primarily for medicinal needs in China for thousands of years. Sometimes called "the plant that hides from man," the ginseng root is worth at least $100 per ounce wholesale. This particular plant was found in Sang Run, and Hinebaugh said his total collected amount on Friday for about three hours of work was nearly two pounds. In addition to his selling the root to dealers, Hinebaugh states he derives pleasure from ginseng hunting, as he loves nature and enjoys getting out in the woods. Ginseng hunting is a highly competitive business among woodsmen here, and plant locations are always a guarded secret. Hinebaugh noted. It is no wonder he is evasive as to exact locations, particularly if he knows where to locate more of these $400 specimens.

Students wanting information about these or any other courses may call the Registrar at Garrett Community College, 387-6566.

GCC Notes New Course Offerings

As the days of summer grow shorter and students everywhere are preparing to go back to school, members of the faculty and staff of Garrett Community College are preparing for fall registration to begin next week. A look at the fall schedule indicates a number of new courses being offered by the college.

Introduction to Management (BUS 170), scheduled for Wednesday evenings at the Oakland Center, is a course designed primarily for the person with management responsibilities. It considers the subjects of decision making, problem solving, policy and strategy of management.

A speech course for students in technical programs, Technical Speech (SPCH 103), will be given Monday and Wednesday mornings at the McHenry campus. In this course students will learn basic communication theory and will receive practical experience in giving demonstration speeches with audio-visual presentations. Psychology of Women (PSYCH 140), offered on Friday mornings, is designed to investigate the mental, physical, social, and emotional development of women from a psychological perspective and to refute negative stereotypes of women.

A new history course, The United States at War (HIST 113), will be given on Tuesday and Thursday mornings. This course will survey the major military conflicts during the nineteenth and twentieth centuries, focusing on basic causes, major military campaigns, and impact of these conflicts on the American society.

Introduction to Limnology (BIO 160) will be offered on Friday afternoons. This course will provide an introduction to the study of inland waters, with emphasis on the physical, chemical, and biological aspects of aquatic ecosystems.

Registration for these and other courses will be held from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. September 1 through 3, and from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. September 8 and 9 at the McHenry campus. Classes begin Thursday, September 10.

Those officers making the arrests were Tfc. J. W. Michael, Cpl. Elmer Selby, Tfc. Larry Rosage, Tfc. W. W. Rice, and Tfc. Gary Hesh.

C.

Others travelled from Ohio,

Nursing Home

Deficiencies Noted

The Maryland Office on Aging and the State Department of Health and Mental Hygiene have jointly compiled lists of deficiencies noted in Garrett County nursing homes. These deficiencies, found by state inspection teams during their most recent annual surveys, are now on file at the Ruth Enlow Library of Garrett County.

These lists, the nursing homes' plans for correction and findings of a post certification visit to determine what actual corrections have been made are open for public review upon request.

Interested persons may study this public information by visiting the library located at 6 North Second Street, Oakland, Maryland 21550. The telephone number is 334-3996.

The public is reminded by Matthew Tayback, State Director on Aging, that every patient has the right to present grievances personally or through other persons without fear of restraint or reprisal. Persons wishing to register complaints may contact Mrs. Dorothy S. Doyle, R.N., Nursing Home Advocate, State Office on Aging, 301 West Preston Street, Baltimore, Maryland 21201, (383-5064).

GOLFERS COMPETE — The annual Western Maryland Golf Tournament drew a field of 121 area golfers this past weekend at the Oakland Country Club. Jim Goodwin, Bridgeport, WV, sunk a par on the second hole of sudden death Sunday to edge out defending champion Jack Forbes, of Morgantown, for the championship. ### Local DNR Police Call Attention To Newest Spotlighting Law

Garrett County Natural Resources Police, as well as officials of the Maryland Department, wish to call attention to a new law governing the use of artificial lights for the purpose of looking for or observing wildlife. The practice is commonly known as "spotlighting", and is now illegal at any time in Garrett County.

In addition, the provisions of the new law, in effect since July 1, 1981, state that possession of a firearm or bow when spotlighting is also in violation of the law, and if found guilty of this act, the person could be fined up to $2,000 or imprisoned for up to six months, or both.

Besides Garrett County, the new law prohibits spotlighting at any time in Anne Arundel, Calvert, Allegany, Kent, Caroline, Talbot, Dorchester, Queen Anne's, Cecil, and Washington Counties.

A two-hour after-sunset time allotment is permitted in the remaining counties for the sole purpose of observing or photographing wildlife. In no event is spotlighting allowed in those counties after 10 p.m. The new law further states that the person casting the rays of artificial light, or any person with him, has the burden of establishing that he was doing so for the purpose of observing or photographing wildlife.

Richard Towers, local officer for the Garrett County DNR, explained that a person or two or more persons together, may not hunt or attempt to hunt at night any species of wild bird or wild quadruped with a light, including the headlights of any vehicle. Fields, orchards, livestock, wild animals or birds, dwellings, or buildings may not have rays of light cast upon them, with the exception of those cast by a farmer or landowner in the act of checking his land, crops, livestock, or poultry. Rabbits, fox, or opossum may be hunted on foot at night during open season with the use of a dog or light, or both.

Towers emphasized that persons in violation of the law, when captured will be prosecuted to the full extent of the new law. Several spotlighting incidents have occurred since July 1, and DNR patrols are constantly on duty to insure that violators will be prosecuted. "From now on," said Towers, "There will be no passing go, no collecting $200, and violators will go directly to court."

Forbes Bogeys In Sudden Death As Goodwin Pars For Western Md. Title

Defending champion Jack Forbes, of Morgantown, saw his hopes for a sixth Western Open Golf Tournament championship dashed on Sunday at the Oakland Country Club as Jim Goodwin, Bridgeport, WV, parred the second hole of sudden death against Forbes.

Goodwin, who had won the event on two previous occasions, and Forbes were tied at two-over par 73 after the first round of play on Saturday. In early Sunday action, Forbes was ahead of Goodwin by four strokes, but Goodwin came back to gain a tie of 221 in 72 holes.

Both players made par on the first hole of the sudden death, but Forbes bogeyed the second and, upon Goodwin's par shot, the tournament was history.

Oakland's Jeff Orr was tied for third place with four other players after shooting a 75 in Saturday's play. The others in that position were Roger Frazz-baker of Keyser, Mark Smida of Bentleyville, PA, Ron Lutz of Uniontown and Ron Witt of Kingwood. However, Witt and Orr also ended up in a sudden death playoff for the third spot on Sunday. The position went to Witt after he parred the first hole of the sudden death and Orr bogeyed.

Finishing fifth was Dave Bailey, Everett, Pa., who shot a 225, followed by Smida, with a 227 and Lutz with a 228.

The only other Garrett County players to finish among the top 28 were Bob Welch, who carded a 231, and Rob Sharps, who finished at 240.

Several Assaulted By Disturbed Teen

A Maryland State Police Officer and two other persons were terrorized for a time by a knife-wielding juvenile on Sunday at the Platter Youth Home, Frostburg.

Miller's arrival prompted the youth to run from the scene, with police in pursuit. He fell several times, and at one point lost the seven-inch Wilderness knife. The chase continued until Miller subdued the young man, attempted to handcuff him, and found it necessary to solicit help from several other persons in an attempt to keep the boy from harming himself. After physically placing the youth in the police cruiser, he once again became violent and began kicking the interior of the vehicle and inflicting physical harm upon himself. Trooper Miller requested help from Trooper Carl Skidmore, who rode in the back to help restrain the defendant. Once the group arrived at the Garrett County Jail, the drama continued, and the youth had to be restrained once again to continue avoiding personal physical harm.

Charges of escape have thus far been placed against the youth.

FREAK FIRE — Oakland firefighters were called Friday to extinguish a fire in an outbuilding at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kahl, Second Street in Oakland, which had an unusual origin. Fire personnel determined that the fire was the result of the sun's rays reflecting off of a mirror which was propped up against the side of the small wood-frame structure. The angle of the mirror and of the sun and the distance from the mirror to the point on the side of the building where the sun rays were reflected were all "just right" and caused the area shown in the above photo to ignite. The structure received moderate damage, as the fire went up through the wall and damaged much of the ceiling. Pictured at left examining the damage is Bob Rudy, captain of the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department. Firefighters were called to the residence at 1:49 p.m., and remained on the scene for about one-half hour.

Second Tour Of
Lake Mill Slated

The Garrett County Historical Society will hold a second tour of the Bloomington Dam and Westvaco's Lake Mill on Saturday, September 12, to accommodate those who could not join the August 29 tour due to lack of bus space, it was announced by Mrs. Paul T. Calderwood, Society president.

This tour will afford an opportunity to view the dam and its appurtenances before the lake is formed.

The tour will be by bus only which will leave the Garrett Community College parking lot (McHenry) at 8:30 a.m. sharp. Participants should bring a picnic lunch.

Walter W. Craig, the area engineer, will have a member of his staff board the bus and guide the group to the various points of interest, such as the dam, outlet works, spillway, control gate, relocation of the Western Maryland Railway and the area to be covered by the lake.

From the dam the tour will proceed to Bloomington School, where the group will eat the picnic lunch. The Board of Education has given permission for use of that facility.

At 1:30 p.m. the group will start the tour of the Westvaco plant which is being arranged by Harris W. LeFev, public relations director. He has arranged to show the operation from receipt of the wood to the finished paper.

The public is invited.

Reservations must be made in advance by September 5. The cost will be $3.00 per person. Persons may send reservations, with remittance, to Mrs. Randall R. Kahl, Route 4, Box 21550, Deer Park, MD 21550. Persons should include the names of those for whom the reservations are made and indicate to whom the tickets should be mailed, including telephone number.

Summer Reading Club Completes 1981 Activities

The Ruth Enlow Library of Oakland's annual Summer Reading Club for children ended its activities for the summer on Tuesday, August 18, with a party at the library. Entertainment and refreshments were provided for the children and certificates were awarded to members who had completed the Reading Club. Over 100 children participated in the 1981 program, and an average of 40 children attended each weekly activity.

Local individuals who voluntarily provided programs for the children included Pete Bitely, who presented a program on training hawks; Dr. Raymond Zinn, of Pineview Veterinary Hospital, who spoke on pet care; and Chuck Bowler, of the Maryland Park Service, who lectured on the reptiles of Garrett County. All of these speakers brought live animals to illustrate their subjects.

Arranging for a bus and a driver to take the children to a local zoo were Don Reitzel and Bonnie Zimmerman, of Community Action.

Reading Club members who have not yet picked up their certificates, reading lists, animal artwork and clay animals may do so through the month of September.

Coal Exports Decline Slightly

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Coal exports from Baltimore shipped only slightly during the first six months of 1981, despite the nationwide coal strike by the United Mine Workers, figures from the Maryland Port Administration revealed.

Almost 5 million tons of coal were shipped out of Baltimore for the period ending June 30, compared to 5.1 million tons in the first six months of 1980, the administration said.

The National Coal Association estimated nearly half of the coal shipped through Baltimore during the first half of the year — 2.3 million tons — was steam coal, which is a lower grade than the metallurgical coal traditionally preferred by industry.

The primary destination of the shipments was Japan, which imported about 1.5 million tons from the port.

Absentee Rate Drops At SHA

The number of disgruntled State Highway Administration employees who did not report for work Tuesday plummeted, but the head of the agency said he would personally investigate each case of absenteeism.

Slade Caltrider said 84 administration employees in Montgomery County called in sick, down from 288 employees in at least seven counties who did not report for work Monday.

The employees are believed protesting the state's decision not to grant them a cost-of-living raise this year. The "sick-out" was not authorized by the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees or the Maryland Classified Employees Association.

I'm going to review all of the personnel records of those employees and call them one by one," said Caltrider of the absentees.

He said any disciplinary action would be taken on a "case by case basis" and could result in penalties ranging from reprimands to suspensions.

On Monday, highway offices in the counties of Somerset, Cecil, Montgomery, Carroll, Howard and Baltimore were the hardest hit by the "sick-out."

Landfill Site List Release

Postponed By Environmental Group

ANNAPOLIS (UPI) — Maryland environmental officials postponed the release of a list of possible sites for a new hazardous waste landfill so that the public would not be unnecessarily alarmed, a spokeswoman said.

"It was one of our concerns that people were becoming unnecessarily alarmed," said Shelly Murphy, a spokesman for the Maryland Environmental Service.

The state had planned to release today a long list of sites still under consideration as possible waste sites, following the conclusion of a four-step site selection process. But the state has now decided to pick three sites from the long list and make those site locations public within 90 days.

John R. Griffin, an environmental adviser to Gov. Harry Hughes, said of the state's decision to withhold the long list: "A number of tentative site areas they have come up with in this phase of the process are immediately going to be eliminated in the next phase because of other factors, so why alarm the public at this point?"

The state encountered strong opposition from Cecil County residents after those residents learned that the state was considering putting a hazardous waste landfill in their locality. The protests stopped when Hughes told the residents it was unlikely the state would pick a Cecil County site.

The state's only hazardous waste landfill, near Glen Burnie, is filling fast. It's operating permit expires next May.

Bay Foundation Director Resigns

ANNAPOLIS (UPI) — The director of the Chesapeake Bay Foundation, the bay's largest environmental group, resigned because of what he termed serious differences on policy and management with the foundation's board of directors.

Former Central Intelligence Agency official David McGrath, named director of the bay foundation in June 1980, said Tuesday he was leaving "with regret, but no rancor."

McGrath refused to discuss his differences with trustees, saying only that the foundation "has some very basic and difficult decisions to make about what it wants to be and to do."

The foundation has been a leader in fights against oil refineries on the bay and on conservation issues since its founding in 1971. During McGrath's tenure, the group hired lawyers to intensify its program of reviewing industrial discharges of pollutants into the bay.

It had also allocated large portions of its funds toward fighting permits for a power plant on the Eastern Shore and a waste reprocessing center in Baltimore.

McGrath's exit reportedly marked the second time in less than two years that foundation trustees have become dissatisfied with a director. In 1979, Arthur W. Sherwood was pressured by trustees to retire following 10 years as director.

State News In Brief

BEL AIR, Md. (UPI) — A group of 40 fundamentalist ministers called on Harford County Council to eliminate a regulation requiring occupancy permits for tent revivals, maintaining the permits are an unnecessary hindrance.

In a petition delivered Monday to the council office by the Rev. Donald McKnight of the Evangelical Methodist Church in Dublin, the ministers said "gospel tent meetings have harmed no one and helped many."

The group also asked for a meeting with the council.

The petition followed a recent decision by McKnight's church to stage an outdoor revival without a tent rather than submit to the county building code's permit requirement.

JESSUP, Md. (UPI) — A convicted rapist assigned to a minimum security job at the House of Correction escaped Monday, bolting from the facility only three days before his parole hearing, officials said.

Authorities said Donald T. Coker, 31, apparently bolted from his job at the prison power plant shortly before 2 a.m. The plant is outside the main prison wall.

He was scheduled for a parole hearing August 28, said Warden Howard Lyles.

It was the third time in the past month that an inmate at the House of Correction escaped by simply walking away from a minimum security job.

The same float also won first place in the parade at the recent Garrett County Fair and will be entered in the Autumn Glory parade as well. The theme of the float is "The Bridge to Success is the 4 H Way." Butler and Alice Wilhelm coordinated the construction of the float. Beachy stated that there are still other trophies at Beachy's Pharmacy which have not yet been picked up.

Jury Hears Taped Conversations At Accused Klan Leader's Trial

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The attorney for a Maryland Ku Klux Klan leader accused of attempting to firebomb an NAACP headquarters tried to convince a federal jury Tuesday his client was all talk and no action.

Richard Savina, 29, was charged in May with possession and manufacturing a destructive device and "willfully and maliciously" attempting to damage a property used in interstate commerce.

He is accused of attempting to firebomb the house of James R. Pennington, president of the Baltimore County branch of the NAACP. Pennington's house also serves as the organization's headquarters.

The jury in U.S. District Court heard tape recordings of conversations between Savina, who said he was the Imperial Wizard of the Maryland KKK, and Det. Edward Eifert, an undercover Baltimore County police officer who infiltrated the KKK.

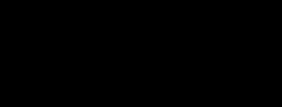

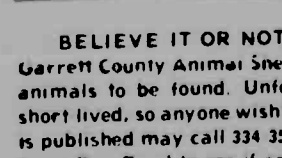

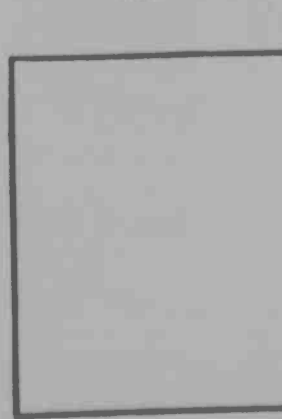

The conversations, recorded between April 11, 1981 and May 20, 1981, included discussions about Savina's alleged plans to firebomb Pennington's residence by filling a plastic gallon milk jug with gasoline, igniting the fuse and lobbing it onto the civil rights leader's front porch.

The tape indicated Eifert and Savina discussed the merits of a plastic container versus a glass one.

If you throw a glass bottle... gas is going to go everywhere and the fuse ain't going to burn — Savina told Eifert. "Plastic, you just roll it on the porch and as soon as fuse goes into the gas — shhhhh — just like a hand grenade."

Defense lawyer Gerson Melman attempted to downplay Savina's role when he cross-examined Eifert. Melman cited several instances when Savina boasted about the size of

Politics: Task Force Examines Population Shifts, District Lines

ANNAPOLIS (UPI) — The topic Tuesday was congressional redistricting, but no maps were displayed, virtually no testimony was given and there was not a congressman or woman in sight.

"We're just opening the door, just getting started," said Karl Aro, the staff assistant to a five-member gubernatorial task force that has been working for several months on reapportioning the state legislative districts and is now turning its attention to congressional redistricting.

The only information distributed by the panel was a one-page list of figures showing what most political observers in the state have known for more than a year: that the 1980 census shows the population dropped in four of the state's eight congressional districts, particularly in Baltimore, while increasing in the others.

The districts that lost population and must therefore be expanded include the 2nd, 3rd, 5th and 7th, represented respectively by Democratic Reps. Clarence Long, Barbara Mikulski, Steny Hoyer and Parren Mitchell. Ms. Mikulski and Mitchell represent Baltimore; Long represents Baltimore County and a corner of the city; and Hoyer represents northern Prince George's County.

State Treasurer William S. James, chairman of the task force, said all eight congressional representatives would be invited to an all-day hearing on Sept. 23 to testify concerning redistricting.

Congressional redistricting is not mentioned in either the state constitution or statutes, although Gov. Harry Hughes has directed the redistricting task force to come up with a congressional plan that he will submit to the General Assembly in January along with the proposed state redistricting plan.

Over the decade since the last congressional redistricting, population in the two major Baltimore districts has dropped by more than 200,000. That means the district lines will have to be extended into areas where the population has expanded, such as Anne Arundel County, the 4th District represented by Republican Rep. Majorie Holt.

The figures show that population in the 1st District, represented by Democrat Roy Dyson, is nearly 16 percent above the "ideal" district size of 527,056; the 4th District is 11 percent too large; the Western Maryland 6th District is nearly 20 percent too large and the Montgomery County 8th district is nearly 4 percent too large.

Population in Long's district, the 2nd, is about 1 percent below the ideal size; the 3rd District is 18 percent smaller than the ideal; the 5th is nearly 11 percent too small; and population in the 7th is 20 percent less than the ideal sized district.

Reports Insurance Commissioner Used Company Funds

BALTIMORE (UPI) — State Insurance Commissioner Edward J. Birrane used the funds of several insurance companies he controlled for personal and professional travel expenses, it was reported Tuesday.

The Evening Sun also said Birrane used his control over the affairs of at least two firms, both of them under receivership, to award more than $4 million in jobs and contracts.

But Byron Roberts, public affairs chief for the commission, maintained the article revealed no evidence of wrongdoing by his boss, who was out of town and unavailable for comment.

"He has made some trips," said Roberts. "But the state says he can't go out of state on business and use state money to pay for it. If there's something wrong, it would be with the state of Maryland for not paying for those trips."

The commissioner made personal use of a 1980 automobile leased by one of the companies, American Centennial Life Insurance Co., the newspaper said.

"He (Birrane) said maybe he used bad judgment on the automobile, but if you rob an old lady's purse, you've done more than he's done."

Birrane told the newspaper he used the car to commute to his state job, had driven it to meetings as far away as Detroit and had used the vehicle, a Buick LaSabre, for other personal business.

But he maintained use of the car and his travel billings had been cleared by auditors and attorneys for the companies.

Birrane also billed American Centennial and Maryland Indemnity Insurance Co. for travel expenses related to meetings of the National Association of Insurance Companies, the newspaper said.

However, Roberts said the trips had potential benefits for the companies because Birrane is legally charged with the responsibility of finding a buyer for the firms.

Representatives of the companies involved declined to release the amount of the billings to the Evening Sun.

City Supreme Bench Judge James A. Perrott, who has overseen the receivership proceedings of the companies, said he was unaware funds of the firms were being used for Birrane's travel expenses.

"As I understand the law, the purpose of the money is to go to the claimant, so that people who have sustained a loss can claim the loss," Perrott said. Roberts also said that Birrane was legally bound to assign contracts to lawyers to handle the affairs of the firms because he is the commissioner.

"The commissioner has to be the receiver, whether he likes it or not," Roberts said. "For all intents and purposes, he is the president of the company."

Roberts conceded some of the attorneys who received the fees are acquaintances of Birrane's, but argued all of the transactions were approved by the court.

Bear Shot

and stay in the house. Not believing there was a bear, Mrs. Rodeheaver said she excused herself for a moment, as someone was at the door.

She came out of the bedroom and saw the living room storm door moving. The cub was clawing frantically at the door, and Mrs. Rodeheaver noticed blood stains where it had reared up on the living room picture window.

The woman said she somehow made it back into the bedroom, leaving the telephone receiver on the floor and screaming "The bear is here, it's breaking in my front door!"

Mrs. Frazee ran down to the male members of the family and told them to get on up to the Rodeheaver dwelling. Having broken the glass out of the door and torn the screen, the animal apparently got its paw stuck on the lower part of the door, yanking it open and breaking the lock completely off. The bear then entered the home and Mrs. Rodeheaver said it was silent.

It wandered through the living room, kitchen and dining room and into Bernice's Beauty Shop at the rear of the house, once again causing a ruckus. It pulled the curtains down in the dark room and raised up against a window. In the small quarters the breeding animal knocked over a flower pot, broke a table and chair, and literally ransacked the place.

When the others arrived, all was quiet and everyone assumed the bear was out of the house. Humberson remained in the truck while the others went in the house to get a rifle. In the confusion the light in the shop was accidentally turned on and from the truck outside Humberson saw the black outline of the animal.

It was found lying on the floor, "panting like a dog," said Rodeheaver, who shot it between the eyes with a 30-06 rifle from about four feet, putting the rampage to an end.

The Maryland State Police were called immediately and Mrs. Rodeheaver said that "everyone took nerve medicine." The State Police contacted the game warden and DNR officials arrived about one hour later, immediately removing the animal from the premises.

The families wanted the bear, to stuff it, but it was confiscated as it is a protected species. Ed Golden, Regional Wildlife Manager, said the bear cub, which is estimated to have been born around February or March of 1980, had been in the Square Pike Road area for several days and it had been hand-fed by area residents.

People had seen it, and it should have been relatively unafraid of people," he said, commenting that since it is a protected species mankind would not pose a threat to it.

John Williams of the DNR

Police said an investigation was carried out, and no charges are pending at this time, as "the bear was shot under unusual circumstances." He added that "bears are protected by law from people shooting them, and other than under most unusual circumstances, we would prosecute someone for shooting a bear."

The family members stated that the animal ran fast and the DNR said it did not appear to have been blinded. Mrs. Rodeheaver stated that it was "fierce" when it entered the house, and her husband added that, "When you feel your life is in danger, your first inclination is to shoot."

One DNR official noted that since the bear had been hand-fed, which he said is unwise, perhaps it did not originally retreat from Frazee because it wanted some food. Officials said they could not explain why the bear had entered the house.

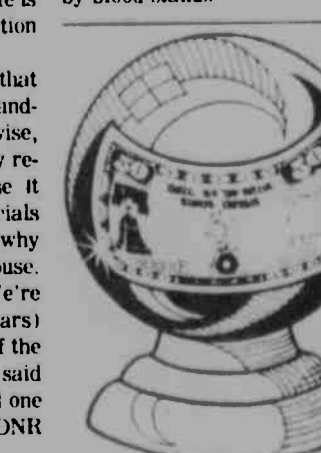

Golden stated that "We're hoping to have a few (bears) around, and with the help of the public, maybe we will." He said he believes this is the third one shot this summer that the DNR is aware of.

Williams stated that "the very fact that a bear comes around a house or makes noises is not justification to shoot it," however this was an unusual circumstance, he said. Williams advised that persons seeing a bear near their property should call the Department of Natural Resources and stay away from it, and officials will arrive and deal with it.

Having heard the incident over scanners, nearly 35 people showed up at the two homes Saturday night, to see for themselves the telltale signs of the incident. On Sunday approximately 75 people embarked upon the Rodeheaver residence, saying they just couldn't believe it happened and carefully scrutinizing the evidence left behind, Mrs. Rodeheaver said.

The path of the animal was tracked on Sunday in the revealing light of day, marked by blood stains.

Program Provides Funds, Expertise To Reclaim Abandoned Strip Mines

by Beverly J. Sineell

Land once ravaged by coal mining, before federal reclamation laws were enacted in 1977, is now being restored to its original contour under the federal Rural Abandoned Mine Program.

RAMP, established by the Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act of 1977, is administered by the Soil Conservation Service which helps program participants develop reclamation plans for their land and offers them long-term cost sharing to put these plans to work.

Property owners with land that has been mined for coal before August 3, 1977 or that is affected by abandoned mines, are eligible to apply to participate in the program.

Any property owner can apply for the program if the property is not under lease or is planned to be used for more mining. No more than 500 acres may be entered on an application. The program also excludes most of the mined lands for which the reclamation bond was forfeited to the state.

Those who are accepted into the program are eligible for 25 to 100 percent cost sharing with the federal government. The amount granted depends on the acreage to be reclaimed, the proposed use after reclamation and whether the benefits are mostly private or public.

In Garrett County, there are 5,050 acres of abandoned mines that are known to be eligible for the program.

To date, 13 acres in the Kempton area have been reclaimed.

This property, owned by Clifford Reall, was the first in Maryland to be reclaimed. What is now a meadow along the Kempton Road, was once an open pit which dropped about 50 feet, five feet away from the roadway.

The Reall site was cleaned of debris, back filled, and revegetated during last summer. Another abandoned mine site, adjacent to the Reall site, is being reclaimed this summer. The sites are chosen for reclamation on a priority basis. John Reekner, coordinator of the program in the Garrett County Soil Conservation Service office, notes that the average cost to reclaim an acre of an abandoned mine is $10,000. With the limited funds they have for the program, Reekner explained, they must be selective.

Sites given top priority for reclamation are those which pose extreme danger to public health, welfare, safety, and property because of past coal mining. Second priority is protection of public health, safety, and general welfare from adverse effects of mining. Third priority is restoring the environment where it has been degraded.

RAMP does regulate the intended use for the land after its reclamation. The program allows land to be reclaimed for pasture, woodland, range, cropland, noncommercial recreation, and wildlife. The land can be converted to other uses after the cost-sharing contract expires.

John Reekner pointed out that the money used to reclaim the abandoned mines does not come

THE COUNTER OFFER

When you find the house you want to buy, what do you do? The first step is to submit an offer to purchase to the owner through your REALTOR. Then comes the anxious wait for the answer. Your REALTOR will return with one of three answers - an acceptance, a rejection, or a counter offer. What is a counter offer?

Basically, it is a combination of the rejection and a new offer by the seller. When the seller demands a higher price, more down payment or different terms, the buyer's original offer is automatically cancelled. This is a tricky area of negotiation and calls for the expert advice of your REALTOR or lawyer.

The reason is this. In effect, the counter offer may burn bridges in its wake. If the buyer refuses the new counter offer, the seller can no longer demand that the buyer make good at the original purchase price, because that original offer to purchase had been wiped out with the rejection and counter offer.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone one of our offices.

Editor's note: The following is the first in a series of articles to be supplied by the Garrett County Teachers' Association. Its purpose is to inform the general public of various seminars, programs and training activities of which Garrett County teachers are a part.

by Cindy Dowd

Five Garrett County teachers attended the Maryland State Department of Education Leadership Training Conference held at Towson State University near Baltimore, during the week of August 10-14. The general goals of the workshop were to experience those skills which would assist leaders in developing effective programs at the local, state and national levels and to encourage newly involved members for leadership roles in the United Teaching Profession. The overall theme of the conference was "Advocacy in the Face of Adversity."

Rufus Abernathy, a music teacher from Baltimore County, and outgoing Maryland State Teachers' Association president of 1980-81, opened the conference citing teachers as "the most powerful lobby in the state of Maryland." He added in these times of increased budget cutting, the key to fighting adversity is

education

The keynote speaker, Dr. Sharon Robinson, Director of the National Education Association, Instruction and Professional Development Division, cited, "The heart of education is the practicing teacher," and stressed, "a universal education is the cornerstone to democracy and those who challenge it, are challenging our basic system of government."

Garrett County teachers attended various workshops during the week. Les McDaniell, a fifth grade teacher at Broad Ford Elementary School and the 1981-82 Garrett County Teachers' Association president, along with Lowell Leitzel, GCTA vice-president and a French teacher at Southern High School, attended the workshop for Elected Leaders, aimed at understanding the challenges facing public education and the United Teaching Profession.

Ms. Cheryl Henderson, a special education teacher at Dennett Road Elementary School attended the Maryland School Employee Relations Workshop, geared to expanding knowledge of school labor relations in Maryland.

Ms. Betty White, a special education teacher at Southern High attended the Instructional and Professional Development Workshop which stressed the importance of developing skills and techniques to provide leadership in establishing and maintaining a viable local instruction and professional development program.

Ms. Cynthia Dowd, also a special education teacher at Southern High School, attended the Stress Cadre Training program, designed to train teachers to conduct stress management workshops for local associations, individual school faculties and other groups.

Wednesday afternoon there were various mini-sessions attended by the teachers, including the New Right, Stress, Forming Coalitions, Teacher Quality and CPR Training. Evening activities made available to the teachers included a crab picnic, square dance, an Orioles baseball game and an Inner Harbor trip to the newly opened Aquarium.

Teaching Values To Be Emphasis In State Schools

Local boards of education in Maryland have been asked by the Governor's Education Commission to adopt a policy emphasizing the teaching of social values in public schools.

In an August 7 letter to all 24 local board presidents, Commission chairman Richard Schifter called attention to a statement on values adopted by the Commission and said local policies could but need not be identical to it. He pointed out that the Commission's authority is advisory only.

The Commission's statement includes ten character objectives, including personal integrity, respect for the rights of others, and respect for property, plus eight citizenship objectives, including patriotism, responsibilities of citizenship, and respect for law.

The Commission calls on local boards to develop plans to improve the effectiveness of schools in teaching social values to students.

Schifter asked local board presidents for their views on the Commission's proposals by November 15.

The Commission was formed by the Maryland General Assembly in 1978 to identify and assess programs in morals and values education in Maryland schools and to make recommendations to reinforce the nation's traditional adherence and devotion to high standards of moral and ethical conduct in personal and public life.

The General Assembly noted the elementary school was an appropriate place to emphasize social values in an attempt to reverse the breakdown in the normal standards of individual behavior and violations of #### public trust.

In its statement, the Commission noted that schools cannot supplant the role played by the family and religion in values education, but they can reinforce positive attitudes and behavior and counteract negative influence on the students.

ASK ME ABOUT TV

By Val Carey

TWO LIVES TO LIVE — A friend of mine says that the actor who plays Herb Callison on the daytime show, "One Life to Live," is the same person who played the professor on "Gilligan's Island." I don't think so. Which one of us is correct? — Wendy, Hudson Falls, N.Y.

You are correct. Herb is played by Anthony Call and it was Russell Johnson who played the professor.

as create projects, plus the chance to act in TV movies. So he didn't renew his contract with "Happy Days." "Soap" lost its bubbles to low ratings.

Gavin MacLeod

BUSY ACTOR — Did the actor who plays the captain on "Love Boat" ever play on "McHale's Navy" years ago? There is someone on the show who bears a resemblance to him. My wife says no and I say yes. — Ron Williams, Hobart, Ind.

MISSING PERSON AND MISSING SHOW — I would like to know what happened to the oldest brother on "Happy Days." Also, why was "Soap" canceled by ABC? — K.H. Corpus Christi, Texas

You mean Richie, who was played by Ron Howard, I hope — and not the older brother who was written out during the series' first season? Ron was offered a contract with NBC which gave him a chance to do what he most wanted to do: produce and direct, as well as create projects, plus the chance to act in TV movies. So he didn't renew his contract with "Happy Days." "Soap" lost its bubbles to low ratings.

It's the same actor — Gavin MacLeod — and he played Happy Haines from 1962 to 1964 in the old series. He was much heavier when "McHale's Navy" first went on, but one year during hiatus he lost a lot of weight, when the series returned the next year, he was a shell of his former self. He also wore a handkerchief tied over his head in that series.

Cheech and Chong 2; Hal Linden plays sax

By Cindy Adams

NEW YORK — I know you're all waiting for this news. Cheech and Chong will do another flick in '82. The movie will be scripted by C & C and the latter C will direct. Harold Lupowitz who began his career as a sax player, still tootles the thing on his off hours when he isn't playing at being Barney Miller or Hal Linden. Now into her 50s, Shirley Temple Black admits she isn't the little girl with blond curls and a lisp — especially after the postman asked her, "Mrs. Black, does Shirley Temple really live here?" My postcard from Phyllis Diller says: "Dropped into Wash. D.C. for lunch with Bob Hope and the Ken and Barbie dolls of the White House."

"Nobody needs eight hours. I'm always up at 5 a.m." Lou Ferrigno: "The attention I get these days is tough to deal with, like the endless kids, the pesty autographs, the women who want to grab me, but I still love it. I want more." Tony Danza: "Cars must be good for your eyes because the truth is I can't ever recall seeing a rabbit with glasses." Alan King: "My dentist's gone too far. He told me my teeth were fine but my gums will have to come out." And from Steve Martin: "The best way to stop nose in a car is to let her drive."

Peter Onorato is almost never without the Star of David on his neck because it was given to him many years ago by a close pal of his father's. He considers it his lucky piece. Glenda Jackson asked Fred Astaire to dance at a party and he said he didn't know borscht about ballroom dancing.

TV TATTLE

Police duo

Marshall Colt joins James Arness this fall. Colt, who appeared in the feature film "North Dallas Forty" as a young, whole-some, strait-laced quarterback, will co-star as the by-the-book detective partner of the character played by James Arness in "The James Arness Show," NBC's new police drama series starting in the fall.

Colt will portray Harry Bates, a 30-year-old detective forced by his superior officer to pair off with a recently reinstated police veteran (Arness), who joins the force to track down the slayer of a good friend.

Rose Garden on TV

A 16-year-old confined to a psychiatric hospital struggles to free herself from her fantasies with the help of an understanding psychiatrist in "I Never Promised You a Rose Garden." The drama will be broadcast for the first time on network television Sept. 2 on CBS.

Acclaimed Swedish actress Bibi Andersson stars as psychiatrist Dr. Fried, and Kathleen Quinlan stars as Deborah Blake, the patient plagued by the dark forces of her own mind. In "Rose Garden," which is set in the mid-1950s, Deborah Blake slowly gropes toward sanity, but various incidents — a manic outbreak in the ward at Christmas, the departure of Dr. Fried on vacation — precipitate breakdowns and drive the patient back toward the dismal world of physical restraint and cold packs. By the film's end, after an agonizing struggle, Deborah has taken a long step toward psychic freedom and mental health.

Theater life

The comedy sensation of the 1977-78 Off Broadway season was a two-character play called "A Life in the Theater," written by David Mamet, a young playwright with an unabashed love for the theater.

The television production of the play, starring Ellis Rabb and Peter Evans, returns on "Great Performances" to air Monday, Aug. 31, over PBS. (Local times may vary, check listings.)

A Life in the Theater is an affectionate look at the world of acting. David Mamet casts a sharp, comic eye on the mystery, illusion and code of behavior that are so much a part of the profession.

Gradually, "A Life in the Theater" becomes more than a warm and sophisticated look at the skill of acting. By the story's conclusion, it is clear that the production is also about the skill and ingenuity of living.

Adrienne Barbeau

Island antics

Janis Paige, Adrienne Barbeau, Bill Daily and Howard Duff star in "Magie on Love Island," a comic-romantic movie about the misadventures, mismatches and foibles of eight attractive, amiable vacationers at a lush tropical resort, to be rebroadcast on NBC Saturday, Sept. 5.

Paige stars as Madge, caretaker of the resort, who uses her magical powers for charitable purposes. She brings together four men and four women, most of whom are seeking a relaxing vacation from their individual problems. They happily discover each other — though each one's path to love often leads to the wrong companion.

SOAP OPERA WEEK

Nighttime 'Fantasies' stars daytime actors

By Nancy M. Reichardt

NEW YORK Five of your favorite daytime soap opera stars are busy filming a two-hour movie about a soap opera that is running out of cast members — they're being mysteriously "killed off."

Titled "Fantasies," the stars include Peter Bergman (Cliff Warner on "All My Children"), Stuart Damon (Alan Quartermaine on "General Hospital"), John Gabriel (Geneva Kane on "Ryan's Hope"), Robin Mittson (Heather Webber on "General Hospital") and Robert Woods (Bo Buchanan on "One Life to Live"). Also starring in the TV movie are Suzanne Pleshette and Barry Newman, who is a former daytime soap star himself.

The movie is being produced in Los Angeles now and is slated to be telecast as a prime-time show during the 1981-82 season on ABC.

Ted Leplat, who did such a good job of portraying the dastardly Andy Norris on "Guiding Light," isn't too upset by his character's demise. Ted has been utilizing his free time to record his first demo tape which features some of his own musical compositions.

In case you've been wondering why Kin Shriner (Jeb Hampton on "Texas") has been sporting a cast on his hand it's the result of a bicycle accident, which also involved his castmate, Caryn Richmond (Elena Dekker). Caryn's bruises were a little less conspicuous, however, since most of them were covered by the seat of her pants.

Newcomer Robin G. Eisenman portrays the insidious and manipulative Stacy Rawlins on "General Hospital." Though she's new to the soap, Robin's not new to acting and her resume includes over 20 co-starring and guest-starring roles on nighttime shows such as "Love Boat," "Dukes of Hazzard," and "The Waltons." She was also the vivacious Veronica Furley, Ian Knott's niece, on "Three's Company."

On "GH," she's nobody's niece, but she's set her sights on handsome Dr. Noah Drake, portrayed by actor Rick Springfield, which is sure to cause sparks between Stacy and Bobbi Spencer (Jackie Zeman).

(Have a question about soap operas? Write Nancy Reichardt at 200 Park Avenue, Room 602, New York, NY 10166.)

Suzanne Pleshette and Barry Newman

FRIDAY

These two shady ladies are the governor and Clayton (James Noble, r. and Rene Auberjonois) in a house of ill repute on "Benson," to be rebroadcast Friday, Aug. 28, on ABC.

Buried treasure brings danger in 'Key Tortuga'

It's a race to find sunken treasure, and no one is safe.

Two trained dolphins discover some bounty from a Spanish galleon that sank in the Atlantic Ocean centuries ago and a deadly race to recover the sunken loot begins.

The race for the treasure endangers the lives of humans and dolphins alike in "Key Tortuga," a one-hour adventure drama to be broadcast Wednesday, Sept. 2 on CBS.

Scott Thomas, Brett Cullen, Janet Julian and Paul Winfield star in the drama, which is set in the Florida Keys and filmed in Florida and the Bahamas.

Thomas portrays Capt. John Jack Tyrre, a Hemingway-esque skipper, who doesn't share his son (Cullen) and daughters (Miss Julian) fascination with dolphin communication until their two trained dolphins, Delphie and Largo, recover the sunken treasure.

Tyrre and his children, along with their close friend Cyclone Williams (Winfield), soon learn that others are also aware of the bounty — and will stop at nothing to secure it.

Thomas has appeared on numerous television series, including "Bonanza," "MacMillan and Wife" and "Project UFO." He has an extensive classical background on the stage and has acted at the New York Shakespeare Festival, the American Shakespeare Festival in Connecticut, the Globe Shakespeare Festival in San Diego, N.Y.'s Lincoln Center and L.A.'s Mark Taper Forum.

Cullen, a native Texan, had amassed an impressive list of stage credits at the Houston Shakespeare Festival when he was discovered by John Travolta's personal manager during the Houston filming of "Urban Cowboy." The manager urged Cullen to move to Los Angeles. Three weeks after he did, he was cast as Gideon Chisholm in "The Chisholms."

Miss Julian starred as Nancy Drew in the television series "Hardy Boys Nancy Drew Mysteries." Her additional television credits include appearances on "The Waltons," "Battleground Galactica," "BJ and the Bear" and "Here's Boomer." She also stars in the soon-to-be-released feature film "Follow That Car."

Winfield was nominated for an Academy Award for his role in "Sounder" and for an Emmy Award for his performance as Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. in the mini-series "King."

His numerous television appearances include roles in such mini-series as "Roots II" and "Backstairs at the White House," and on CBS in the movie "Angel City." Other feature film credits include "Conrack," "Hustle," "Twilight's Last Gleaming" and the soon-to-be-released "Carbon Copy."

Nothing of that mattered to me as long as they saved my dogs. They did.

Among other show folk who have shown a sensitivity to their pet animals are — Susan Flannery co-starred on "Dallas" last season as the treacherous and gorgeous female counterpart to J.R. Ewing (Larry Hagman). On a recent trip back to her native Manhattan, Susan startled a clerk at the ultra chic Bergdorf Goodman's when her vaguely orange neck ruff barked.

"It's alive!" squeaked the clerk. Yes indeed. Ever since the day Susan saw that doggie in the window he goes where she goes. His name is Oxnard.

He has an extensive classical background on the stage and has acted at the New York Shakespeare Festival, the American Shakespeare Festival in Connecticut, the Globe Shakespeare Festival in San Diego, N.Y.'s Lincoln Center and L.A.'s Mark Taper Forum.

Cullen, a native Texan, had amassed an impressive list of stage credits at the Houston Shakespeare Festival when he was discovered by John Travolta's personal manager during the Houston filming of "Urban Cowboy." The manager urged Cullen to move to Los Angeles. Three weeks after he did, he was cast as Gideon Chisholm in "The Chisholms."

Miss Julian starred as Nancy Drew in the television series "Hardy Boys Nancy Drew Mysteries." Her additional television credits include appearances on "The Waltons," "Battleground Galactica," "BJ and the Bear" and "Here's Boomer." She also stars in the soon-to-be-released feature film "Follow That Car."

Winfield was nominated for an Academy Award for his role in "Sounder" and for an Emmy Award for his performance as Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. in the mini-series "King."

His numerous television appearances include roles in such mini-series as "Roots II" and "Backstairs at the White House," and on CBS in the movie "Angel City." Other feature film credits include "Conrack," "Hustle," "Twilight's Last Gleaming" and the soon-to-be-released "Carbon Copy."

Movie stars and their faithful pets

By Ruth Thompson

When Zsa Zsa Gabor's mansion all but "melted down" a few seasons back in one of those incredibly quick fires that plague Los Angeles canyons in the dry season, a reporter approached her just as she got the bad news.

After she was assured that the servants had escaped, he asked her what among the valuables, jewels, art works might have been destroyed that would hurt her the most. She said:

Nothing of that mattered to me as long as they saved my dogs. They did.

Among other show folk who have shown a sensitivity to their pet animals are — Susan Flannery co-starred on "Dallas" last season as the treacherous and gorgeous female counterpart to J.R. Ewing (Larry Hagman). On a recent trip back to her native Manhattan, Susan startled a clerk at the ultra chic Bergdorf Goodman's when her vaguely orange neck ruff barked.

"It's alive!" squeaked the clerk. Yes indeed. Ever since the day Susan saw that doggie in the window he goes where she goes. His name is Oxnard.

Boulevard in honor of the street with that fateful window.

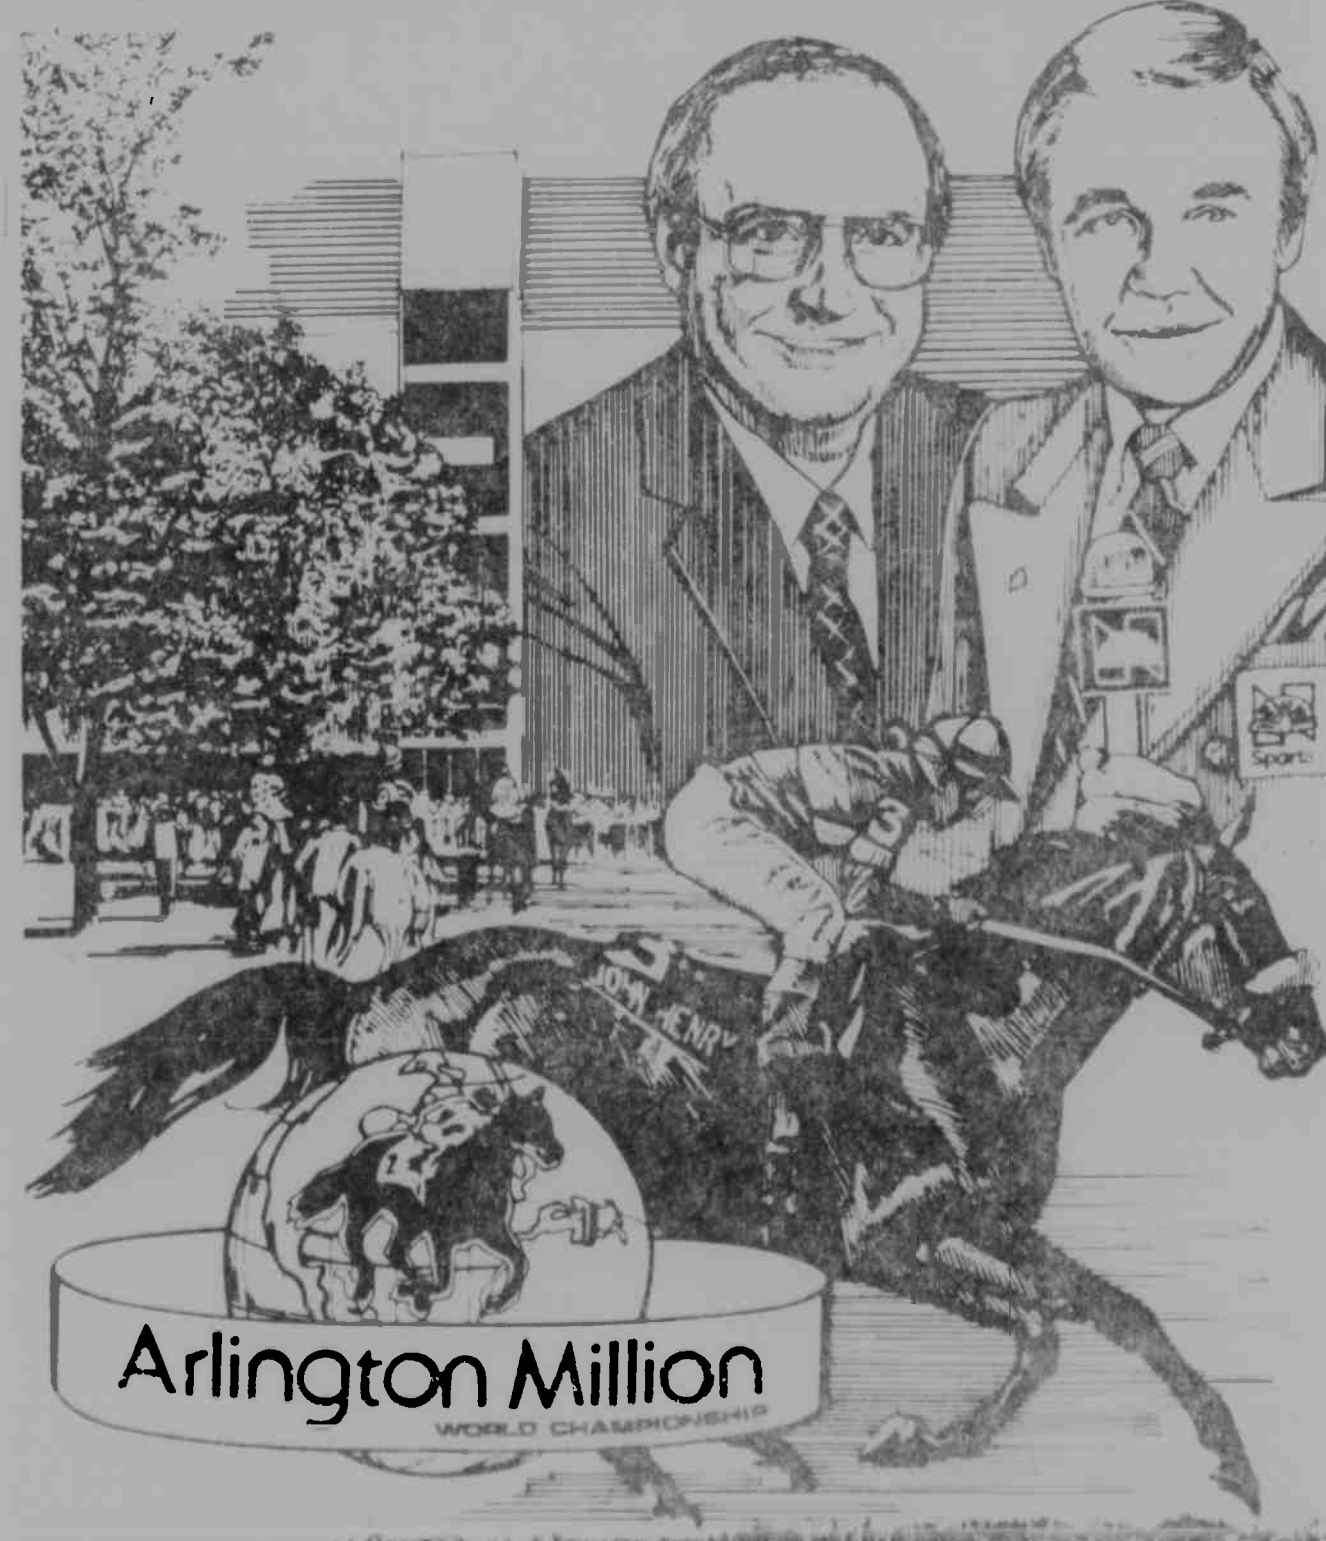

Mary Stuart — Joanne on CBS's "Search for Tomorrow" and the author of an autobiography, "Both of Me," published by Doubleday — thought she had, in her big sheepdog, Min, all the dog a Manhattan apartment could hold. Until, that is, her grocer said a small shaggy dog had been abandoned on his premises and would she, kind lady that she is, mind it until they could reach the ASPCA?

You can guess the rest. Tiger has been Mary's dog for about four years now. She's happy about the whole thing — though maybe big Min isn't. Fannie Faggi has a steady work pattern while NBC's "Harper Valley P.T.A." is in production. But other times she may criss-cross the country on personal appearances — and Bruce goes with her.

Bruce is an all white cat that Fannie rescued as a kitten from children who were menacing him. He's totally related about the Flagg peripatetic ways. He yawns as he crawls into his airline travel case and stays put in hotel rooms even if chambermaids unwittingly leave exit doors to the halls open. Bruce appreciates his good life. And Fannie appreciates Bruce.

Carla Borelli of the NBC daytime serial "Texas" said that as a youngster growing up near San Francisco, there were always dogs, cats and birds around. Now that she's based in New York, the most she feels she can have is birds.

Somebody gave me one parakeet. But I bought a second so it wouldn't be lonely. I enjoy their presence when I come in after a long work day.

DICK ENBERG (r.) and Pete Axthelm will provide commentary during the coverage of the Arlington Million World Championship, the richest thoroughbred race in history, to be telecast live as a special edition of "SportsWorld," to air Sunday, Aug. 30 on NBC.

Farewell, My Friend

by Craig Speicher

And then there was the small blue pond that was always my best friend when I was a growing boy. Formed in the hills of the Western Maryland Appalachians, it provided an intriguing habitat for various country-side creatures.

That pond

It grew with me. I was in the fourth grade and the pond had not yet been made. The car wash on the edge of town was just being built. It needed a water supply.

First came a bulldozer, carving an oversized teacup into the bottom of the hay hills.

And then it started to rain. Fast, like a newborn baby.

The trickle from the hills came. In the beginning was a ten-foot puddle, six inches deep in mud. And then it was ten yards across, and finally, fully grown, thirty yards. So very clear enough to admire insect life.

Then came the impudent dragonflies, challenging me to a game of tag. I never won, but several frogs did.

The brown algae came in like a male teen's beard. At first it was only a little fuzz, lapping around the pond's edge. And then it progressively thickened, until at full maturity, thick enough to need removing, it provided solid support for the slender watersnakes, floating within it, hidden except for their bullet-shaped heads jutting above the water.

The fat bullfrogs led the country band in the evenings. During the days, they would bask beneath the sun as they floated with the algae and pond weed.

One day the pond was stocked with young trout. In the evenings I fed them commercial fish food to hasten their growth. This brought schools of them racing to the shore like a class of first-graders swarming to the bus on a bright spring day.

Then began the acrobatics on the shimmering, golden, twilight pondtop. Trout fracturing the water, leaving behind their trademark of ripples. Barn Swallows flitting crazy figures across the water, breaking the surface in hot pursuit of invisible insects, alternately rising slightly then dipping, like one of the flat stones I often sent skipping across the water.

After several years a few bluegills assumed residency. It seems they were the only fish glibble enough to swallow the bait on the line of my home-made pole. They were usually thrown back in because they were too small to keep, though the larger ones tasted better than bacon and eggs.

A couple more years passed, and muskrats moved in, cutting a web of tunnels deep into the earth, mining for they alone knew what. Their exitways were easily identified by the clean-cut, serpentine paths through the tall, lush grasses leading to the water. Out of fear they would drain the dam, I strategically laid traps in the rat-rooms several inches under the water. One dead water-rat was my only reward.

One summer in my pre-teens, I built what else a boat with a few abandoned boards from a nearby lumber pile. It worked better than any yacht ever did. That is, until the day I overloaded it with some stones I was transporting across the pond, and it suddenly sank in mid-voyage faster than I thought was possible, a victim of its heavy cargo. I never saw it again.

It was on a freezing gray day, in the midst of a miserable winter, when I found a baby duck with a broken wing, tucked like baby Moses well back in behind a clump of pond-edge grasses, looking for warmth where none existed. I couldn't doctor him back to health despite numerous references to a first aid manual. He died, but died well-fed.

I was ice-skating one afternoon the same winter when the ice suddenly began to give way beneath me. Moments later I realized the break was only partial, and skated to safety, but not before I learned how to pray fast. What a place for devotions.

It was on this pond that I discovered girls. I had a series of dates; there, the silver moon above confirming the divine quality of my mission into higher education, and the stars, bearing witness of the excellency of my progress.

Time moved on. Silt washing in from the hills gradually replaced the water around the pond's upper edge, significantly reducing the original contour. My own measurements had also changed since I had first seen the pond. I was much taller.

Finally one day, I left Smalltown for City College. Often I recharged my tired mind with the memories of that placid place.

A couple more years passed. The other day I roamed back across the high, hallowed hills for a friendly visit with the old refuge.

And by now it had turned into a river.

Of a-plaht! And the new epitaphic freeway, for miles upon miles, spelled out its message—of the progress of man.

ing ministry. Leake also conducted radio broadcasts over a number of stations reaching into many states from coast to coast.

Looking At Antiques With The Country Boy

ORIENTAL RUGS

Buying and collecting oriental rugs is a field all of its own. If one is interested in entering this field some of the following guidelines may be helpful.

1. Specialize. Find a field which appeals to you and learn all you can about it.

2. Good oriental carpets will have a natural sheen and the colors will not run into each other.

3. The backing will probably be brittle, worn down and shiny from use.

4. The surface will be sculptured and molded.

5. The more knots per square inch the better the carpet.

A fine oriental rug should be washed every two years in de-ionized water with a very mild castile soap and a vinegar rinse and then dried in hot sunlight.

We are always interested in buying good antiques—one piece or a houseful.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Rodeheaver, Oakland. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lysander Dudley, Sr., Morgantown, W. Va.

Given in marriage by her parents and escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of white chiffon with a Queen Anne neckline decorated with Venise lace, encrusted with pearls. Her bishop sleeves ended in lace cuffs and the natural waistline fell to a full-bordered skirt around the chapel train. Her Juliet cap, covered with matching lace and pearls was accented with a fingertip-length veil of silk illusion netting. She wore a diamond necklace, a gift from the groom. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of white phalaenopsis orchids, white stephanotis and ivy.

Mrs. Rhonda Rollins, Davton, Ohio, served as her sister's matron of honor. Mrs. Roslyn France, Mt. Lake Park, served her sister as bridesmaid. The matron of honor and bridesmaid wore gowns of erise chiffon and carried cascade bouquets of pink rosebuds, white stephanotis and ivy.

Acting as best man was Robert Meek, Boise, Idaho, brother of the groom. Ushers were Thomas Meek, London,

Stevenson-Pifer Couple Wed In Aug. 1 Ceremony

Ellen Ruth Stevenson became the bride of Michael Pifer in a double-ring ceremony in Hillcrest United Presbyterian Church, Burgettstown, Pa., on Saturday, August 1, with Dr. Edward Eshbaugh officiating.

The bride is the daughter of the late John and June Stevenson who were from Burgettstown, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Pifer, Terra Alta, W. Va.

The bride wore a gown of white crystal knit designed with an empire waist line, long straight sleeves and a full length A-line skirt that extended into a chapel length train. The gown was enhanced by a jeweled neckline and Venise lace motifs. Her fingertip veil, which she had fashioned herself, was edged in lace and fell from a half cap adorned with seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of daisies, white carnations, yellow roses and baby's breath tied with a yellow ribbon. For something old, borrowed and blue she wore a gold pin with a blue flower design that once belonged to her great grandmother.

The maid of honor, Diane Burke, of Glenville, W. Va., college roommate of the bride, wore a yellow knit gown made with a crocheted bodice which fell into a pleated skirt. Her bouquet was of daisies, white carnations and baby's breath.

Paul Stevenson, of Canonsburg, Pa., a cousin of the bride, was best man.

A reception followed the ceremony in the Fellowship Hall of the church. About 60 guests attended.

After the reception the couple left for a honeymoon in Williamsburg, Va.

Ellen is a 1974 graduate of Burgettstown Area High School and received both B.S. and M.S. degrees from West Virginia University. She is currently employed as the Director of Child Development at Garrett Community College in Oakland.

The groom is a 1971 graduate of Terra Alta High School and is employed at the Preston County Courthouse, Kingwood.

ASCS Provides Names Of Crop Insurance Agents

Farmers now can call or visit any of the Maryland county offices of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service to get a list of local federal crop insurance representatives. Stuart C. Peterson, acting chairperson of the State ASC Committee, says the agents will explain how farmers can receive insurance protection for their crops.

Farmers may also call 1-800-447-4700, a toll-free number, to get names of local agents who sell all-risk insurance.

September 30 is the last day for winter wheat and barley producers in Maryland to sign up for the insurance on their 1982 crop. Federal crop insurance is available in every county in Maryland.

USDA urges farmers to sign up for the insurance coverage before the deadline and cautions them not to expect ASCS disaster program protection to be available next year. According to Peterson, current legislation being considered by Congress calls for disaster payments only in those counties where the federal crop insurance is not available.

The future plans of the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation is to establish insurance coverage on most agricultural crops. The expansion is part of an overall effort to assure virtually every farmer the opportunity to take advantage of the all-risk crop insurance program.

USDA statistics show that each year, one of every 14 planted acres never make it to harvest.

The federal crop insurance is a self-help assistance program designed to provide economic protection for farm families. Next year, the coverage will be available nationwide on corn, wheat, cotton, grain sorghum, rice, and barley—the six major crops. Major producing areas growing 22 other crops also will be covered.

Peterson reminded farmers that the list of agents authorized by FCIC to sell all-risk crop insurance may be obtained by calling or visiting the local county ASCS office.

Farming in Maryland

Meat Production Statistics Noted

Commercial red meat production for July in Maryland and Delaware totalled 8.8 million pounds, announced the Maryland-Delaware Crop Reporting Service. Production decreased four percent from last month, but was eight percent above the previous year. The January to July total amounted to 69.9 million pounds, two percent above the same period a year earlier.

Cattle slaughter in July totalled 4,800 head compared with 4,500 in June 1981 and 5,100 in July 1980. Liveweight averaged 1,106 pounds for the month, 10 pounds heavier than the previous month and 16 pounds heavier than last year. Total liveweight, at 5.29 million pounds, increased six percent from June, but dropped five percent below a year earlier.

Calves slaughtered during June dropped 500 head below June to 2,100 head. Total liveweight stood at 681,000 pounds for an average of 328 pounds per head.

Hogs butchered in June dropped to 31,900 head, eight percent less than the previous month, but 18 percent above July 1980. Liveweight per head averaged 225 pounds, down three pounds from last month, but two pounds heavier than last year. Total liveweight of 7.18 million pounds was nine percent below June, but 19 percent above July of last year.

Sheep and lambs slaughtered totalled 3,200 head, compared with 2,900 head in June and 2,700 head a year ago. The liveweight per head averaged 103 pounds, one pound above the previous month and last year. Total liveweight was 333,000 pounds, up 14 percent from last month and up 21 percent from July 1980.

Plastic Loop To Be Used In War Against Mastitis

A small, inexpensive plastic loop could be the answer to a $2 billion a year problem for the nation's dairy industry and its 11 million dairy cattle, according to a release from the University of Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station.

The polyethylene loop is called an intramammary device (IMD) and the costly problem is mastitis, an infection of a cow's udder that decreases milk yield and quality while wreaking economic havoc with dairy farmers.

Inserting the IMD in a cow's udder may reduce the incidence of mastitis infection, according to Dr. Robert R. Peters of the University of Maryland, who is conducting the first large-scale field trials of the device since its invention by a California veterinarian.

In fact, says Dr. Peters, the little plastic loop could curb the $24 million annual loss suffered by Maryland's dairymen alone by as much as 44 percent, with no subsequent loss in quality or quantity of milk yield.

"The principle is very simple," says Dr. Peters who, in cooperation with researchers at USDA in Beltsville and master's candidate Norm Corlett, is field testing the loop on Carroll County farms for the University of Maryland's Agricultural Experiment Station.

Once inserted, the device causes a mild irritation which triggers the release of leukocytes—or white blood cells—in the udder.

"The white blood cells, in turn destroy the bacteria causing mastitis," he says. Until now, dairy farmers have battled mastitis with preventive measures such as dipping the udder and treating with approved drugs.

While these measures have been responsible for reducing mastitis by as much as 50 percent a year, their use causes cattle to become susceptible to more severe forms of the infection.

Thus, says Dr. Peters, new methods of prevention are needed to combat the wider spectrum of mastitis pathogens.

Normally, a cow has its own natural immunities to an infection—the white blood cells. However, it takes nearly 24 hours for white blood cell counts to rise sufficiently to counteract an invading infection.

By that time, according to Dr. Peters, the infection may be entrenched.

The IMD, on the other hand, prompts a ready supply of white blood cells to prevent the bacterial buildup and programs a quick response to infection.

Approximately 200 head of dairy cattle from three Carroll County farms are involved in the field research.

The research is necessary before IMDs can be recommended officially and made available to dairy farmers for mastitis prevention.

KEEP A GOOD THING GROWING —

Sidedress Your Corn Now For Highest Yields.

Back at planting time, you applied nitrogen to get your corn off to a good start. Now, it makes sense agronomically and economically to give your crop a sidedress application. Research has proven this will further increase your yields. You can put the nitrogen down yourself, or let us do it for you.

The cost ratio between nitrogen and marketed corn is currently favorable. So keep a good thing growing. Get a bigger, better crop by applying nitrogen now as a sidedressing. You'll be glad you did come harvest time. Give us a call today.

Fall Webworm
Now Making Its Annual Appearance

Those silky colonies now appearing on the tips of tree branches around the state are created by the fall webworm reports Dr. J. Lee Hellman, Extension insect specialist and associate professor of entomology at the University of Maryland.

Dr. Hellman says there is a general misconception that those silky colonies are the work of the eastern tent caterpillar, a pest which usually shows up in May and has preference for wild cherry, crabapple and similar trees.

The Maryland Extension specialist explains, however, that the webworm feasts on the leaves of a wide variety of leaf-losing (deciduous) trees throughout the summer and that this is the pest that many persons are now noticing.

In the Mid-Atlantic area, the webworm produces two or three generations per year. But it goes virtually unnoticed until August, when the largest brood usually appears.

The webworm is easier to control and is probably less damaging than its distant cousin, the tent caterpillar, Hellman says. It builds silky nests at the ends of prominent branches and generally devours leaves only in sections of the tree close to its nest.

By contrast, tent caterpillars hide their nests in the forks of branches and range far from their home base, sometimes devouring all of the leaves on a tree.

Each nest of fall webworms contains 100 to 200 caterpillars, and there may be 10 or more nests per infested tree during peak outbreak years. Dr. Hellman commented. But one or two nests per infested tree is the usual number.

The main problem with webworms is that they can create unsightly conditions for homeowners, the Maryland entomologist noted. But there is mounting belief that this native crawler plays an increasingly important role in the expanding fight against the much more destructive gypsy moth, an imported pest that ravages woodlands in the northeast.

Webworm pupae or larvae furnish material on which native parasites that may attack the gypsy moth can overwinter, Dr. Hellman points out.

Mechanical methods of control include the following: prune infested branch tips and dispose of them in a garbage can; or comb off webworm tents with hands or a leaf rake; and crush the caterpillars, burn them, or dispose of them in garbage can.

Chemical control measures should be reserved primarily for infestations of caterpillars that are difficult to reach, Hellman said. They involve using one of the following insecticides according to label instructions: carbaryl (Sevin); diazinon (including Spectracide insect sprays); and certain malathion formulations.

For immature caterpillars, persons can use a bacterial agent such as Bt (Dipel or Thuricide).

Additional information is available from county offices of the Maryland Cooperative Extension Service. Since chemical formulations for controlling the fall webworm are identical to those for the tent caterpillar, interested persons may want to ask for free mimeographed information sheet titled "The Eastern Tent Caterpillar" (Entomology leaflet 21).

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of William (Billy) Earl Fisher, who died nineteen years ago, Sept. 1, 1962. To some you may long be forgotten, to others just a part of the past, but to those who loved and lost you, your memory will always last. Your end was so sudden, we could not understand why, but the saddest part of all, you did not have time to say good bye. We think of you in silence, our secret tears still flow, what it meant to lose you, no one will ever know. Why did God take you from us, we try to understand, a child of only twelve not yet a man.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of Roy Eugene Fisher, who died one year ago, August 22, 1980. Your cherished smile, your vacant chair, we can still see you sitting there. You never complained or had much to say. Your eyes reflected satisfaction or despair, but your words of wisdom and the love you shared, around our kitchen table, sitting in your favorite chair, will always be cherished. We know how much you cared. Your vacancy has left only memories, since you've gone to rest, you will never be forgotten by those who loved you best.

Stanton Earns Master's Degree

Thomas W. Stanton, Cumberland, a former Garrett County resident, has earned a master of science degree in management from the Graduate Center for Management Development, Frostburg State College.

A 1968 graduate of the University of Maryland, Stanton is also the recipient of a diploma from the U. S. Army Signal Corps School for Surveillance Radar Repair at Fort Monmouth, N. J.

He is presently the manager of the Fort Hill Clay Mines, Fort Hill, Pa., and the superintendent of Pennsylvania Mines for General Refractories Company, C. S. Refractories Division, Pittsburgh, Pa. General Refractories Company is a mineral resource company engaged internationally in the manufacture and sale of refractories, building and insulating materials, and filtration and filter products.

Prior to joining General Refractories, Stanton was safety director at Inella Mining in Grantsville.

He served a tour of duty with the U. S. Army as a SPT in Inchon, Korea.

A 1961 graduate of Northern High School, Stanton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy S. Stanton, Sr., Grantsville. His wife is the former Carolee Johnson, and they have two children, Kevin and Lisa.

Dam Dedication Related Events Are Announced

The Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin (ICPRB) will sponsor public activities related to the dedication of the Bloomington Dam on Saturday, September 19. A meeting, entitled "The Challenge of the North Branch" will be held at the Potomac State College in Keeseville, N. Y., at 9 a.m. Mid-day field trips to the Upper Potomac River Commission and Westcoast Corporation's Lake mill will follow the meeting, and an evening banquet from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. at Cumberland's Alt (Glen Shrine will cap the day's activities.

The Bloomington Dam, the first major impoundment of water on the Potomac, will be dedicated on Sunday, September 20, at 2 p.m. The impounding of water by the dam, the third highest earthen dam east of the Mississippi, will result in a 952-acre lake. The $17.5 million Bloomington project includes, among other things, a 45-story control tower, a 90-foot high dike, a large spillway and a 1,035-foot tunnel used to divert the flow of the North Branch during the construction period. The dam itself is nearly 300 feet high, and up to 390 feet wide at the base.

The Bloomington Dam will provide water supply, water quality, flood control and recreational benefits. According to the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, the lake is beginning to fill at a rate of about one foot a day since the completion of the main embankment July 11, however it will probably be next summer before it can be used by boaters. Because of the acidity of the water brought on by upstream mines the lake will not support fish life.

Officials with the Corps of Engineers estimate that the dam will prevent about $2 million per year in flood damage.

Art Guild Is Seeking Members

The newly-formed Garrett County Art Guild is conducting a membership drive for all area artists, professional and amateur. Local artists are invited to attend the next group meeting at Garrett Community College. Meetings are held the third Wednesday of every month at 7 p.m.

The aim of the Guild is to promote and exhibit original works by local artists who have found minimal or no outlets for their work. It is also designed to give artists an opportunity to meet each other and discuss issues in the art world.

According to Sonja Pratt, group member, guest speakers will be invited to attend the group's meetings to help members become aware of their potential, and to understand how other organizations are functioning.

Some Guild members will participate in a show and sale during the Labor Day weekend, to be held at Ralph Kretzler's barn on Route 10 near Grantsville, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Friday through Sunday. Continuous demonstrations will be presented by Guild members.
